Shake-up in the administration of the Orange County Water District was revealed today by C. A. Palmer, secretary of the organization, as he announced his resignation and that of two other members of the board, and the probable election of a new director.

Palmer will not be a candidate for re-election as a director of the water board in the annual meeting in February, he stated. In addition to his resignation he reported that Director William T. MERCURY SOARS TO DECEMBER RECORD

With record temperatures for December in all parts of Southern California recorded yesterday, Santa Ana and Orange county today continued on the even tenor of its way with high but not record warm weather as the weatherman reported the end of the warm period.

While Los Angeles and vicinity sweltered under a temperature of 92 degrees, the hottest December day in 62 years of recording of the weather bureau, thermometers in Santa Ana reached 82 degrees at 2 p. m. yesterday for the day's high.

Beaches Popular

The high pressure area that brought the warm weather today was moving on and cooler temperatures were forecast as thousands of Southland residents flocked to beaches and Christmas shoppers made their purchases in shirtsleeves and summer frocks.

Elsewhere in Southern California, San Diego's old record of 84 fell when the mercury hit 84.2; 15 miles west of San Diego reported 95 San Bernardino 93; San Luis Opispo, 89.

The 92 degrees for Los Angeles was only three degrees under the high of 95 for the entire year of 1938 which was reached on August 1 and again on August 12.

Low in Santa Ana this morning was 51 at 5 a. m. At noon today the temperature was 73 as the thermometer continued to climb.

Blame Error For Train Crash

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(UP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission bureau of safety reported today that collision of two fast Southern Pacific passenger trains at Tortuga, Calif., Sept. 20, in which 11 persons were killed and 139 injured was caused by a brakeman opening a switch in violation of train orders.

The bureau said the error was caused by "a slip of the mind." The two trains, the eastbound "Californian" and the west bound "Argonaut" crashed on a siding at Tortuga.

The bureau of safety noted that the two trains were made up partly of lightweight cars intended for lightweight streamline trains and partly of standard heavy steel equipment. All the passenger fatalities occurred in a lightweight coach of the Californian.

Faces Prison For Slaying

FRESNO, Cal., Dec. 9.—(UP)—Olen E. Jones, 23, was found guilty today of manslaughter in the death of the girl he said he planned to elope with—but found with another man.

Turning down prosecution demands that Jones be found guilty of first degree murder, a jury of nine women and three men returned the manslaughter verdict. It carries a state prison term of from one to 10 years.

Jones, however, must face trial again Monday before the same jury on his plea of not guilty by reason of insanity. He had pleaded not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity.

FDR TO SEEK FUNDS FOR ANTI-SPY WAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(UP)—President Roosevelt said today that he will ask the new Congress for additional funds so that the American intelligence services can check up on the secret police and spies of other nations.

The chief executive outlined his plans in a discussion of the spy situation. He announced that Lamar Hardy, U. S. district attorney for New York who has been prosecuting spy cases, has resigned effective in January.

Just Beginning

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that the spy situation was by no means cleared up by the ending of the recent trial in New York City. He said that the roots go down pretty deep.

He said this nation needed no OGPU or a secret police to watch the American people but it did need to watch the secret police of other nations. This, he said, was a fine distinction.

The President told newspapermen that the coordination of U. S. intelligence services had been achieved at his direction and was functioning effectively and smoothly.

"Amazing Job"

Mr. Roosevelt paid tribute to Hardy's work on the New York spy cases, observing that he talked over the whole situation with Hardy at a White House conference yesterday.

The president said that Hardy did an amazing job. He remarked that it was very easy for any district attorney to try petty criminals but to go the the source of the criminal problem involved in espionage was another matter.

Police To Guard New York Mayor

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(UP)—A special police guard was arranged for Mayor F. H. Laguardia at his citizens' rally against oppression at Carnegie Hall tonight because of a threat against his life.

Fingerprint and ballistics experts of the police department and postoffice inspectors examined a letter and a loaded cartridge enclosed in it. The letter read: "You will get this if you continue to attack the German Nazi party." The signature was a reversed swastika—the Nazi emblem backwards. The bullet was a .22 caliber long. It was encased in a small cardboard box. The handwriting was bold and upright.

"Usually I ignore messages like this from cranks, but this one is different and I think it should be made public," the mayor said. He said it was the first letter he had ever received directly threatening his life.

L. A. Slaying Suspect Nabbed

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Police held Joseph LaForte today as a suspect in the holdup-murder at Los Angeles of Isadore Horlick, a grocer, on April 21, 1936. Two patrolmen arrested him on suspicion late yesterday and learned through bureau of identification records that he was wanted for questioning about the slaying.

Police said he denied that he was in Los Angeles in 1936 and that Los Angeles police had advised them they would start immediate proceedings for his extradition. Three other men are serving terms at the San Quentin penitentiary for participation in the slaying.

U. S. TO ACT IN FAR EAST

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(UP)—The unexpected recall for consultation of the American ambassador to China foreshadowed today a revision of far eastern policy in an effort to frustrate complete Japanese dominance and control of trade with China.

A delicate international situation had been created by Japan's alleged violation of the nine power treaty guaranteeing the territorial integrity of China and the alleged establishment, by military force of commercial preferences for Japan to the almost complete exclusion of other powers.

Plan Action

This government will make every effort through diplomatic channels to obtain assurances from Japan that equality of opportunity in China will be continued. But high administration officials indicated that, regardless of the action of

MEXICO GRABS MORE U. S.-OWNED LANDS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Further expropriation of foreign owned land included the United States Sugar Company estates in Sinaloa began today.

Sherwood Johnston of San Francisco is president of the sugar company. It is located at Los Mochis on the west coast.

The action was taken in another extensive application by President Cardenas of the Agrarian reform law wherein large estates are cut up into peasant holdings. Cabino Vasquez, chief of the agrarian department, flew to Sinaloa to effect the land division. He was accompanied by Julian Rodriguez Adame, engineer and head of the agrarian credit bank.

Execute Resolutions

It was announced they would join the governor of Sinaloa state "in the execution of agrarian resolutions which affect vast extensions of lands of Sinaloa including some belonging to foreigners, such as Los Mochis."

Johnston, the sugar company president, has lived in Mexico since he was indicted in the United States with 49 others on a $10,000,000 liquor smuggling conspiracy charge.

He settled, Wednesday, a $2,250,000 government claim against him for $33,304 and it was indicated the criminal charges would be dropped. He cannot be extradited.

Resume Tideland Oil Inquiry

With defense attorneys attempting to show that the state made a good deal when it sold royalty oil to M. M. McCallen, mayor of Huntington Beach, the tideland oil investigation was resumed in Los Angeles yesterday.

Prentiss Moore, counsel for Carl Sturzenacker and A. A. Alexander, suspended officials of the State Division of Lands, cross-examined Tracy Atherton, division engineer and last prosecution witness, who said the state made a profit of $10,073 from the sale.

The amount, he explained to the State Personnel board, represents the profit accruing to the state by accepting the royalty in oil rather than cash.

The prosecution contends the oil could have been sold by competitive bidding for a higher price.

President Reveals Plans For New Reorganization Campaign

Film Colony In Boycott

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9.—(UP)—The names of Hollywood movie stars, known the world around, today were injected into a proposed economic boycott of Nazi Germany with the hope that the power of these names will make the drive successful.

All the Hollywood touches will be applied with the movement climaxed by the filming of stars as they sign a "1938 declaration of independence" calling upon the government and the people of the United States to break off economic relations with Germany until that country "returns to the family of nations."

60 Attend Session

The apparently spontaneous movement reached the formal meeting stage last night at the home of Film Star Edward G. Robinson when approximately 60 leading members of the film industry gathered to form an organization to sponsor the boycott.

Melvyn Douglas, who called the meeting, informed the assemblage that the time had come for "the power of publicity of the film in-

'MISSING MILLIONS' MYSTERY IS PROBED

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(UP)—The "mystery of the missing $10,000,000"—a shortage which threw the 105-year old drug and liquor company of McKesson & Robbins into receivership—developed today into one of the most fantastic cases of financial trickery in Wall street annals.

Investigators for the Stock Exchange, the Securities and Exchange Commission and other agencies were only beginning to get under the surface of the situation that was revealed with disclosure that upward of $10,000,000 of the company's listed assets of $86,556,269 had vanished.

Bewildered

But already they had before them the testimony of two corporation officers who were themselves bewildered. The Stock Exchange made public testimony given by W. L. Cummings, a director, and Julian F. Thompson, treasurer and also a director.

Their statements included:

1.—That "Canadian warehouses" which supposedly held large amounts of the company's stock of crude drugs turned out on investigation to be only mailing addresses.

Illicit Business

2.—That the crude drug department for years had traded with a Canadian and a British firm that proved to be a mere "shell."

3.—That the two officials believed the firm, unknown to most of its executives, may have engaged in the illicit drug and alcohol business "in a big way."

4.—That forged "Dun & Bradstreet" reports were used to help conceal the manipulations.

5.—That they believed that F. Donald Coster, president of the company and its largest stockholder, himself initiated the proceedings which led to appointment of receivers by the federal court in Hartford, Conn., and that the appointment of receivers there may be illegal.

Plan To Test Validity of Act

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Possibility of a test case developed today on the ruling of Rufus Poole, assistant counsel for the Federal Fair Labor Standards Acts that California employers who reduce the hours of women workers from 48 to 44 weekly need not pay the state minimum wage of $16 a week.

Poole's opinion was given to Mabel Kinney, chief of the state division of industrial welfare, and was based, he said, on the labor department's interpretation of the word "wage".

Poole said the labor department had held that the word wage refers to hourly pay and that the wage-hour act contains no prohibition against reduction of a weekly wage so long as the hourly wage is not reduced.

YEAR'S 12 "BANNER STORIES" SHOW HITLER IN LEADING ROLE

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany dominated world news in 1938, according to a list of the 12 big news stories of the year as announced today by the United Press.

The selections were made by the editors of the United Press in New York, where dispatches from correspondents around the world pass over the domestic and foreign desks before being distributed to newspapers in the United States and South America.

Crime News Lags

Nazi policies were responsible for three of the first four leading stories of the year, whereas so-called "crime news" and domestic politics figured less prominently than in previous years.

Earl J. Johnson, U. P. vice president and general news manager, described 1938 as the biggest news year since the World war.

"More stories of genuine concern to people in practically all countries developed this year than in any twelve months since 1918," Johnson said. "Nineteen twenty-seven produced tremendous headlines with Lindbergh's flight to Paris and the other ocean flights of that summer. But the value of those stories was mainly inspiration and entertainment. They did not vitally affect human life. The inauguration of President Roosevelt made 1933 a big year for domestic news, but in terms of

ITALIAN, FRENCH POLICE MOVE TO QUELL STUDENT UPRISINGS

ROME, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Hundreds of policemen and carabinieri swept down on students holding an anti-French demonstration today, dispersed them after scuffles in which noses were bloodied, and arrested several.

Observers expressed belief that the apparent change of official policy regarding demonstrations might be of some significance, and that authorities might have decided to prevent further manifestations.

Break Up Parade

Several hundred high school students gathered this morning, as other students had gone in past days without discouragement. They marched down the Corso Umberto, shouting "Tunisia! Corsica!" and tried to reach the Venice Square to hold a demonstration before the office of Premier Benito Mussolini.

To their surprise the police and carabinieri quickly broke up their

Plan Appeal In Murder Case

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.— (UP)— Attorneys for Robert Nixon, 18, negro, prepared an appeal to the state supreme court today in a final attempt to save him from death in the electric chair for the slaying May 27 of Mrs. Florence Johnson, Chicago housewife.

Acting Gov. John Stelle granted him a fifth reprieve yesterday to permit the attorneys to make the appeal. He set Dec. 16 as the date for the execution. Nixon had been scheduled to die early today.

Spread Net For Missing Killer

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 9.—(UP) Police spread a dragnet over the entire Southern California area today in an effort to trap the slayer of Isaac Hallem, 55-year-old pawn broker who was bludgeoned to death at his store yesterday

Several suspects were rounded up by police, but all were released after questioning.

An all points bulletin was broadcast asking authorities to be on the lookout for a "bushy-haired" man wearing a light shirt and greenish pants who was seen leaving the store shortly before Hallem was found dying in a pool of blood.

Three Bandit Suspects Jailed

FRESNO, Cal., Dec. 9.—(UP)—Three youths who allegedly confessed they were responsible for an epidemic of automobile thefts which had puzzled police were turned over to juvenile authorities today for prosecution on possible grand theft and burglary charges.

Detective Sergeant Walter Kosmosky said the trio, all high school students, admitted stealing 16 cars and staging three burglaries.

20 Killed In Typhoon

MANILA, Dec. 9.—(UP)—A savage typhoon that killed at least 20 persons, made hundreds homeless and caused at least $750,000 damage in the southern provinces subsided today.

Fear that the freighter Admiral Holstead, a 2007 ton ship under charter to the American President Lines, had been lost with a crew of 35 was dispelled when the vessel arrived safely at the southern island port of Hondagua.

Ride Out Storm

The Admiral Holstead, commanded by Captain E. E. Johnson, rode out the full fury of the storm in Sorsogon bay. A search was started for the ship when radio contact was interrupted and she failed to return to Legaspi harbor to finish loading cargo as scheduled.

The typhoon, one of the worst in years, disrupted communications lines. Provincial authorities and Red Cross units arrived at the stricken areas and dispensed emergency relief to refugees. Natives congregated at emergency camps until flooded watercourses subsided.

CALHOUN DEFENSE RAPPED BY TURNER

Attacking both phases of Charles Calhoun's defense to the charge of murdering Clyde Dillinger, Assistant District Attorney Preston Turner late yesterday urged the jury to disregard the claim that Calhoun was unconscious when he shot Dillinger to death, or that he deserved the protection of the unwritten law.

Turner's opening argument to the jury came shortly before court adjourned over the week end, adjournment coming with Defense Attorney N. D. Meyer in the midst of his reply to Turner. The argument will be resumed Monday morning, and the jury may receive the case some time during the day.

Says Killer Calm

Describing Calhoun's actions at the time of the shooting, Turner declared that the slayer was acting calmly and surely, as one in full possession of his faculties. Seeing Dillinger in the yard of the Midway City home where the killing took place last June, Calhoun walked calmly to the rear of the house, obtained a 30-30 rifle, loaded it, walked to a bathroom window, talked with Dillinger through the window and then shot him. Then, said Turner, Calhoun walked through doorways without stumbling, found his way outside and fired again at Dillinger.

His actions, said the prosecutor, were not those of an hysterical person, or one not aware of what he was doing, as the defense claims. Calhoun, next day after the killing, made a full statement of his actions to Turner and officers, but at the trial testified that he neither remembers the shooting, nor making a statement about it.

Skeptical

As to Calhoun's claim that Dillinger had betrayed Calhoun's wife, sought to betray his sister, and abused his mother after marrying her, so that Calhoun's mind snapped under the tension, the district attorney was frankly skeptical.

He was willing to admit, he told the jury, that anyone such as Dillinger had been described, was not entitled to sympathy, "but before we weep over Calhoun's wrongs, let us be sure that they are true and real," he urged.

Bank of America Reveals Income

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9—(UP)—The 1938 income of Bank of America, largest single asset of the huge holding company Transamerica Corporation, will be the largest in its 34 year history, John M. Grant, president of Transamerica announced today.

Grant said this was significant in view of the "wide publicity" which has been given to Securities and Exchange Commission allegations that "irregularities" were discovered in Transamerica's statement of profits and assets in 1937.

The SEC has scheduled a public hearing on the charges against Transamerica, starting Jan. 16.

FDR'S FOES PLAN FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(UP)—President Roosevelt said today that he would seek a government reorganization program from the new congress and would embody his ideas on the subject in a special message.

The President said that he made good progress in his discussion of reorganization yesterday with a group of experts on the subject including Sen. Byrnes, D., S. C.

Opposition Certain

Mr. Roosevelt's statement came as anti-administration Democrats displayed confidence that they will be able to defeat reorganization legislation in the new congress unless the Chief Executive offers further compromise with their objections.

Asked whether there would be any fundamental changes in the bills as distinguished from those of the last session, Mr. Roosevelt replied that he did not know, adding, however, that the point was a simple one inasmuch as all admit, even including some columnists, that we do need improvement in government.

That is the big salient point, he declared.

Up To Congress

He asserted that congress has information on the subject covering the past 40 years. He said that the responsibility of effecting improvement in government rested with the congress. As to the number of bills needed in connection with reorganization he said that was entidely a congressional matter.

This remark was believed to indiate that the administration may be prepared to allow congressional reorganization legislation to be taken up in a series of related bills instead of in one omnibus measure such as was beaten in the house last session.

Separate Bills

Congressional spokesmen have indicated belief that several noncontroversial phases of reorganization could easily be enacted if submitted separately.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked about a $200,000 budget item for the exploration of matters of administration pertinent to reorganization. He said a committee was still at work on that.

The President was asked whether he planned to seek legislation designed to facilitate additional credit and capital loans for business. He said he did not expect to.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked whether he had received an offer of 30,000 acres of land in Florida as a refuge for persecuted German Jews. He said he never heard of it.

Mrs. James Givens, president of the P.-T. Meanwhile P.-T. A. officials will make a complete survey to ascertain the number of children in families of the needy, the type of toys and food most suitable for them, and the amount of needs of the needy families.

Just before the baskets are sent out, the P.-T. A. organization will obtain as much fresh meat and as many fresh vegetables as possible and add them to the baskets.

ALIENS RUSH TO BE CANADIANS

P. E. BRIDGE ARGUMENT TO BE TESTED IN $2700 DAMAGE SUIT

The Pacific Electric railway company's denial to the county supervisors that its piling bridge across the old Santa Ana river channel at Hansen station, was responsible for flood damage in that area last March, will be tested in court January 25 at the scheduled trial of a suit for $2700 damages recently filed in superior court against the P. E. by A. L. Wolfert, rancher.

The Pacific Electric, in response to a resolution by the county supervisors calling for replacement of all piling trestle bridges by steel span structures, wrote the board last Tuesday that it did not consider the Hansen bridge was responsible for the flood damage there, and that the expenditure of more than $60,000 for a new steel span bridge would be wasted, because Prado dam soon will eliminate flood danger.

The supervisors had passed their resolution after receiving a petition from Wolfert and 105 other residents of Hansen vicinity, requesting the span bridge, and also the lowering of the P. E. tracks.

Wolfert's suit for damages against the Pacific Electric company was filed through Attorney L. A. West.

Representing the wives present was Mrs. Henry Donan who received the address of welcome.

Other speakers on the program included Dr. C. E. Holman, pastor of the First Methodist church; Dr. C. M. Aker, pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial church; and E. C. Martin. Music for the occasion was furnished by an orchestra from the Julian Mathews studio.

THREE IN HOSPITAL AFTER S. A. MISHAPS

Three Santa Anans were treated at Santa Ana Valley hospital yesterday and early today following accidents, one of which occurred yesterday afternoon, the other early today.

Alice M. Upson, 32, 321 Wisteria, was treated for a severe leg cut and bruises yesterday afternoon and sent home following an accident at Orange and Chestnut, in which her car collided with one operated by Mrs. Nita Johnson, 43, 2122 North Main.

Santa Ana police gave first aid and she was taken to the hospital by the Orange County Ambulance service. The Upson car overturned.

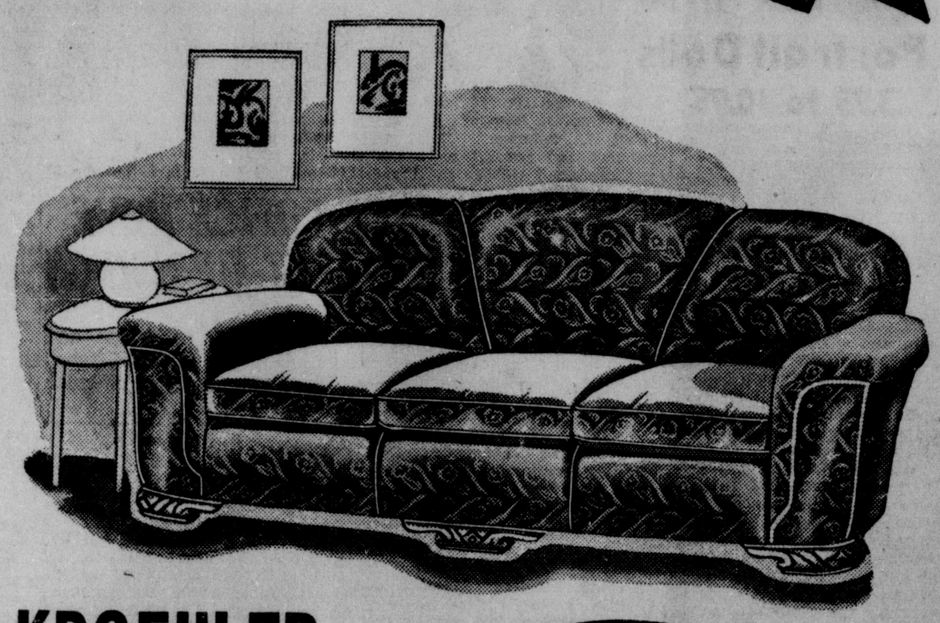

At 2:30 a. m. today, Alfred L. Anderson, 24, and Eunice White, 27, both of 1026 Kilson drive, were cut and bruised on South Main, one-tenth of a mile south of the city limits when the car Anderson was driving collided with a pole. Both were sent home after hospitalization. California highway patrol officers investigated.

They Place "Accent on Youth"

Although a comparative newcomer to Community Player roles, Joe Yocam (left) will please audiences at the current production, "Accent on Youth," opening tonight in Ebell auditorium. He gives the romantic part of "Dickie Reynolds" a fine interpretation. Avery Johnson (right) as "Butch" plays a minor role with his usual careful attention to convincing detail. The play will have its final presentation tomorrow night.

DRESS REHEARSAL GIVES IDEA OF STELLAR PLAY FOR TONIGHT

For sheer entertainment, it is difficult to decide which is better, to see the opening night of a Community Play, or to drop in at a dress rehearsal, such as was held last night in Ebell auditorium by members of the "Accent On Youth" cast, in preparation for formal presentation of the play tonight and again tomorrow night for local audiences

But if verdict of "rehearsal fans" may be taken as criterion, both first and second nighters have an unusually enjoyable evening ahead. There are laughs in plenty from beginning to end of the play.

Various Roles

Gladys Simpson Shafer, director, has a flexible cast with which to work. The principals are Agnes Brady, who undoubtedly will score in her presentation of the role of "Linda," and John Colwell, playing a convincing playwright and elderly lover, "Stephen Gaye."

Approaching these two roles in importance are the juvenile lead, "Dickie," very skillfully handled by Joe Yocam, and the butler, "Flogdell," which develops Harold Fish as a character actor.

"Frank Galloway," elderly romantic actor played expertly by James Hathcock, is another of the principals, as is Lois Rees Auer, whose "Genevieve Lang" offers her usual flawless work.

In the first act, Julia Ann Hyde does one of those skillful bits of character work in the part of "Miss Darling." As the play draws to its surprise finale, you will find Avery Johnson, "the dependable," as "Butch," and James Doyle as "Chuck."

Tonight, through co-operation of the Elwood Bear Violin school, the music will feature a string trio, Valeska Porter, violin; Anna May Archer, 'cello and Margaret Davies, piano.

You are going to like the dignified setting of "Accent On Youth," and you will like especially, that airy flight of silver stars that adds a distinctly modernistic touch to the walls and the blue double doors in the background.

Tree stumps, 40,000 years old, were taken from the water off the coast of New Jersey almost perfectly preserved.

High School Cast To Present Play

ORANGE, Dec. 9.—The junior class of Orange union high school will present a play "One Mad Night" tonight at 8 o'clock. The stage craft class taught by Miss Jane Bellows has made new and unusual settings for the production ,a mystery farce.

Leading roles are to be played by Dorothy Moore and David Fairbairn. But one night is included in the time in which the action takes place. A deserted mansion is the background for the play.

Other members of the cast are Bill Morrow, Gilbert Liermann, Harold Kogler, Kenneth Mueller, Max Pentecost, Helen Nehrig and Jean Gross. Ross Taylor is in charge of makeup and Betty Christian is in charge of dressing the windows. Nelson Krueger is stage manager.

WORK PRESSED TO SAVE EYES

ROLLA, Mo.—(UP)—National medical significance is attached to the construction here of a modern trachoma hospital—said to be the first state-owned institution in the nation for the exclusive treatment of a disease responsible for more blindness than probably any other single cause.

The $137,000 hospital, when completed next summer, will replace the present improvised frame structure which, although handicaped by inadequate facilities, cares for hundreds of cases a month and is one of the two principal centers of trachoma research in the United States.

The present building was acquired by the U. S. Public Health Service in 1923 and has been conducted since 1936 by the Missouri Board of Public Health. According to Dr. James E. Smith, superintendent of the hospital, the only other comparable trachoma treatment center is at Richmond, Ky., where the state operates a hospital lent by a medical society.

Prevalent in Missouri

Missouri, with about 18,000 cases, is one of the leading locales of trachoma, an infectious disease which shuts off the cornea of the eye with opaque tissue. Of those cases, about one in 27 results in blindness, Dr. Smith said. The disease also is prevalent in the hilly regions of Arkansas and Kentucky.

The new hospital, for Missouri citizens only, will be the headquarters for a campaign which Dr. Smith hopes will result in the elimination of all active cases in the state within 10 years.

The campaign is conducted under adverse conditions because of the Ozark environment of poverty, meager sanitation facilities, and suspicion of education efforts, in which trachoma thrives. The typical patient believes he merely has something in his eye and rubs it, increasing the infection. In other communities where trachoma is common, it is believed inescapable.

Conditions at the present hospital here are similarly difficult. The makeshift hospital has facilities for only 30 patients, has insufficient operating equipment, is located on a dusty street not conducive to the best treatment, and has a staff consisting only of Dr. Smith; a visiting ophthalmologist, Dr. A. A. Drake of Rolla; a field nurse, and two resident nurses. The hospital is operated on an annual budget of only $22,000.

Field Clinics Opened

Nevertheless, records for the first nine months of 1937 disclose the extent of its activities.

In the hospital dispensary, 7928 trachoma patients were treated; to the hospital itself, 254 patients were admitted for hospitalization; 862 persons were examined in homes, many in remote areas, visited by the field nurse; nine field clinics were held in surrounding cities and 1141 persons were examined, of whom 264 were found to have trachoma.

Despite unceasing service, there is a constant waiting list of about 120 in need of hospitalization.

The new hospital, containing 70 beds, modern equipment, and laboratories designed specifically for trachoma treatment, and located on an attractive site outside Rolla, will afford a better weapon with which to combat the disease. The two-story brick structure will contain visual training facilities, a recreation room, children's playroom, and adequate dining room accommodations.

"At last we will be able to live public health as well as teach it," Dr. Smith said. "We will be in a position to show patients how to take care of their eyes and avoid spreading the disease.

"It will be a new chapter in the history of trachoma prevention in Missouri. It will afford us a medium of effectually combatting a scourage that has taken a tremendous economic and human toll. We hope that future infants may be born into an environment where they will not risk catching a disease which might blight their lives at the outset."

The state legislature appropriated $75,000 for the hospital construction cost and a federal grant made up the rest. The Rolla chamber of commerce contributed the site in cooperation with curators of the Missouri School of Mines, which formerly owned it.

ITALIAN FLIERS SCORE VICTORY

ROME. (UP)—Italian pilots flying Italian planes for the rebel forces of Generalissimo Francisco Franco have shot down 286 loyalist planes during one year of activity in Spain, it is contended here.

According to official statistics issued by the air ministry, the so-called Legionnaire air squadrons, formed by regular Italian pilots, have carried out 46,880 flights comprising a total of 79,970 flying hours.

During these flights heavy Savoia-Marchetti tri-motored bombers have dumped more than 17,000,000 pounds of high explosives and bombs on loyalist ammunition depots, trenches and ports. Cities are not mentioned in the list of objectives.

During the past year official statistics state that Italian aviators captured 28 world records, the most important of which was the world's altitude record established by Commander Mario Pezzi who, flying a specially built Caproni plane, reached an altitude of 56,002 feet.

The air ministry also has issued an exhaustive survey of the work accomplished in East Africa in the field of aviation. Three thousand workers have built 162 aviation fields which are scattered over the empire. Eight hundred mechanics and motor specialists keep airplanes in tip-top condition in Africa. The number of planes in Ethiopia now is not revealed.

During the past year Premier Benito Mussolini, who is also air minister, set an example for civil pilots by making 29 flights totaling 41 flying hours. The longest of these was on Aug. 18 when Il Duce flew his three-engined S. 81 to the fortified island of Pantelleria, half way between Sicily and Africa, where he inspected the naval base, the airfield and the heavy fortifications of the strategic island. This flight took 4 hours 45 minutes.

The premier's shortest flight during the past year was on June 9 when he took a 20-minute training hop from Forli to Ravenna.

Indian Legend Of Treachery Up For Proof

KEAMS CANYON, Ariz. (UP)—Archeologists went digging for one old Spanish mission near here and found three.

Watson Smith and his associates from the Peabody Museum of Harvard University began digging near the ancient Hopi Indian village of Awatovi four years ago, hoping to find an old Jesuit mission below the desert sands.

The theory and story they sought to prove has become more involved and complicated as they uncovered ruins of three villages with the unmistakable signs of Spanish occupation.

Indian story-tellers say that about 1700 the Hopi chief of Awatovi decided to rid his domain of the Spanish friars.

He supposedly arranged with neighboring tribesmen to attack the mission and kill the occupants. A split in loot was planned. His allies obligingly accomplished their mission, but in addition, they sacked and burned the entire village of Awatovi as well as the nearby mission. The scheming chief also perished.

The archeologists began excavating the village in an attempt to substantiate or disprove the story.

Gravel, for the French motor highways in northern Africa, is brought to the surface by ants. Care is taken not to remove the mounds completely, and the insects keep them replenished.

IRVINE EASEMENT IN COUNTY COURT SUIT

A road easement at Irvine was involved today in a superior court suit brought by Dack's limited against the Title Guarantee and Trust company, the estate of the late Caroline Dobbins, Horace Dobbins and Elsa Morse Dobbins.

Plaintiff claims that Caroline Dobbins, in 1930, deeded property to Horace Dobbins, the deed providing an easement for ingress and egree to and from the state highway; that Horace Dobbins conveyed the property last January to Elsa Morse Dobbins and that both conveyed the property to the plaintiff last October 22.

But they refuse to deed plaintiff the easement, says the complaint, asking the court to declare the rights of the respective parties, and to quiet title to the easement in the plaintiff's favor.

Men Find Purse, $190, Snatch $110, Return Rest

Theft of $110 cash from Charles Kellogg, 1617 East First street, and burglarizing of the Union Oil company service station at 1702 North Broadway, where nine new tires and three new inner-tubes valued at $125 were obtained, were under investigation of police today.

E. C. Tinsley, Los Angeles, a friend of Kellogg, was standing outside of a room at a local service station when he heard two men talking about their "good luck" in finding Kellogg's purse, containing $190.

"This is sure a lucky break," Kinsley heard one man say. The other replied, "We can split the money and throw away the pocketbook—who owns it, anyway?" The first man man, apparently examining the purse, said, "Charles Kellogg."

When the men came from the room, Tinsley stopped them, asked them for the purse and money. The man who had the purse handed it to Tinsley together with $80. "That's all the money there was in it," he said. Later, Kellogg missed his purse and reported the men had got away with $110.

Werners Ready For New Trial

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Helen M. Werner and her husband, former Los Angeles City Attorney Erwin P. Werner, today prepared for re-trial of bribery charges against them as the state supreme court upheld an appellate court decision reversing their conviction.

The supreme court ruling denied the appeal of District Attorney Buron Fitts and Attorney General U. S. Webb which sought to reverse the appellate court ruling that the Werners be re-tried.

Attorney Morris Lavine contended for the Werners that they could not have been guilty of soliciting a bribe of $2500 from William McNeill, a promoter, and at the same time have been guilty of attempted theft of the money. They were convicted on both charges.

Educators Hold Conclave

FRESNO, Cal., Dec. 9.—(UP)—Educators from all parts of the state sought today to coordinate the work of all agencies engaged in the education of children of migratory workers.

Problems of instruction, supervision and administration in the schooling of the children whose parents follow the crops up and down the Pacific coast were to be considered by the 300 educators who met at Fresno State college.

Presided over by Dr. Walter F. Dexter, state superintendent of public instruction, the group included teachers, school trustees, county supervisors, parents and state education officials.

FORCED FROM "RENDEZVOUS"

A Riverside county man and a Santa Ana girl who admitted sitting in the Riverside man's car on West 17th street last night and drinking beer and whiskey, were deprived by Santa Ana police of their "rendezvous," the car for several hours. The officers confiscated the car temporarily and advised the couple to "coffee up" for a few hours. The man retrieved his car three and one-half hours later when he appeared at the police station "cold sober," according to reports.

A window peeper in the vicinity of the 1300-block of West Ninth street was sought by local police last night following complaint made to them yesterday. A landlady reported one of her girl tenants had been frightened by the peeper, identified by a shoe print as a man. Several other complaints had been made unofficially about the prowler.

Film Stars Plan Nazi Boycott

dustry to join in a mighty protest

Douglas declared that the meeting was the outgrowth of informal discussions which had been going on in the studios for many weeks. He asked if thoe present agreed that some form of Hollywood protest should be made.

Declaration to FDR

After several hours of discussion, the film leaders decided that the new declaration of independence would be the best method of starting the Hollywood campaign.

The preliminary draft of the document was titled "A declaration to the President and Congress of the United States."

"In 1776 the people refused to submit to tyranny from a despot abroad. Today a new tyranny has arisen abroad. Leaders of Nazi Germany have threatened the security of the world through their despotism. They have abolished freedom of speech, press and assemblage. They have degreded women, enslaved labor and made cannon fodder of youth.

Lacking Sanity

"We have waited patiently for sanity to return to Nazi Germany, but it has not appeared."

Because 56 persons signed the original Declaration of Independence, the film leaders decided that the 1938 declarattion also should be signed by 56 members of the movie industry, including actors, directors, executives and writers.

After discussing whether film personalities of Jewish extraction should be among the signers, non-Jewish persons at the meeting unanimously voted that the protest should bear the names of Jewish members of the industry as well as those of non-Jews.

Douglas said he will appoint committees to make a formal dreft of the declarattion shortly and that the details of the signing in the presence of newsreel cameras would be worked out as soon as the document is composed. Preliminary plans call for circulation of the newsreel shots in theaters throughout the world.

Strict Boycott

"We also will get definite pledges from the stars to boycott what ever German products they have been using, regardless of how necessary they may have been to them."

Douglas declared that the boycott was directed against Germany because that nation is the leader of totalitarian forces in the world but "our indignation goes beyond Germany to the other non-democratic countries."

U. S. Plans Action In Far East

other nations, the United States does not intend to "take it lying down."

The possibility of military or naval action to halt present discrimination against American trade was declared by high officials to be "fantastic," but they indicated that there were other means through which the United States might "deal" with Japan.

Credits to China

By "other means" apparently was meant the possibility of economic action — large commercial credits to China rather than economic or financial moves directly against Japan.

Technically, since the United States does not officially recognize that a state of war exists in the Orient, Japan would have no grounds for protest or counter action against the United States if commercial credits were extended to China, it was said.

Cite Violations

The background for the present strained relations between the United States and Japan has been developing for several months. Japan, in the official eyes of this government, is guilty of violation of the open door policy in China; persistent discrimination against American interests and violaiton of the rights of American nationals; establishment of a comprehensive exchange regulation system designed to give her absolute control over trade and commercial enterprise; alteration of the Chinese customs tariff; "arbitrary and illegal" assumption of authority in a foreign land; assumption of the ultimate authority to regulate, tax or prohibit foreign trade in China at her own discretion; censorship of and interference with American mail and telegrams; illegal exclusion of American shipping from the Yangtze river.

France, Italy Quell Riots

procession.

There was a good deal of uncertainty in foreign diplomatic quarters as to the future of Italian-French relations. Well informed sources had expressed belief persistently that the anti-French demonstrations really meant nothing very much and that Mussolini was unlikely to risk any critical situation with France.

Arms Ordered

Their confidence was shattered yesterday when a royal decree disclosed that special appropriations for armament, increasing the current budget for military appropriations by 20 per cent, had been approved by the government.

Fascists seemed to believe that there might be a crisis next spring.

Fascist editors expressed conviction that Germany would back up Italy in any crisis and that next year would see an Italian diplomatic victory. They expected Mussolini to try to get Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain, at their meeting here next month, to persuade France to make concessions to Italy in the interest of peace.

GUARDS BREAK UP DEMONSTRATIONS

TUNIS, Dec. 9.—(UP)—Mobile guards armed with rifles and revolvers aided police today in breaking up new attempts of the French and native population to demonstrate against Italy.

Apparently under orders to crack down with greater vigor, the reinforced military units arrested scores of persons and scattered several crowds that sought to assemble in the streets. Several minor clashes occurred but no serious casualties. Tension continued high.

The French War Veterans Association of Tunisia joined authorities in attempting to prevent disorders, issuing a call for the demonstrations to cease.

Plan Protests

"Our association will take the initiative in a more dignified protest which will be more effective against Italian expansionist aspirations," the announcement said.

The newspaper "Gazette of Israel" demanded that officials suppress the Italian Fascist newspaper "Unione" as a danger to the city.

Authorities planned to presecute a dozen leaders in hope of ending the increasingly angry manifestations against Italian agitation for surrender of Tunis and other French possessions.

Erik Labonne, French resident general, induced leaders of the Christian population to work against any further outbreaks. But despite appeals for order, Arabs, just beginning to show their own resentment, were restive.

Trio Quit Posts On Water Board

2, and Vernon C. Heil, of Smeltzer, is the probable candidate to succeed Warner.

Frank Champion, director from Laguna Beach, will preside as chairman of the board from the time of Warner's resignation until the election of new officers in February.

Cites Reasons

Palmer said that the press of duty as secretary-treasurer of the Orange County National Farm Loan association, a branch of the Federal Land Bank, was the reason for his resignation.

Chief among the accomplishments of the present board during the past year, Palmer said, was the settlement of a long fought water suit with upper counties by a stipulation which gave to the county district a stipulated amount of flood water. The stipulation will be held for review in five years.

Accomplishments

Other accomplishments listed were start of adjusting of water regulation on the Santa Ana river and its tributaries, spreading of river water, and the repeal of license ordinance for gun clubs of the county.

Palmer's announcement that he will not be a candidate for reelection, tantamount to resignation from the board, will bring to a close five years of activity on the water board. He has been secretary for the board since the organization of the district in 1933.

Quake Felt At Santa Barbara

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Dec. 9.—(UP)—A slight earthquake shook the city of Santa Barbara last night, police reported, but did no damage.

The quake occurred at approximately 9 o'clock. It was felt both in the city and in nearby beach areas but was of such slight intensity that many residents of Santa Barbara were not aware that the shock had occurred.

Brothers-In-Law Sign New Truce

Two Santa Ana men brothers-in-law, who assertedly tried to "tame" one another, one with a club, the other with a piece of strap iron, were injured last night in front of 916 Logan street, according to police reports.

W. A. Smith, merchant patrolman, took the two men, Mac Chairez, 916 Logan, and Roy Bustamonte, 916½ Logan street, to police headquarters. They had quarreled, according to allegations and gone outside to settle the argument. Chairez received bruises on right shoulder and right arm and Bustamonte, severe cut over the eye. Officers Herman Stahl and J. B. Stephenson gave first aid and took Bustamonte to county hospital. The brothers-in-law declined to file charges against one another.

INVESTIGATE GAS THEFT

STUNT SHOWS UP HUNTERS

LANSING, Mach. (UP)—Shooting at sitting birds isn't sportsmanlike but it's being done in Michigan. H. D. Ruhl of the state conservation department has proof of that. A farmer stuffed a rooster pheasant and placed it near a building. He counted 47 hunters who had stopped to blaze away at the effigy.

U. P. GENERAL FREIGHT AGENT WILL RETIRE AFTER 53 YEARS

W. F. Lincoln, general freight agent of the Union Pacific Railroad at Los Angeles, is going to substitute football yardage for freight rates when the gridiron squads from Duke and Southern California tangle on New Year's Day at the Rose Bowl.

For on that day Lincoln, veteran railroader, retires from the Union Pacific after 53 years of service. He will be succeeded by William H. McCune, chief clerk of the traffic department.

Began in 1888

A. V. Kipp, assistant traffic manager, made the announcement today.

George Fish will fill the post vacated by McCune.

Lincoln began his railroad career as a clerk in 1888 at San Francisco, joining the Union Pacific in 1905. In November, 1911, he was promoted to assistant general freight agent at Los Angeles and in September, 1922, was made general freight agent.

McCune began his career with the Union Pacific as call boy in 1904 at Salt Lake City.

Made Chief Clerk

In 1920 he was appointed assistant chief clerk of tariff bureau at Salt Lake and was transferred to Los Angeles in 1922. In October, 1925, he was made chief clerk of the traffic department which post he has held until his new appointment which was anounced today.

He is secretary-treasurer of the Los Angeles Transportation club and is well known in Southern California business and traffic circles.

NEEDY DEPEND ON PUBLIC AID

CLEVELAND, O.,—(UP) — The Cleveland Community Fund, largest organization of its kind in the world, has opened its yearly drive for funds to relieve suffering. The goal is $3,450,000.

With another relief crisis threatening the city, as funds to supply 8,000 old-age pensioners and the city's needy with the necessities of life run dangerously low, Community Fund officials are appealing to a public which seldom has failed to respond.

Cleveland's Community Fund has been known by that name since 1919, and ordinarly is considered to be 20 years old. Actually, the roots of the plan extend back to 1900 with the formation of the Committee on Benevolent Association.

This was organized by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce to regulate charitable solicitations.

Raised $10,000,000 In War

The organization grew, and changed names several times. In 1918 it was known as the Cleveland War Council and as such, conducted the first united campaign for contributions on behalf of war needs. Although the goal was set then at $6,000,000, more than $10,000,000 was contributed.

Following this success, the Community Fund was organized under that name in 1919.

This year's goal is not as high a sit has been in the past. In 1931, when thousands faced actual hunger because of severe economic stress, $5,650,000 was asked.

Citizens, although themselves facin guncertain future, "dug down"—and the fund went over the top with contributions of $5,692,934. It was regarded as the largest amount raised per capita in any American city.

Although Cleveland generally is credited with origin of the Community Fund idea, Denver, and Elmira, N. Y., early experimented with raising funds for social agencies in a single concerted drive.

Now, in nearly 500 American cities, community funds are asking a total of approximately $85,000,000 to alleviate distress and to provide money for 1939 relief needs.

Ohio To Have 42 Drives

In populous Ohio alone, 42 community fund campaigns are being held this year, 27 of them in November.

Cleveland not only gave the United States its first Community Fund, but has helped set the pace for American cities whose social workers need trained social workers for case work and filling of key positions administering the handling of direct relief.

Western Reserve University's graduate school of applied social sciences here often is ranked by educators with the New York School of Social Work in New York City and with the Pennsylvania School of Social Work in Philadelphia as forming the top three for training social workers.

The three in their respective cities and in others have supplied the vanguard of executives in social agencies of multiple cities.

With the entrance of government into relief and with the establishment of old age pensions, the responsibility of Cleevland's Community Fund was lessened, but this decrease was accompanied by a corresponding increase in other agencies are served by, and serve, the fund.

With only $20,000 in governmental funds available for November relief, and probable needs of $500,000; with Cleveland and other Ohio cities petitioning for a special session of the legislature, it seems not unlikely that the burden of providing for relief clients and the aged may fall back more upon the facilities of the Community Fund.

Malay Defenses Supersede Studies

SINGAPORE (UP) — Warships and soldiers to protect Malaya are more important than the establishment of a Malayan unversity, in the opinion of the Malay Association of Selangor.

The Malay associations of Penang and Perak joined the Selangor Malays in a memorandum opposing plans of a British commission to establish a Malayan university.

"If the governments of the Malay states still have reserve funds to spend, we believe they would be better spent in increasing the strength of the Malay regiment and in the construction of warships to guard this important British outpost," the associations informed the commission.

LORENZ JEWELRY STORE ANNOUNCES CHRISTMAS SALE!

New Owners of 20 Year Old Store to Offer Great Values!

Climaxing twenty years of serving the people of Orange County, the popular jewelry establishment of the late Wm. Lorenz, which recently underwent a change of ownership, announces a money-saving sale which will be welcomed by the people of this community, coming as it does on the very brink of the Christmas gift-shopping season, and offering the complete stocks of this famous jewelry firm at reduction that range to ½ price!

Plan Modernization!

"Before we proceed with our reorganization plans, which will include modernization of the Lorenz Jewelry store and expansion of the stock of diamonds and jewelry," explained Mr. S. M. Kinwald, the new proprietor, "we felt that it would be only fitting to offer the many former patrons of this store an opportunity to choose from the entire stocks at deep, money saving reductions."

"We are naturally eager to make hundreds of new friends and to become re-acquainted with the old friends of the late Mr. Lorenz, and so we are providing this money-saving opportunity as an extra reason for the people of Orange County to come in and visit us during the Christmas buying season and meet me and my associates personally.

Entire Stock Sacrificed

"We have decided to offer the entire stock at reductions that will save many thousands of dollars for our customers. This is our way of getting acquainted and assuring the people of this community that we will continue the well established policy of the late Mr. Lorenz, by always offering only the very finest of nationally known watches, jewelry and fine diamonds at the lowest possible prices.

Inaugurates Modern Budget Plan

"In keeping with the modern trend, we have already introduced a new budget account plan that enables our customers to pay for their purchases in nominal weekly or monthly amounts over longer periods of time and without interest or carrying charges. And although, in many instances, the prices during this "Change of Ownership" sale are actually one-half of our regular prices, these liberal budget account terms are now available, and prevail during this event."

Mr. S. M. Kinwald, who has been very prominent in the retail jewelry field for many years, has moved to Santa Ana with his family, where he has established a permanent residence. With an aim toward maintaining the confidence and good will of former Lorenz patrons, Mr. Kinwald has retained several of the former employes of Mr. Lorenz.

Watch Repairs on Premises

To insure prompt and efficient watch and clock repair services, Mr. Kinwald has employed one of the best known watch experts who does all of his own work right on the premises. This service provides quite an advantage over the former method of sending watch and clock repairs out of the store.

Optical Service to be Added

Early next year, a prominent optometrist plans to establish his offices in the Lorenz store as an added service to the many hundreds of patrons who heretofore have found it necessary to go elsewhere.

Sale Reductions Up to Half Off!

The entire Lorenz stock of fine diamonds, watches and gift jewelry are included in this startling sale event with prices as low as one-half their former prices. With such startling reductions, this sale offers the people of this community an unprecedented opportunity for savings.

"I invite every one in Orange county to come to this sale in the fullest confidence that they will see values that have never before been equalled in this community," explained Mr. Kinwald. "So I say, come to this unusual money saving event prepared for the greatest value surprises you have ever seen. I promise you will not be disappointed."

IMPORTANT!

The advertisement at the right reveals but a very few of the hundreds and hundreds of marvelous values that are to be found here during this sale . . . you will find the most complete selection of fine Sterling silver and silver plate including Towle; Reed & Barton, Gorham, Rogers 1847 and Community. GIVES CAUTION ON GRAPEFRUIT

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 9.—(Special to The Register)—Maybe a "bushel" of grapefruit for a dollar is a bargain as claimed by a broadcasting doctor who operates a radio station in Mexico from a remote control studio in Texas but if Californians send him the dollar they may find themselves at a total los for the grapefruit, it was announced today at the state department of agriculture.

County Agricultural Commissioner L. O. Haupt of Kings county reported to A. C. Fleury, chief of the bureau of plant quarantine, that the Mexico station was offering to send the grapefruit to the dollar senders.

He called attention to the Californa laws which prohibit the entry of citrus from any state known to be infested with Mexican fruit fly or citrus canker. Fleury commended the commissioner for his vigilance.

"Neither the Mexiacn fruit fly or the citrus canker is found in California citrus groves," said Fleury. "Any one of these grapefruit shipments from the Mexican fruit fly or citrus canker areas might enable these arch enemies of our citrus crops to become established in California. We have, accordingly, issued orders to all California plant quarantine officers to be on the alert to intercept all such shipments which are in violation of the laws enacted to protect California's vast citrus industry."

Canadian Trade In Decline

OTTAWA, Ont.—(UP)—Ottawa's world trade is declining.

A report issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics showed the Dominion's external trade during the seven months ended in October was valued at $992, 005,829, compared with $1,193,767,551 in the corresponding period of 1937. Exports were valued at $545,339,302, compared with $680,487,506, and imports at $408,135,617, compared with $503,577,290.

OVER THE TRANSOM

A three-year-old Santa Ana miss refers to the family Christmas tree as a "kissum tree". Were she a bit more mature it would be certain the young lady meant mistletoe.

At a lunch today in a Newport Beach confectionery, a quartet, three women and one man took possession of an adjoining booth. Scanning menu cards, the three feminine members of the group each lit a cigarette, but the lone male refrained from tobacco in any form. Perhaps he had been taught that smoking in front of ladies' wasn't the polite thing to do.

"A rose by any other name," but not a fish. Faint odor of the bountiful catch of mackerel flooding the Newport Beach canneries this week still lingers in the city. But such bounty almost meant a loss of life for Kenny Murdock, whose 30-foot boat, "White Cap," sank just off Dana Point with four tons of fish on board. Dashing spray of a passing speed boat washed fish from the already overloaded boat which continued to sink under its piscatorial weight.

"All the world is Christian at Christmas," according to the Rev. R. I. Brahams of the Laguna Beach Community Presbyterian church, who listed sacrificial giving as one of the elements of that holiday in speaking before the Costa Mesa P.-T. A. Evidence of the speaker's logic came in the business session of the meeting when receipts of a $25 check from employes of a Costa Mesa grocery store was announced, with the designation that the money was to be used for Christmas welfare work.

"Do come over for a duck dinner, and you bring the duck," was the invitation showered upon a Fullerton husband and wife, who winning high score awards at a recent organization card party, found that the results of their grand slam efforts were two ducks wearing bright holiday dresses of red cellophane. Just an echo of the idea which made a baby goat the door prize at a barn dance which drew an interested crowd. The kid found a happy home on a ranch near Buena Park, but last rites for the ducks were conducted only yesterday at an informal dinner party in Fullerton.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

ANSWER: Andrew Mellon was never treasurer of the United States. He was secretary of the Treasury under Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

SPIKES RUMOR HE IS INDIAN PRINCE—"JUST ARMY CAPTAIN"

Flashing a brilliant smile, Captain Harry Nedou of the Indian Army station at Lahore, Punjab, North India, today told a Register reporter that there was no truth to the rumor current in the city that "he was a Hindu prince."

In faultless English learned at Bishop Cotton School, Simla, North India, under Oxford and Cambridge masters, Captain Nedou explained that "he was just an army officer on leave of absence" and was making his first visit to the west coast.

Likes Santa Ana

"I like your city very much," Captain Nedou said. "I had previously visited in New York City and on this trip I decided to come to the west coast."

Questioned about his two sleek, rakish looking cars, one a Lagonda, of English make, the other an Alfa-Romero, an Italian car, Captain Nedou said they were priced at approximately $10,000 each.

With Engineer

Captain Nedou is traveling and visiting in the United States with C. Shelford, an English civil engineer who is stationed at Punjab, and a companion, G. Mohamid.

The trio plans to stay in Santa Ana for "a couple of weeks" and, using the city as headquarters, will visit in Southern California points of interest, including the film centers.

Gandhi Still Busy

Reluctant to discuss financial matters, Captain Nedou told The Register that the chief source of his income came from "large land holdings" of his father.

Regarding the activity of Mahatma Gandhi and his program of "civil disobedience" against the British government, Captain Nedou declared that "in spite of the fact that there has been little in the English and American press concerning Mr. Gandhi for the past year, he is still busily at work."

Los Gauchos Plan Long Beach Trek

Members of Los Gauchos, Jaysee service club, will meet at the junior college at 7:15 p. m. Monday, and journey to Long Beach for informal initiation.

President Joe Thompson listed the following pledges as participants: Lawrence Dresser, Jack Clark, Marvin Webb, Tom Engelman, George Heuck, Richard Preston, Harold Richards, Wayne Tarvin, Tom Sullivan, Bob Lindsay and Ralph Metcalf.

Formal initiation will be announced later, Thompson stated.

Blind Ex-Boxer Plans Exposed

CLEVELAND, Ohio—(UP)—Lou Palmer, blind ex-boxer, is seeking support for his proposal that blind persons be required to carry a physician's certificate that they cannot see.

"I also think they should be prohibited from wearing dark glasses," he said. "This would keep panhandlers who can see from passing themselves off as blind."

Palmer, who was a boxer here while he still had the sight of one eye, claims to be the first to carry a white cane to identify himself as blind.

SPURNS MATE'S ROBBERY TALE

When Thomas W. Meyers assertedly came home to his wife in Laguna Beach at 3 a. m. and told her he had been robbed of $20, she gave his story a stony stare, Mrs. Elaine Myers indicated today in her suit for divorce filed in superior court.

The reason: She had seen him lose more than $10 in slot machines at The Arches, Newport Beach, earlier in the evening, she stated. Also, she alleged, she had seen him staggering and stumbling over stools.

"Leaves in Rain"

Her divorce complaint recited other asserted "high" lights in the Myers matrimonial career. In January, 1937, she stated, they were overnight guests of friends on Balboa Island, retiring at about midnight. But Myers, his wife claims, got up again to go down town for liquor. It was raining outside, and he was unable to locate his car key. Returning indoors he went into the bedroom of his host and hostess, according to his wife, and accused them of loss of the key. Finally, she alleged, he jumped upon their bed and broke it down.

"Asleep In Car"

Then he went sullenly outside, she relates, and in the morning she found him asleep in the car. And the key was lying in the street beside the car.

It was Myers' custom, his wife charges, to come home in convivial mood nights, go to sleep on the floor and next morning blame her for not putting him to bed.

They were married at Laguna Beach September 11, 1935, and separated in Newport Beach March 1, 1937. Her complaint, filed through Attorneys Harvey and Harvey, of Santa Ana, asks an unstated amount of permanent alimony and $75 per month temporary alimony.

ROLPH VISITS S. A. FRIENDS

James Rolph III, candidate for lieutenant governor at the recent election, and son of the late Governor Rolph, visited Orange county friends yesterday as he made a trip into Southern California to thank constituents for the support given him at the primary election when he missed getting the nomination by a narrow margin.

Rolph, who will speak Saturday or Sunday at the two-day convention of the California Republican assembly in Santa Barbara, said he hoped all Republicans of the state would "give Culbert Olson a chance."

Give Free Hand

"Now that Democrat Culbert Olson has won the governorship, every one of us should give him a free hand and let him see what he can do for the betterment of California without being berated, interfered with or dragged through political muck," Rolph said. "Let's give him a chance to make good."

Rolph, who describes himself as a progressive Republican, called the $30-Every-Thursday plan a "crack-pot" scheme which only hurt the older people but said the entire country definitely needs some old age pension plan to safeguard old age. "We must have such a plan and we will have one sometime but it must be nation-wide and not just for California," he said.

Cites Danger

"Should we arrange a state plan, we would be over-run with people flocking here to take advantage of it and ruin the state financial set-up."

Rolph decried present "theory teaching" in the education system "because it sends our children from educational institutions unprepared to cope with the problems of earning a living in frequent instances." He said we need more vocational training courses "which would keep many persons off of the WPA rolls."

JOHN GILKYSON TO FACE TRIAL

John Gilkyson, 42, Sunset Beach, charged with petty theft by bilking many dealers in automobile batteries, must face trial in Anaheim justice court December 20 at 9 a. m. This was the order at his arraignment.

Gilkyson assertedly collected old batteries from garages and other places where batteries are handled stating he would repair and return them but failed to keep his promise.

Victims Are Named

According to sheriff's office records, the following are among Gilkyson's victims: Barney Koster, Santa Ana; Earl Matthews, Santa Ana; Henry A. Baldwin Motor company, Santa Ana; Cypress Garage, Cypress; Bill Payne Garage, Anaheim, and Al Miller, Anaheim. At the Miller place, Gilkyson obtained 26 batteries, it is alleged, but did not return them. Employes of the Sun Battery company, Santa Ana, reported buying 40 "junk" batteries from Gilkyson, according to investigation of Deputy Vern Mohn.

U. S. TO SEEK RARE METALS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9.—(UP)—With the United States dependent upon importations from all parts of the world of nine of the "strategic mineral supplies" necessary for the carrying on of modern warfare, a campaign has been launched for making the United States self-sufficient in nearly all of these minerals by the development of known deposits that exist in the western states.

This development is declared to be all the more necessary at the present time for the reason that China, major source of tungsten, which is indispensable in the hardening of all iron and steel, is passing into the hands of Japan and Spain, principal world's source of mercury, is still too embroiled in war to make it certain that America could import enough for its needs in event of war.

Eleven States Enlisted

The campaign has been undertaken by a private, non-profit organization whose objective is the development of all resources of the western states.

The nine minerals that are indispensable for the manufacture of modern war materials are antimony, chromium, manganese, mercury, mica, nickel, platinum, tin and tungsten. With the exception of mica, the United States is exceedingly poor in the production of these minerals, although deposits of all, with the exception of tin, are said to exist in the western states.

Metals for Many Uses

The minerals or metals are necessary for the manufacture of all types of guns, ammunition, armor plate, rails, automobiles, machinery of all kinds, virtually all electrical equipment, cutlery, structural steel, tools and implements, hardware, tinware and building material.

At present the United States is dependent on importations from all parts of the world. The bulk of antimony comes from Mexico, China and South America; sheet mica from British India and also Madagascar; tin, from the East Indies; nickel, platinum and chromium from Great Britain; tungsten from China and mercury from Spain.

Statistics were offered to show that the United States consumption of these minerals is as exceedingly large but the production is small.

For the first step in its campaign to make the United States self-sufficient in these minerals, the complete technical survey of the situation, aided by state administrative officials, federal departments dealing with new raw materials of the region, businessmen, and privately and publicly owned electric utilities. As soon as the survey is complete, which will be early next year, conferences will be convoked and steps taken for the development of all domestic sources of these minerals.

BUREAU SEEKS STANDARD BOX

A standard sized picking box for the citrus industry is becoming nearer to an actuality due to action taken by the state farm bureau at Sacramento recently, it has been revealed by local officers of the farm bureau. This problem has been the subject of considerable discussion and consideration for some years and the cause planned by those promoting the more recent agitation is one of legislation which would designate measurements and cubic content of a standard box.

Amendment Sought

"I would be unlawful to use or refer to a picking or field box of citrus fruit except as defined in the section proposed for the agricultural code, unless the container is otherwise specifically marked and such reference expressed in terms of the standard box as defined in the act," the proposed amendment to the code states.

The board of directors of the California Farm Bureau federation will confer with officials and members of the citrus industry in California and formulate with them the course to be followed, it is stated, and if legislation is definitely decided upon, it is expected to be presented to the next session of the legislature soon after the first of the new year.

A study made recently by the Los Angeles County Farm bureau included 41 sizes of boxes from 162 citrus packing houses. There are really over 60 sizes of boxes now being used in the industry. Most of these sizes are very close to the proposed standard box, which would contain 3115 cubic inches. In the study referred to, the boxes ranged from 2899.88 cubic inches to 3582.72 cubic inches.

Dimensions of Boxes

Other than containing 3115 cubic inches, the proposed standard boxes would be as follows in dimensions: (a) citrus flat or nesting field picking box, depth 9 3/4, width 14 3/4, length 22 7/16; (b) citrus square end field picking box, depth 11½, width 11 1/2, length 24 7/16. Standard field boxes would be 2 1/4 inch corner posts and top cleats of 7/8 inch thickness. Measurements are inside dimensions in inches.

COST OF TUBERCULOSIS TO STATE $52,000,000 ANNUALLY

Figures to justify the volunteer work of California's 63 local tuberculosis associations and inspire generous support of the annual Christmas seal sale now in progress were quoted today by A. J. Cruickshank of Santa Ana, treasurer of the California Tuberculosis association.

"Conservative estimates place the cost of tuberculosis to the state of California at more than $52,000,000 annually," Cruickshank said. "This figure includes the expense of caring for tuberculous patients, costs due to loss of life from tuberculosis and money lost in wages while under treatment. The loss is borne alike by the individual, business and industry, and the government.

Annual Cost $6,000,000

"Today the annual maintenance expenditure for public tuberculosis hospitals and sanatoria approaches $6,000,000. Yet few of the patients admitted to these institutions are in the early stages of the disease when the cure is much less costly, even though we now have every facility for early diagnosis.

"More than 83 per cent of hospital cases enter in advanced stages and the cure for each costs $2300 more on the average than it should have if discovered in its early stages. Finding of early cases would be part of an adequate, complete public health campaign at a cost to the state of approximately $17,000,000, a per capita cost of around $2.50 a year.

Sound Business Policy

"Contrasting an expenditure of $17,000,000 a year for constructive control of all diseases with the estimated annual $52,000,000 loss due to tuberculosis alone, we realize that investment in Christmas seals is only sound business policy because it finances not only the cure but also the prevention of tuberculosis."

Nylander Estate Set at $6,000

The late Andrew Nylander, who died November 10, left a $6000 estate, consisting of three ranches in Fresno county, according to a petition for letters of administration just filed in superior court by Pete Tiboni, of Santa Maria. The heirs include the widow, Mrs. Maggie B. Nylander, and two daughters, Violet Nylander and May Phillips, all residents of Los Angeles.

WHITTIER 'AT HOME' RECEPTION PLANNED

LIBYA TO HAVE ITALIAN CABLE

ROME, (UP)—Italy has started work on the world's longest submarine telephone cable.

When completed it will insure continuous telegraphic as well as telephonic service between Libya and the Italian mainland. It will be about 435 miles in length.

The longest under water telephone cable presently in use is the one adjoining Australia with Tasmania which is approximately 195 miles long.

The new submarine cable will extend from Tripoli to Pandelusa Island, which is directly south of the westernmost tip of Sicily. It will then go north to the fortified island of Pantellaria to Porto Empedecle in Sicily, which is two miles from the better-known city of Agrigento.

At present there is telegraphic cable which joins Tripoli with Syracuse in Sicily. It is 395 miles in length. Laid in 1913, it no longer is adequate to handle the increased telegraphic traffic between Italy and its Mediterranean colony.

There is also the British controlled cable which passes through Malta. For national and political reasons, Italy naturally wants a wholly Italian telegraphic and telephonic line.

Hear War's Near, Rise With Spears

PORT MORESBY, Papua—(UP)—Armed with flimsy spears and shields, their bodies gleaming with oil and paint, a deputation of native warriors from a mountain district of Papua came to the magistrate's office here to offer to fight for the British Empire.

They had heard of the possibility of war in Europe.

AUSTRIA BIDS FOR DIPLOMATS

SYDNEY, N. S. W. (UP)—Establishment of an Australian diplomatic service, with members attached to the British Legations in important capitals, is urged by Percy Spencer, Independent member of the Australia House of Representatives for a Sydney constituency.

The reports of such representatives, Spencer said, would provide the government with adequate and independent knowledge of European minority problems, or any other problems which might threaten to involve Australia in war.

"Australia would then have a foreign policy of its own in the sense of having definite views as to how world problems affecting Australia should be met," he added.

"It is idle to wait until an emergency arises. There are problems in Europe at present which may require the surgeon's knife to save Europe, and our government should have a definite idea as to the best methods of solving them."

The Australian point of view thus formed, Spencer said, could be urged directly on Britain. Australia would thus play a proper part in forming a common empire policy.

"Obviously every part of the empire cannot have a separate and possibly divergent foreign policy. There should be a common policy which reflects the views of the whole empire, and which can be determined by quick consultation with the various empire countries."

This statement followed a debate in the house in which Spencer, who normally supports the government, was applauded by labor opposition members when he declared that ever since the federation of the Australian states, Australia's foreign policy has been nothing but a pale reflection of whatever Britain's policy had been at the time.

CARDENAS TERM HALF THROUGH

MEXICO, D. F. (UP)—Center of a big controversy over the policies of his administration, Gen. Lazaro Cardenas today completed four years as President of the United Mexican States. He still has two years more before his term expires, but the air already is full of the preliminary maneuvers of those who hope to succeed him.

Friends and adversaries of President Cardenas consider him, respectively, as the great benefactor of Mexico, or as the man who has brought ruin to his nation. Some hail the Socialistic "Cardenismo" as the means through which the masses are being lifted to a nobler life, while others declare that the President, through well-intentioned, but "communistic and utopian" plans, has wrecked the economic structure of his country.

First Appraisal Far Off

Only the perspective of time and long-term results will be able correctly to weigh the numerous things done or attempted in these four years. From one tip of the republic to the other, the influence of Cardenas has been felt. He has taken over the big estates and converted them into agrarian communities; built roads, irrigation projects, sugar-centrals; nationalized the principal railways; seized the foreign petroleum holdings. In so doing he has antgonized financial interests abroad, and caused a suspension of diplomatic relations with Great Britain. But Cardenas has gone forward, without any indication of swerving.

Today—after being President for four years—Cardenas is still a strange person to millions of his own people. Ever since his break with ex-President Plutarco Elias Calles in June, 1935, Mexico and the border towns of the United States from San Antonio to San Diego have been rife with rumors that Cardenas was "through." Yet actually he has had less opposition than most of his predecessors.

Full Term Seldom Served

Cardenas' predecessors had so much trouble that only two served their full four-year terms—Gen. Alvaro Obregon (1920-24) and Gen. Calles (1924-28). Obregon was murdered just as he was about to be inaugurated for a second term in 1928.

Thirteen other presidents served terms ranging from 45 minutes to three years, and two of these—Francisco I. Madero and Gen. Venustiano Carranza—were assassinated in office.

In contrast to these other presidents who had powerful rivals, Cardenas has had no opposition worthy of the name since he overthrew the unofficial lordship of Calles in 1935 and deported him to California in 1936.

Now the relatively weak opposition that does exist, is seeking to build up its forces so it may elect a candidate in July, 1940.

While there has been some talk of extending Cardenas' term to eight years (as was done for President Gerardo Machado in Cuba), the president himself is anxious to quit office in two more years. He wants to speed up his program so that it will be proceeding smoothly by then. As far as is possible, he wants to keep his hands off the selection of the next official candidate for the presidency. Whether or not this can be done, remains to be seen.

Bridge For 3 Expected Next By Culbertson

CLEVELAND (UP)—All bridge players are "somewhat screwy," believes Ely Culbertson, who plays a little bridge himself.

"I'm for bigger and better fights at the bridge table," said the contract expert, who thinks that bridge is the world's second most popular diversion—love being the first.

Asked whether exhibition matches ever would achieve the eye-gouging attributes of a professional wrestling match, Culbertson was hopeful.

"Bridge matches have already reached what might be called a homicidal state, but the spectators generally confine themselves to polite, whispered pleas for blood," he said.

Culbertson said that most people can't play four-hand bridge intelligently, and that he was working on a three-hand game.

NOTED BUILDER GOES UP, DOWN

GREEN BAY, Wis., (UP)—The signature "Sam Harding, contractor" is affixed to contracts for the building of the famous aerial bridge at Duluth, Minn., the Chicago Garfield Park conservatory, the International Livestock Show Exposition building in Chicago and the fourth lock at Sault Ste. Marie.

But today Harding, now 71, is a foreman of a WPA project here, broke but happy.

His story is one of ups and downs, alternate success and failure, which have taken him underthe Waukesha county, Wis., farm where he was born to heights of engineering achievement, dropped him to near poverty.

Harding's career began when he started as a draftsman for a Milwaukee steel firm after graduating from the University of Wisconsin. Within a year he was manager of the plant.

Founded Own Firm

After 11 years service with the Milwaukee firm, Harding founded his own firm in Waukesha. It was while he was president of this firm that he received his biggest assignment—the Duluth aerial bridge.

Two blocks long and 135 feet high to permit the passage below it of lake steamers entering the narrow Duluth harbor canal, the bridge is supported only by structures on the canal bank. It is considered a great engineering achievement even today.

The pressure of competition from big interests became great, however, and in 1913 Harding abandoned his own plant and entered the contracting business in Chicago. Then came what he believed would be his most profitable job—construction of the Soo lock.

Went Broke On Job

Instead, it proved his downfall. With the entrance of the United States into the World War, steel prices soared. But the contract was signed and Harding was compelled to do the job. It broke him.

Persevering, Harding tried again. He began with a Chicago rubber company. But luckwas against him again. The company failed in the crash of 1929.

Mounting years and the ever increasing problem of unemployment made it difficult for him to find any work. For five years he was unemployed. He lost his $23,000 home in Oshkosh.

Then came government relief work. He became an inspector on a Mississippi river project and lately was transferred to a park project here.

Still he is hopeful of another comeback.

"It's been a great education," he said, "I'll come out all right."

DR. ROSS TO ADDRESS LOCAL BUSINESS GROUP AT EBELL

An address entitled "Your Home Town and You," by Dr. Thurston H. Ross of the University of Southern California, will feature a meeting sponsored by the Associated Business and Professions of Santa Ana to be held at 8 p. m. Monday at the Ebell clubhouse.

Speaks Monday

Residents of Santa Ana and vicinity prepared to attend a meeting of the Associated Business and Professions of Santa Ana at 8 p.m. Monday at the Ebell clubhouse where Dr. Thurston H. Ross, above, of the University of Southern California, will mage an address on "Your Home Town and You."

In addition to the attraction of Dr. Ross' speech, the committee in charge of the program has arranged for the introduction of civic leaders and officials as well as the distribution of more than 20 door prizes, contributed by members of the organization.

Lecture of Interest

Dr. Ross, director of the school of merchandising at the university, and professor of management, is one of the outstanding speakers in his field, according to E. M. Sundquist, president of the Associated, and will present a lecture that will be of interest to everyone.

Heads of the various service clubs of the city have signified their intention of attending the meeting and invitations have been extended to members of all such groups. Mayor Fred C. Rowland will officially represent the city authorities.

Open To Public

The meeting has been thrown open to the public and there will be no admission charge, the object of the meeting being to honor the various agencies of the community that have, during the past year, contributed to the welfare of the community.

Mrs. Margaret Woodward, executive secretary of the organization, has been in charge of arrangements for the affair.

"Humane Bits"

By FLORENCE A. ROBINSON

There are a couple of folks living at 209 West Tenth street that get a lot of fun and living out of one rascal cat, named Tiger. Her name describes this winsome feline lady and if she hasn't Elmer and Ora Schaniel wrapped around her velvety paws I miss my guess.

Tiger is three years old, was born in Laguna Beach, and hence sports a most temperamental nature, that runs from preferring cube steaks, very fresh beef liver, and lobster on her daily bill-of-fare, to holding grudges. And if you please, she has her own dishes with her name inscribed on each.

Speaking of grudges, when this cat has a grudge she has one, and has been known to sulk for days after a reprimand or spanking.

Oh yes, like the best of children she has to be spanked, but it has paid for she seldom makes the same mistake twice.

Like one morning at 3 o'clock when she accompanied her fond family to San Diego, called there by the serious illness of "Grandma" Schaniel. Like most anyone she was mighty hungry after the long trip and told her family so with good firm meows, which were instantly hushed so as not to disturb the sick-abed mother of the house. And, if you please, Miss Kitty promptly loses her voice when she visits in San Diego.

Next to her scratching ramp, a carpet covered block on which she can sharpen her claws to her heart's content, Tiger is most devoted to nature, and it is nothing for her to bring livesnakes, lizards, mice, birds and grasshoppers right into the house. She never kills them, as professes humane study of the subject.

Her favorite parking spot is a table in front of a large window on the street side of her home, and her airy caracoles and winsome charms have attracted more than one passerby. And she is very sociable to everyone, talking through the window in great style, perhaps—about her operations of which she has had two. Who knows?

M'm'm, aren't you sorry you didn't attend the Christmas meeting of the Orange County Humane society on Tuesday evening. Five grand cakes and plenty of coffee were tops for the evening, and two dozen members thought it the best meeting ever.

The Humane society is sorry to see its outgoing president's year coming to an end. Mrs. A. P. Nelson has been a faithful leader; but we know that she will give all her assistance to the new president, George Boyer of Orange, and to every other President that the years may bring to this zealous group of animal lovers.

Altar Society Names Officers

Results of an election of new officers of St. Anne's Altar society for the ensuing year were announced today, Mrs. J. Schuster winning the post of president.

Others elected were Mrs. R. Crowley, vice president; Mrs. M. Sharp, secretary, and Mrs. H. Schmidt, treasurer. The meeting, held in the parish hall, included a pot luck luncheon and cards.

A large plant in Lancaster, Pa., introduced embossed inlaid linoleum for the first time in 1925.

FASCIST PRESS PRAISES AXIS

ROME. (UP)—Additional arguments that the Rome-Berlin axis is able to withstand any blockade by any eventual coalition of enemies is being advanced by Fascist political writers.

This angle is represented by the communications system existing between Italy and Germany, and with those friendly countries having common frontiers with the axis, namely Switzerland and Jugoslavia.

It is contended that this system, with its many veins and arteries, makes the axis autonomous in exchange of commodities, which means full autonomy in the economic life of the axial duo. This autonomy, it is argued, is just what is needed to complement the position resulting from the axis through the heart of Europe and in the Mediterranean, and the formidable power it possesses on land, sea and air.

Two Main Rail Lines

The communications system linking the two countries comprises two main railroad lines—one from Verona to Innsbruck through the Brenner Pass, and the other from Udine to Villach via the Pontebba Pass. A secondary line runs from Fortezza to Linz. Four large highways form a complement to the railways.

It is averred by these writers that since Switzerland has resumed full neutrality status, and since Italy and Jugoslavia have never been such good friends as at present, it can be assumed safely that the railroad communications between Italy and its two neighbors form virtually one continuous part of the network of the axial system.

These communications are represented, on the Italo-Swiss side, by the Milan to Berne line via the Simplon pass, and the Milan to Zurich line through the St. Pothard tunnel. On the Italo-Jugoslav side by three lines: Thieste to Klagenfurt, Tricate to Laibach, and Fiume to Zagreb.

Motor Roads As Auxiliaries

Besides, four modern motor roads deploy from Italy into Switzerland and two into Jugoslavia. These six roads can be considered as auxiliary trunks at the service of the major system.

Taking as basis the figures of several years ago, which showed that the railroad traffic between Italy and Germany aggregated more than 30,000 tons a day. Italian political writers assert that this traffic, even if doubled or trebled by now, still is far below the enormous possibilities afforded by the railroad and highway "circulatory system" of the axis, either directly or complimentarily.

As an addition to this there are the immense resources which can be drawn upon in the Danubian and Mediterranean basins, plus the results of the autarchical efforts in which Italy and Germany have been and are engaged.

A writer of the ultra-Fascist newspaper "Tevere," thus draws the conclusion that those statesmen, writers and war planners of the democratic countries deserve pity, who, realizing the impossibility of crushing the axis by the force of arms, are "blathering of blockades and similar things in the childish hope of halting the rising of the new Europe."

MYRA NORTH, SPECIAL NURSE — A Chance Meeting? — By RAY THOMPSON and CHARLES COLL

Hollywoodsmen Bask in Foreign Ladies' Smiles

Gals of the Old World and the New have only one ideology when a handsome hero of the movies comes to town. At left, above, German film actresses cluster around Gary Cooper as he visits a Berlin movie studio. At right, admiring glaces from dark-eyed senoritas follow Tyrone Power in Santiago, Chile.

X Equals Soviet's Military Strength

Massing troops in Moscow's Red Square on national holidays, as pictured above, is Soviet Dictator Stalin's favorite way of dramatizing Russia's vaunted military might. But after 20 years of intensive army building, the true morale and efficiency of the Soviet forces remain a myystery European Foreign Offices would like to solve.

TIBETAN 'PICK-ME-UP' COMES FROM COCOON AND NOT BOTTLE

VATICAN CITY — (UP) — A curious little worm, which is used by Tibetan natives as a "pick-me-up," has attracted the attention of Catholic missionaries.

Locally known as "grass-worms," they make their habitat in the loft mountain ranges of the Tibetan border, near the Tatsienlu leper home conducted by the Friars Minor of the Hankow Vicariate.

Natives eat them dead or alive for medical purposes. In either form they bring fancy prices. They are in great demand for the mentally depressed and for sufferers of stomach trouble.

When dead they are mixed with boiled chicken. In this concoction they are said to react wonderfully as "pick-me-ups." When live worms without cocoons are dug up they are mixed with a strong liquor, distilled from maize. Taken in this form they are considered a potent remedy against stomach ills.

So valuable is the "grass-worm" considered that hundreds of hunters make a living by gathering them. The hunters swarm the mountain slopes to search for these worms. They easily find eager buyers, anxious to purchase all they can dig up.

At this season, the ground is covered with these insects out of the ground. More often they are found in the cocoon, less often without. In either form they find a ready market.

Though somewhat smaller, they resemble silk-worms in appearance. The head is covered by a bridge-red crust. As winter approaches they burrow head-first straight down into the ground. Here they spin thin cocoons in which they wrap themselves. When the snow melts, their heads begin a sprouting process. Thin hairs, resembling grass, spring from the soil.

The people of the district believe that the sprouting blades open like flowers and scatter spores which in due time develop into other worms. The explanation may not stand the test of scientific investigation. Now that the missionaries have informed their superiors here, it may attract the attention of international zoologists.

In one year, or 365 1-4 days, the earth actually rotates 366 1-4 times.

Entombed Miner Saved By Fly

LONDON—(UP)—A fly savedthe sanity of a miner who was entombed for 16 hours in Pit House Colliery, Brandon, Durham.

A cave-in shut John Lumley off from the shaft and imprisioned him in a small hole. A rock pinned him in an agonizing position.

During all the hours of torment, he could hear no sound from outside. Only the buzzing of a fly, his only contact with life, gave him hope.

When rescue came and Lumley saw his fly soar to freedom, there were tears in his eyes.

CANADA WIDENS MEDICAL STUDY

OTTAWA, Ont. (UP)—Sir Frederick Banting, noted Canadian scientist and one of the discoverers of insulin, will survey medical research facilities in western Canada.

Sir Frederick was appointed by the Associate Commission on Medical Research facilities in all parts of Canada. He has just completed a survey of the maritime provinces. He is expected to report to the Associate Commission the results of his surveys early next year.

Sir Frederick's survey, made possible by the aid of the Canadian Medical association and the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada, has four chief aims—to help the associate commission to determine the requirements in respect to medical research and related affairs; to determine by whom the investigations required can be best carried out; to correlate the information and to make it available to those concerned, and to determine what money is required for adequate research and to recommend means of obtaining it.

During the survey of western Canada, Sir Frederick will visit the University of Manitoba, the University of Alberta, and the University of British Columbia.

On his return to eastern Canada, he will consult with Calgary and Regina hospitals and Brandon College authorities.

The Associate commission was financed by the National Research Council with the object of bringing into focus all work being done on medical research and to determine Canada's requirements.

FRIENDS HONOR MRS. GOSS, 103

RED CROSS IN VICTORY DINNER

Leading all four Red Cross chapters in the county in its membership roll call, and assured of its national quota of 1900 members when all work is in, and old members missed have been contacted, Northern Orange county chapter will have a victory dinner and annual meeting next Wednesday night at the Bit of Scandia in Fullerton.

Such was the report made by Mrs. Laura R. Warren, executive secretary of the Orange county council, at its meeting yesterday in the office of Dr. Llewellyn Wilson, Anaheim.

Iacentia First

Placentia branch is the first in Northern Orange county chapter to go over its quota which was 150 members. They report 160 enrolled. All other branches have workers and areas to hear from and all, excepting Yorba Linda, are approaching their quotas. A total of 1717 memberships were reported on hand to date, leaving less than 200 to put the chapter over the top, which is the best roll call in this chapter since the after-war period when 2000 members were enrolled.

Anaheim and Orange chapters have reached the 700 membership mark, with work still to be checked in. Anaheim's quota is 1450 members and Orange chapter's quota is 1150. Both chapters expect to go over the 800 mark through its following up of old memberships.

Others Pass Goal

Spurred on by Laguna Beach which has 903 memberships on hand, far excelling its quota of 700, and with San Clemente passing its goal of 100 members and other branches in the Santa Ana chapter are moving toward their quotas, excepting Santa Ana city, so Mrs. Warren reported. Only 1400 memberships have been turned in by Santa Ana to date, which is less than half of its quota of 3000 memberships.

There is still considerable material to be turned in from business and residence sections. The first returns in Santa Ana were excellent, better than the same areas last year, but the reports have lagged, and much territory has not and cannot be covered now. The chapter will follow-up old memberships in Panuary and hopes to approach or reach its quota of 4200 memberships.

Study Planned

The study of the blood transfusion service of the American Red Cross, which many chapters have inaugurated, is to be made by Dr. Wilson who will report his findings to the council at its next meeting in January.

The loving cup received from the Orange post No. 132 of the American Legion as second prize in the Armistice day parade, was exhibited, and admired by council members. Alfred Higgins, Orange, chairman of the council presided.

60-PIECE ORCHESTRA, SINGING ENSEMBLE APPEARS THURSDAY

With the symphony orchestra of 60 pieces and a singing ensemble of 30 voice, the fourth concert in the fall series presented by the federal music project, Thursday at the high school, is expected to attract a near-capacity audience.

Further, judging by the conspicuous things accomplished this season by the highly trained orchestra, playing in a creditable manner wholly superior program material, usually undertaken only by orchestras of major proportions, the coming winter concert series looms large and bright on the musical horizon.

Wide In Range

For the coming concert, the orchestra, with Leon Eckles in his accustomed place on the podium, is to perform an exceptional numgram, ranging from the Russian to the German school of musoc. Borodin, that eloquent spokesman in modern vernacular of the ballads, epics and chronicles of feudal Russia; of the chants of the savage tribes of the steppes and the ancient incantations of the eternal Mother Asia, will be heard in his Second Smphony in B-minor from whose pages blow a fresh and joyous and inspiriting wind.

Mighty Overture

Rounding out the compelling instrumental program is the blazing and mighty overture to Wagner's Tannhauser, an illuminating example of the triumph of sacred over profane love, and Mendelssohn's overture to "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Choral gems of the quality of Nobel Cain's "Music of Life," mentioning but one of four outstanding numbers, will be sung by the chorus augmented by Elsie Hart, Audrey Maag, Irma Rutter, Marquise Hare, Orlo Householder and John Massio, all prominent in music circles here.

Recall Expected

British papers forecast early recall of Herbert von Dirksen, above, German ambassador to London.

Jefferson Nickels Used In "Loans"

NORFOLK, Nebr. (UP)—Art Walter, Norfalk veteran, purchased more than $10 worth of new Jefferson nickels, then from his acquaintances he would ask for a nickel "loan."

All that responded received a new Jefferson nickel in return, to their astonishment.

Better Citrus Returns depend on Modern, Effective Merchandising and Better Price Basing Methods

The California-Arizona Marketing Agreement, that is, the Prorate, was started January 14, 1934. We growers in California expected Florida and Texas to work with us under a National Stabilization Plan. Our Prorate has in it a provision for just such a national plan and so did the original Florida agreement. But that Florida agreement was revoked and with it the provision for national unity of action. We have waited patiently five years now for Florida, have been strung along with promises and alibis the while Florida and others have taken advantage of our reduced shipments to increase their percentage of unloads, especially in the major eastern markets.

Why We Voted for Suspension of Prorates

On November 10, 1938, our members on the Prorate Committees voted to suspend setting weekly allotments. The Secretary of Agriculture, however, could have set them if he had seen fit. Apparently he did not deem such action advisable. The reasons we voted for suspension at that particular time were:

(1) The Navel season had not started and the Valencia crop was finishing. (Incidentally, the market went up as soon as proration was suspended.)

(2) To focus the attention of every grower on the necessity of stopping this defeatism propaganda which is depressing price levels, driving down the values of California citrus groves and weakening the credit of California citrus growers.

(3) To focus the attention of every grower on the acute necessity of working out a better distribution system, a system which will substitute for destruction or elimination of increasing percentages of our good fruit, a wider distribution of them; and the withholding from market of poor fruit now being forced into the markets by present volume prorate methods.

(4) To jolt some of those, charged with selling California citrus crops, out of their attitude of self-satisfaction so that instead of relying primarily on cutting our crops down to fit outmoded and stereotyped sales and distribution methods, they will take advantage of opportunities which exist to increase distribution and raise base price levels.

(5) To demonstrate to Florida growers and shippers that California growers are through holding the sack while Florida runs wild.

Whether by remarkable coincidence or otherwise, the fact is that after proration in California was suspended (1) a hearing was called for December 12, 1938, in Florida to consider a marketing agreement, and (2) the Secretary of Agriculture called a conference in Washington for November 21 of citrus producers, retailers, auction representatives and wholesalers and jobbers to work out a practical national merchandising plan.

Following the conference in Washington, a National Citrus Merchandising Committee consisting of grower, retailer and trade representatives was set up. This Committee holds its first meeting in Chicago in the near future. We have advocated such procedure for many years. We must bear in mind that volume proration, even on a national basis, can never be a substitute for effective merchandising.

In order that every opportunity be given to achieve success in both of these needed steps, and to prevent Florida or other interests from using suspension of proration in California as an alibi for not adopting a co-ordinated distribution plan with California, our members of the Prorate Committee, on November 25, 1938, voted to resume setting weekly allotments.

Real Issue Not Revealed

Much has been printed and said during the past few weeks about the Prorate. Unfortunately, the real issues have not been revealed.

At the proper time—and soon—we shall present what we believe are practical and constructive recommendations.

In the meantime, we do not expect to take part in a "dog fight," which in our opinion will further depress prices, further destroy the credit of the entire California citrus industry and create unnecessary antagonisms. The policy of "rule or ruin" will not help us growers. Our vital interest is to increase our returns, not to have larger organizations belittle their competitors and destroy that harmonious action so essential if California citrus growers are going to get the necessary results.

DON CAGERS OPEN AGAINST PASADENA

WEST WINDS
HERE AND THERE IN SPORT
By Eddie West

SPORTS-MAN-ABOUT-TOWN

"Big Bill" Cole, the frau and the Cole kiddies check in today from the University of Oregon. The Coles will be here until after the Christmas holidays and the New Year's Day game. Bill will scout the U.C.L.A.-Oregon game tomorrow. Getting a head start for next year . . .

Eddie Lane, the Broadway restaurateur, made a special trip to Pasadena to buy a flock of Rose Bowl tickets over the counter. He got back to Santa Ana with 'em only to lose two of his best. So it will be just too bad for the guy who pops up in the seats next to Lane on January 2 . . .

When high school gridmen elected co-captains for 1939 (Bobbie Musick and Bill Was) they may have been making up for lost time. It was the first time Coach Bill Foote allowed any balloting for a Saint captain in four years . . . Captain-elect Was played a whole season without having time out for injury but they had to take eight stitches on his lip after a touch-football collision with Wayne Piper the other day . . .

Tom Denney, the erstwhile Santa Ana outfielder, coaches Roosevelt high school's football squad which plays Los Angeles hi today for the Los Angeles City championship. Roosevelt is undefeated and untied. So is L. A. . . . The Newport Community Basketball league is said to be the only completely uniformed and self-officiated circuit in Orange county. A team of Harbor All-Stars will play the Negro Broadway Clowns next month, and also meet the Redheads.

Santa Ana's Don Warhurst will be first string center for California next season if we are to believe the Oakland Tribune, which says: "At center, Don Warhurst, 190-pound madeover frosh end, is virtually certain of finding a place on the varsity. He was one of the best defensive players on the Cub line, showing up well at defending fullback with his vicious tackling." The review also describes Orange's Ray Amling as "a consistently brilliant freshman performer at end, being particularly effective on defense," and refers to Santa Ana's Larry Stump as a frosh tackle worthy of varsity consideration . . .

Frank Hargrove, Placentia's young first baseman who had a big year at Hobbs, N. M., has been peddled to Dallas of the Texas league. He reports next spring . . . If any of those Orange county league clubs have ideas about ending the long reign of Tustin hi in basketball they haven't studied the Tillers' roster. Vic Linker and Larry Monroy are through but Hal Lilley comes in from Capistrano to take Monroy's spot and experienced hands like Walt Linker, Ev Winkler, Joe Keirsey, John and Jim Osterman, Marvin Lawrence, Frank Wataunki and Earl Casey return to man other positions . . .

Like Santa Ana's Dons, those Injuns of San Bernardino jaysee are trying to promote California's frosh for a trip north next fall. "Stub" Allison spoke at San Bernardino the other day, promised Coach Doug Smythe to do what he could . . . The three-month-old baby of Coach and Mrs. Alvin Reboin of Huntington Beach is seriously ill at St. Joseph hospital with pneumonia. The hundreds of friends of the popular Reboins are pulling hard for the little girl to hit the road to recovery . . .

Henry Christman is leading all the Santa Ana bowlers again. The big Dutchman's average is up around 184 . . Laguna Beach has a new bowling academy with six alleys . . . They say Ernie Johnson of the Boston Red Sox is sweet on a kid named Sylvester who plays halfback for Santa Barbara high school's championship-bound grid team. Only they want Sylvester to forget football and concentrate on baseball . . .

Tex Oliver's Oregons have an invitation to spend the 1939 Christmas holidays in Honolulu, playing the University of Hawaii. After opening the '39 schedule against U.S.C., Cal. and Stanford in rapid fire succession such a trip might be most advisable.

Stiner Worries About Heat

BRUIN-BEAVER GAME CLOSES COAST SEASON

KHJ and KRKD will broadcast the U.C.L.A.-Oregon State game, beginning at 1:45 p. m.

LOS ANGELES—(UP) — Coach Lon Stiner was worried about Southern California's midsummer weather today as he brought his Oregon State football team to Los Angeles for the Pacific Coast conference's windup game against U. C. L. A. in the Coliseum tomorrow.

It's been considerably cooler around Corvallis than the 90's that Los Angeles has been registering. Slightly cooler weather was forecast but Stiner expected nothing that was seasonable even for Southern California when his team goes out under the sun tomorrow.

U. S. L. A. was slightly favored in betting despite the fact that Kenny Washington and Jack Sommers are not in good shape.

SPEEDY SAINT CAGERS TRIM HARBOR, 42-18

Still undefeated, Santa Ana high school's basketball squad rounds out a busy week here today against Leuzinger's team from Inglewood. The Saints easily turned back Newport Harbor's Tars of the Sunset league at Newport Heights yesterday, 42 to 18.

Coach Joe Koegler's regulars may not have the height to cope with some of the stronger Citrus Belt quintets but against clubs of medium stature will be hard to beat. This was indicated at Newport where the speedy Saints piled up 21-9 margin at the half and went on to maintain approximately the same 2-1 margin in the second half.

Maurice Young, a guard, was high man for the Santa Anans with 13 points, Dick O'Neil, forward, accounted for 12, Gene O'Campo making 8. Center Don Donaldson contributed 8 to Harbor's total.

Coach Koegler first intended to use his juniors against the Tars but reversed his plans when a "reserve" contest was scheduled. The Saints also took this engagement, 23-19, after leading at halftime by one point, 9-8. Milton Mitchell paced Santa Ana with 8.

The Saints have only one game scheduled for next week (Garden Grove coming here Tuesday) before entering the annual Southern Counties tournament at Huntington Beach Thursday.

Both fighters were defeated in their last starts, Toles by Willie Reddish and Barlund by Lou Nova.

Saints Elect Two Captains

Meet the two boys who'll share the captaincy of Santa Ana high school's football squad next year. Oliver Hardy Finds Hoss Owning Costly

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD — America's biggest racing owner, whose green and white silks are as familiar in the winner's circle as Halley's Comet, was my partner at bridge yesterday and during the lull between our grand slams, told me of the trials and tribulations of a horse owner.

My partner, 320-pound Oliver Hardy, said it wasn't so much the original cost of a horse that made keeping a stable so expensive, but the horse's natural love for food and finery.

"My horses don't run as fast as Seabiscuit or War Admiral," Hardy said as he made a brilliant renege, "but I will bet you my third chin against your third chin, that they eat as much. Every day is Thanksgiving at my stable and the only thing they overlook is a liquer and cigars. As for the finery——"

"As I was saying about finery, if the $100,000 that's given out at the Santa Anita Handicap went to the best-dressed horse, my stable would finish one-two-three. Because there are no better dressed horses in America than mine. My horses are the Mrs. Harrison Williams and the Lucius Beebes of the turf. I am a sucker for a horse equipment salesman. I have one room that's devoted to bits alone. I have leather bits, brass bits, rubber bits, aluminum bits, obsolete bits, world's fair bits, and the whole collection isn't worth two bits, my trainer tells me."

During his eighteen months as a turfman, Hardy said, salesmen had sold him three times as much of everything as he could use, and twice that amount of stuff that he never will be able to use. Hundreds of blankets, dozens of buckets, western saddles, and enough bridles to hold back Boulder dam.

"I've only got six horses, and that's counting the one I lost last week at Caliente," Hardy said as he finessed the wrong way, "and they're worth about $2000. Yessir, $2000 worth of thoroughbred horseflesh, and $10,000 worth of equipment. I oughta enter my horses in parade instead of races."

Hardy, who is now working on a picture with Harry Langdon, started his stable with the celebrated Manny, a horse of such vast proportions that Hardy used to ride him in morning workouts.

"He would have been a derby winner, that Manny," Hardy sighed, "if it hadn't been for two little things. He didn't have any early foot and he couldn't stay very well. But his very bigness of heart and willing spirit brought him home in front in four races. As a man who doesn't think it is ethical for an owner to bet on his own horse—when he thinks he is going to lose—I didn't have a penny on Manny in his winning races."

Hardy finally sold Manny at auction, and he still dislikes to recall what happened when the auctioneer put his pride on the block.

"The auctioneer asked him how much was he offered," Hardy explained, "and somebody yelled 'a hundred dollars.' Before there was time for another bid the auctioneer banged his hammer and said he was sold. Damnation, I would have bid two hundred myself, what with all the trappings I had bought for him."

There was a 'phone call for Hardy.

He came back excited.

"Sorry to break up the game, boys," he said, "but there is a man waiting at my house with a new invention. Canned horse food. And he's going to let me buy the first three carloads."

Fullerton Five In North To Play Modesto

MODESTO—(UP) — Modesto's junior college basketball team will open its home season here tonight with a game with Fullerton junior college. In the season opener a week ago, the Modestans defeated the Stanford university freshmen, 35 to 27.

Plans meanwhile were being completed for a statewide junior college basketball tournament here Dec. 16 and 17.

HOLLYWOOD'S CLUB IS SOLD

HOLLYWOOD — (UP) — The Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast baseball league were under local ownership today.

The club was bought from Herbert Fleishhacker of San Francisco by a syndicate led by Victor Ford Collins, attorney-president of the Stars, and Robert H. Cobb, who owns the Brown Derby cafe and is the husband of Movie Actress Gale Patrick.

Collins, who announced the purchase, said Wade Killefer will remain manager and there will be no changes in the personnel.

A park will be built at once in the Hollywood district, he said.

"There are several other Hollywood and Los Angeles men in the syndcate," Collins announced. "It is planned that I will be president and Cobb vice-president. We believe that under new and local ownership that interest in the team will be greatly heightened."

He said today he had decided never again to play, and that that included professional football and several post-season all-star contests in which he had been invited to participate.

ELTISTE HOOPMEN LOSE TO TREESWEET

A three-way tie for the first-half Y. M. C. A. league championship loomed as a possibility today as a result of the unexpected defeat of Treesweet Products last night by Eltiste company. Eltiste's Truckmen tagged the Products five, 24-21.

Monday night's game between T. J. Neal's and Irvine's undefeated five promises to be the most hostly contested of the season. A victory for Irvine would cinch the first-half championship; if Neal's win a triple deadlock is probable. Providing Neal's cagers upset Irvine and Al's Keymen stop Treesweet Wednesday night the league will be all tied up between Irvine, T. J. Neal's and Al's.

The PAYOFF

By HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

While Pittsburgh breaks promises in its farcical attempt to be pure and powerful at the same time, it is served notice that the pressure remains on at football centers with which Dr. John G. Bowman, the chancellor, wishes to impress sufficiently to establish athletic relationship.

Ten of 25 freshmen involved in the current Pitt controversy, misunderstanding, or whatever it is, have been approached by unofficial representatives of high-ranking institutions with which Dr. Bowman is flirting. They have been informed that they would be welcome in new fields of learning if their troubles press on them so sorely that they feel a change of locale would be beneficial.

The yearlings insist upon dealing with Pittsburgh as a unit. That is fair enough. The university dealt with them separately, and now appears to have changed its mind.

It strikes me that the university should be more concerned about an athletic director whose office made the athletes promises which it apparently cannot keep than the boys. The athletes' seven-point list of alleged promises was made them by Walter Good, assistant to Jimmy Hagen, the athletic director, some time after Dr. Bowman decided to 'push de-emphasization to the limit."

HIGH-PRESSURE METHODS GO WITH FOOTBALL

There'll be high-pressure methods, proselyting, demands for coaches' scalps, and in some instances a letting down of scholastic bars, as long as football is played.

Illinois has always maintained a sane attitude toward athletics. This is largely due to the influence of the late George Huff, the university's athletic director for many years, in fact, until his death, and the man who hired Bob Zuppke when the latter was football coach at Oak Park high school of Chicago.

Huff represented the spirit of true amateurism.

Illinois came to be known as the school where a coach, providing he had ability, had a lifetime job. His tenure was as safe as that of a professor. It was not demanded of him that he produce a champion "or else."

Harry Gill, who retired some few years ago, was track coach when the university was in swaddling clothes. The predecessor of the present baseball coach died in harness.

Zuppke's line coach, Justa Lindgren, was at the university before Zup went there. Ed Manley, the swimming coach, is a veteran of more than 25 years.

COACH NO LONGER SAFE; ILLINI QUITS HUFF PLAN

An Illinois coach has been as safe as was Amos Alonzo Stagg, who when he was appointed many years ago as head man at Chicago, was given a professorship and a life appointment. He was not released until after the retirement age made his stepping down automatic.

As long as Huff was alive, Zuppke was free from interference.

Now it would appear that times have changed, although it is obvious that had his forced resignation been made to stick it would have been the most unpopular move in the university's history. Clearly his enemies are in the minority.

The present athletic director, Wendell Wilson, a former football player under Zuppke, obtained his appointment largely through the influence of Zup.

Now it would appear that Wilson, if not an actual anti-Zuppke man, at least lent his aid toward the movement to force the veteran coach to step down.

Even Illinois grew tired of taking it.

Report Sutherland Ready To Quit Pitt

By HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

Dr. Jock Sutherland definitely has decided to quit Pittsburgh, where he played and where he has coached for 15 years.

The silent Scot feels that with the present purity purge in effect that Pitt is finished as a pigskin power . . . keenly dislikes the way officials have handled the athletic situation.

Iowa wanted Dr. Sutherland. U. C. L. A. would like to have had him, but Navy would perhaps have the inside track should the service school decide to once more forsake the graduate coach plan.

Because of Duke's lack of offense, Dr. Sutherland picks Southern California to repel the Blue Devils by two touchdowns in the Pasadena Rose Bowl, Jan. 2.

He believes that the Panthers would have repulsed the Iron Dukes by that margin at Durham but for the slipperiness of the field. Marshall Goldberg & Co. was the more severely handicapped by the moisture, he contends, because of its preponderance of cutback plays, which invite slipping.

He traces Duke's Perfect '38 to its playing all of its more important opponents other than Pitt immediately after they had been in key games.

MIAMI AND NEW ORLEANS DIDN'T FARE BADLY

In the eyes of many, Miami and New Orleans landed better New Year's Day engagements than Pasadena.

The meeting of Tennessee and Oklahoma, unbeaten powerhouses, in the Orange Bowl, scarcely can miss being a titanic struggle.

It will be interesting to see whether the Carnegie Tech ends can stifle Davey O'Brien's passes as Texas Christian in the Sugar Bowl attempts to demonstrate that its high-scoring reputation was not falsely built within the Southwest Conference.

Certainly, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Texas Christian and Carnegie Tech rate with the nation's leaders.

Football troubles are not confined to Pittsburgh, Illinois, Iowa, and other seats of learning about which much has been written.

From a subnormal 1938 squad, Yale loses 16 players, including such first-string backs as Al Wilson, Eddie Collins, Bill Snavely, Gil Humphreys, and Johnny Miller, and such regular linemen as Bill Moody, Art Dyess, Arch Hoxton, Bill Platt, Bill John, Charley Miller, and Stu Hemingway.

YALE RECRUITING STAFF MUST HUSTLE

Eight of the men who started the Harvard game get diplomas next June.

Worse still, nothing much is coming up from the freshmen, whom Reggie Root calls the weakest the Elis have had in years. The 1938 frosh averaged barely 170 pounds.

"It could scarcely be called a fair high school squad," says Coach Root. "Only two, Hovey Seymour, a promising triple threat, and Westfeldt, a rugged blocking guard, appear to be of varsity calbier.

"Spreyer and Lee, two of the finest backs on the Harvard freshman team, come from West Haven, Conn. We understood they were preparing for Yale, but when they showed up in New Haven both were wearing Crimson jerseys."

It looks like the Yale recruiting staff will have to get out and hustle.

AL ETTORE BEATEN BY UNKNOWN BOXER

PHILADELPHIA — (UP) — Al Etore, onetime topflight heavyweight who met Joe Louis, Tony Galento, John Henry Lewis and other "name" fighters, appeared today to be definitely on the down trail after dropping a 10 round decision to Wally Sears of Minersville, Pa. He tired quickly and was off on his timing. He weighed 197 and Sears 175.

JACK ROBINSON OF GRID FAME HEADS INVADERS

Coach Bill Cook's Santa Ana Don basketball forces open their 1938-39 season tonight in Andrews gymnasium on the high school campus.

The opposition is Coach Carl Metten's Pasadena junior college squad, led by their All-America candidate in football, dusky Jackie Robinson. The Pasadena Bulldogs come here fresh from smashing practice victories over National Schools of Los Angeles 67-24, and Pomona jaysee yesterday.

Tonight's contest starts at 8 o'clock. A nominal admission will be charged.

The Dons tee off without the services of "Sky-high" Cy Leivermann, six-foot-six center, who has been ordered to rest for at least one week because of an aggravated arm injury which he incurred in the Fullerton football game.

Leivermann's place at center will be taken by Bob Schildmeyer, member of Orange high school's Sunset league champion last year. In practice Schildmeyer has shown he has the stuff to become a regular on the Don quintet. Under the basket the lanky Orange youth is especially adept at dumping in set-up shots and follow-ins. Charles Hall and Art Heinisch, forwards; Lynn Arnett and Larry Monroy, guards, are slated to get the starting call along with Schildmeyer. Monroy is up from Tustin's champion teams of the past two years.

Coach Cook probably will use two teams against the Bulldogs, which means that Team No. 2 (composed of Don Borden and Ted DeVelbiss, forwards; Elson Gaebe, center; Vic Lindskog and Jimmie Nunez, guards) will take the floor mid-way in the first half. Other early replacements who probably will break in are Russ Dearden, a crack ball-handler, and Jack Stafford and Vernon Worden, guards.

Pasadena's starting lineup which includes Jackie Robinson, All-Western conference forward, will see George McNutt, who ran wild last week against National Schools, teaming with Robinson at forwards, lanky Les O'Gara at center, Bill Leveille, and ex-center George Good at guard. Coach Metton will use at least three teams against the Dons.

TUSTIN FIVE EASY WINNER AT TOURNEY

An easy winner in the first round, Tustin high school's promising club meets Chino tomorrow morning in the semi-finals of the ninth annual La Verne invitational basketball tournament. Tustin is defending champion.

The Farmers routed Colton, 34-14, in the first round last night. If Tustin beats Chino, it will go into the finals Saturday night. Other results yesterday: Chino 20, Capistrano 11; San Bernardino 28, Burbank 18; Huntington Beach 29, South Pasadena 14.

JACK DEMPSEY AWARDED NEIL BOXING AWARD

NEW YORK—(UP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, today was the proud possessor of the first annual Edward J. Neil Memorial Award, presented each year by the New York Boxing Writers' association to the active or retired fighter who has done most for the betterment of boxing.

Dempsey won the award by 20 votes to 11 over Henry Armstrong, lightweight and welterweight champion. Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis received one ballot.

The award is a memorial to the late Edward J. Neil, well-known Associated Press boxing writer and war correspondent who died from shell wounds in Spain Jan. 2. The plaque will be formally presented at the association's annual dinner.

Dempsey was selected because he, as the "best known and most widely admired person" connected with the game, campaigned constantly in various sections during 1938 for the improvement of boxing.

Before the vote was taken, Dempsey and his former arch rival, Gene Tunney, joined in criticizing Manager Ray Carlen for trying to boost Lou Nova, young Alameda, Cal., heavyweight, up the ladder too fast. Nova meets Tommy Farr of Wales in Madison Square Garden next Friday night.

Tunney said it usually required five or six years to season a heavyweight for top-flight competition and he doubted Carlen's judgment in matching Nova with such an experienced man as Farr so early in his career. Tunney said "greedy" managers tried to bring along their boys too rapidly and that was the reason there were so few good heavyweights today.

Dempsey asked Nova how many fights he'd had and Nova replied: "I've had 26 professional and 15 amateur fights."

Dempsey chuckled and said, "why—you're just a baby in this business."

Carlen, surprised and irritated, said: "I don't feel that I'm a greedy manager, like Tunney and Dempsey are trying to make me out. I gave up my business in California and put all my eggs into one basket—Nova's. He'll make me or break me."

HOOSIERS LOSE MAT STAR

Bob Haak, Indiana's 230-pound tackle and heavyweight wrestler, will be lost to the Hoosier mat team this season because he will participate in the East-West Shrine game at San Francisco New Year's Day.

Owners Act To End Baseball Subterfuge

BY TED MALOY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW ORLEANS — (UP)—Baseball will never have another "Feller incident."

In the records of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues today was a constitutional amendment permitting major league clubs to hire directly all sand - lot and semi-professional players their budgets will permit.

Minor league executives, in annual meeting here, believed the amendment would eradicate the "subterfuge" in the so-called "Baltimore agreement" between major and minor leagues adopted in Montreal two years ago. The action still must be approved by the major leagues but they are almost certain to adopt it at their annual meeting in New York next week.

The amendment, adopted yesterday, did not destroy the "Baltimore agreement," but it did alter it to wipe out what Commissioner K. M. Landis termed "subterfuge."

Under the old system, as provided in the "Baltimore agrement," major league clubs could recommend players to minor league clubs with the understanding that when the sand-lotter signed a contract with the minor club, he would work for the major outfit that spotted him. The most noted case of this type was the signing of Pitcher Bob Feller by New Orleans while he still was a student at Van Meter, Ia. high school. He was "recommended" to New Orleans by the Cleveland Indians and reported directly to the Indians.

The new amendment provides majors may deal directly with sand-lotters and semi-pro players. It was a substitute for one that would have eliminated the major-minor agreement.

The association convention now has adopted 23 amandments, most of them looking toward more unity in minor league baseball, has defeated three, substituted one and will act on five today, one of which deals with signing of college players.

One of the adopted amendments defines a "rookie" as a player with one year of previous experience and a "non-class" player as one with limited professional experience, the extent of which may be established by the employing club. All other players will be in the "class" division.

Outside the convention rooms, there still was plenty of activity in the "ivory" market, although Chief Trader Bill Terry, New York Giants manager, had left. Terry, Giant President Horace Stoneham and Louis Comiskey, Chicago White Sox president, flew to New York and some baseball men believed that a Sox-Giant trade was imminent.

Frankie Frisch, former St. Louis Cardinals manager, continued to hold out for a big league job. He conferred with President Seymour Weiss of the New Orleans Pelicans and presumably was offered the position as manager here.

"I think I'm going to get a big league job," Frisch said. He also has talked with Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds, "Pie" Traynor of the Pittsburgh Pirates and President Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees.

MARA DENIES 'SCALPING' OF OWN TICKETS

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Tim Mara protested today that the raid by federal agents on the ticket office of his New York professional football Giants had been a "frame-up."

The raiders charged they had paid $2 above the face value for several tickets to Sunday's world's championship game between the Giants and the Green Bay Packers, and that the excessive charge constituted box office scalping.

They arrested Mara's 29-year-old niece, Mrs. Helen Mara, who was in charge of the office, and Charles Chaplin, 21, a clerk, on charges of evading federal taxes by failure to stamp the amount received on the back of the tickets.

The tickets were marked $4.40, and according to the federal agents, even the speculators were having to pay $6.80 for them. The ascendancy of professional football had long ago assured a sell-out of the 50,000 to 60,000 seats at the Polo Grounds for the championship game and tickets have been at a premium from the first.

Mara, who promoted prize fights in the days of "Tex" Rickard and has promoted various sports events since then, said there wasn't any truth in the complaints. His niece was released in his custody and he bailed out Chaplin for $250 pending action by a grand jury.

The Giants, preparing for the big game, were giving serious consideration to a lesson learned by the Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions during the regular campaign just ended.

"Beware of the Packers the second time out," was the warning sounded by the Bears and Lions. Each licked the Packers once only to have a rude awakening in return games.

In their first meeting the Bears trimmed the Packers, 2-0, but were licked, 24-22, in their second encounter. The Lions knocked off the Packers, 17-7, and then were routed, 28-7, in their return battle.

SOUTHEASTERN LOOP OKEYS BOWL GAMES

GAINESVILLE, Fla.—(UP)—Intercollegiate Southeastern conference directors gave strong indication today as they went into their annual business session that the circuit would abide by its present undeclared policy of permitting its teams to play in any and all post-season bowl games.

Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida which is host to the meeting, said he knew of no intention to propose permanent connection between the conference and the Sugar or Orange Bowl games.

P.-T. A. Record Reached In S. A.

With the high school and thejunior college yet to file their membership statistics for the year, Mrs. James K. Givens, membership chairman of the Santa Ana P.-T. A. Council, today announced that a record total of 618 persons held memberships in various school groups in the city. The Council met this week at Hoover school.

This is 21 more persons thanlast year and with the junior college and high school reports, it will be one of the largest P.-T. A. memberships in Santa Ana history.

Tells of Plans

Mary B. Robinson, Council member called attention to the recent Exceptional Childrens' Institute which was held in Huntington Beach. Frank Henderson, superintendant of Santa Ana school, reported that a school for children who are handicapped physically, will be started at the John Muir school after the first of the year.

A request that the different P.-T. A. groups in he city "get behind" the "Mother Singers" organiation under the direction of Mrs. Ernest Elsner was made. The Mother Singers hope to get atleast five members from each P.-T. A. group.

In some parts of Great Britain, "dragon's blood," ordinarily used for dyes and varnishes, still is popular as a love potion.

Visitors Day Is Planned

Many persons in this vicinity will be interested in the announcement of visitors day at the Armacosta-Royston Greenhouses at Sawtelle, on Bundy Drive between Santa Monica and Pico boulevards west of Sawtelle. The date for the event has been set for Dec. 14 from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Christmas decorations, roses, potted plants and orchids will be on display. An exhibit of orchids, valued at $6000, was entered at the Los Angeles County Fair this fa by this firm. Members of the fir are among the largest growers orchids in the country. No carc of admission are required.

In England, ambulances and fir trucks may ignore the speed lim its, but are required to observe a other traffic regulations.

Jimmie Fidler In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9.—It certainly does beat all how suspicious and critical some people are. You'd be surprised if you knew, for instance, how many Hollywoodites—who should know better—suspect Sam Goldwyn of an ulterior motive in making Jimmie Roosevelt a vice-president of his company. Completely overlooking the fact that Mr. Roosevelt ,in spite of his tender years, has been a conspicuous success in every business that he has touched since 1932, they contend that the one day which Jimmie spent here, some weeks ago, did not give him a solid enough background in picture-making to warrant a studio vice-presidency. They even hint that Sam Goldwyn might be trying to ingratiate himself with the President of the United States. Tch, tch!

There, in a nutshell, you have Hollywood's chief trouble— suspicion. Sam Goldwyn, being a genius, knows how to recognize genius. As far as Jimmie Roosevelt's practical picture experience is concerned, he's certainly as well equipped as many of the other vice-presidents who spend Hollywood's milions. And look what a success he was as an insurance man! Doesn't that mean something? Of course it does—and the opposition press recognized it long ago. Then, too, there's the matter of spirit. Jimmie proved he has it when he announced that he wanted to be identified with an industry "in which service to the general

CHECK REVEALS $3600 PER UNIT

California's farm income for 1938 will approximate $475,000,000, equivalent to $3600 per farm unit, or 20 per cent less than 1937, the Wall Street Journal's Pacific coast edition estimated today in San Francisco.

The estimate for the entire 12th federal reserve district was $925,000,000, or an average of $2600 per farm unit. The 12th district comprises the western states.

"The current survey of agriculture of the Federal Reserve bank of San Francisco," the newspaper said, "places the gross agricultural return in the district for the first 10 months of the year at about a fifth less than in the like 1937 period.

"While prices have stiffened moderately in some directions in late weeks, nothing has occurred to indicate that the results for the 10 months, representing as they do the major part of the year's harvests, will not be the fully controlling factor of the year.

"The bank points out that the recession in coastal farm income—51 per cent of which was accrued in California last year—is relatively more severe than the national average, due to the more preponderant part played by crops rather than livestock products in making up the return.

"The national decline for the first 10 months of the year was set at 13 per cent against the far western 20 per cent.

"Nationally, it is calculated about 54 per cent of aggregate farm income is accrued from livestock and products of livestock while in the 12th district the ratio is only about 45 per cent. But, whereas the indicated decline in the average prices of farm crops has been about 30 per cent from the 1937 level, the decline for livestock has been only about 10 per cent.

"Projected upon 1937 estimates, these ratios would make the value of 12th district crops for the full year of 1938 about $485,000,000 and of livestock and products about $427,000,000. The remainder of farm income, a small proportion, has represented benefit payments . . . .

"Some of the important elements of coast agriculture, notably California fruit, already have been recognized to have fared badly. This was true especially of the heavy peach crop and some secondary fruit supplies. Rescue operations have been necessary for grapes. The 1937-38 citrus results, too, were disappointing in that with a California-Arizona crop nearly a third larger than the average of the preceding five years, buying power was estimated to have been 20 per cent lower than in 1937, so that large sections of the industry did well to break even on the year's operations.

"In the poultry and egg business from which California growers realized about $45,000,000 gross in 1937, and Oregon and Washington growers about $30,000,000, indications now are that gross returns for 1938 will have run between $65,000,000 and $70,000,000 for both areas combined."

Adults Play Child Parts

Above is a scene from "The Little Princess," children's play in which all actors are adults. The play will be presented at 3 p. m. next Wednesday in the Santa Ana high school auditorium by the Mrs. Clare Tree Major Children's theater troupe. The public is invited to attend the play, sponsored by the Fourth District P.T. A.

"GROWN-UPS" TO PLAY CHILD ROLES AT SCHOOL WEDNESDAY

When the Mrs. Clare Tree Major Children's theater presents "The Little Princess" at the Santa Ana high school auditorium at 3 p. m. next Wednesday, under auspices of the Fourth District P.-T. A., there will not be a single child on the stage, for the entire cast is made up of adult professional players.

"The Little Princess" is one of a series of children's plays scheduled for presentation here by the adult professionals.

Gets Better Results

"The professional stage is no place for children," Mrs. Major stated., "I get better results from having grown-ups play children on the stage than I should by using actual children. Then, too, young boys and girls should be in school, laying the foundations of a solid education."

To parents of dramatically gifted children, Mrs. Major advises a sound general cultural education as a basis for successful adult work in the theater. A thorough musical training helps and dancing and body-building are of utmost importance, she says.

Age 18 is Requirement

Except in extraordinary cases, Mrs. Major believes no young person should attempt a stage career before the age of 18 and incidentally, that is the age of the youngest player in "The Little Princess."

Reservations for "The Little Princess" may be made at the high school next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings from 9 to 12 noon. Mrs. C. W. Eggleston, 1416 Louise street, will make reservations for those who wish tickets before Monday.

Toastmasters Use Debate For Novel Feature

An entirely new type of program was featured at this week's Smedley Chapter Toastmasters club dinner meeting in Daniger's when a debate was presented on the subject, "Resolved, That the United States Immigration Department Open the Nation's Doors to German Jews."

W. N. Cummings, Dr. Mark Dalton and D. H. Tibbals spoke on the affirmative and Fred Walker, George Angne and Ross Boyd, on the negative. Dr. Dalton and Tibbals won first and second places, respectively, for their talks.

D. K. Brown attended the program as guest of Horace Ensign and William Friend as guest of President W. O. Mendenhall. Friend was a guest speaker on the subject, "State Rights." Sam Long was toastmaster of the evening, R. Perry Davis, general critic.

British "Little Men" Save Billions

LONDON, (UP)—Crises maycome and go, but Britain's "little men" go on saving steadily.

That was revealed by Lord Mottistone, as chairman of the National Savings Committee. Money held by the Post Office Savings Bank, the Trustee Savings Banks and money invested in National Savings certificates in Great Britain totalled the record sum of $7,265,000,000.

PWA FUNDS TO STATE LISTED

With the virtual completion of allotments by the Federal Public Works administration under the 1938 program, Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes announced today that California had received the fifth largest amount of money of the states. Only New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio, in the order named, were granted more funds. A total of $29,826,268 was allocated to California communities. Of this amount, $28,522,268 constituted outright grants and $1,304,000 was advanced in loans, Ickes said.

292 New Projects

Since the PWA contributions invariable are 45 per cent of the costs of projects it approves, this means the construction program being released in California under this agency's sponsorship will put into active circulation the total sum of $63,313,128. The number of new projects thus assured for this state is 292.

According to a statement issued today by Kenneth A. Godwin, PWA regional director, 86 per cent of California's PWA projects are already under construction, although the deadline for such starting is next January 1.

"Exactly 249 projects are under way as of today and, in addition, four projects are actually completed," he said. "We regard this as a remarkable record, which proves beyond any doubt that the PWA is a very high-geared medium for getting extensive heavy public construction to going when the stress of economic reverses most requires it."

Four Jobs Finished

The four projects, thus early completed, and among the very first of the current program to be finished in the entire United States, are a pipe line at San Diego at a cost of $22,750; watermains at Napa costing $24,990; a well, pump and mains at Tehachapi at a cost of $16,207; and, a school shop building at Suisun, costing $6,470.

Bridal Theme Stressed At Gala Affair

January will bring the wedding of Miss Elinor Morilla and Leland McCabe, whose romantic plans inspired a shower for the bride-elect last night in the home of Miss Hazel Cartwright, 1423 Cypress avenue. Miss Cartwright and Mrs. Marvin Starry were hostesses at this pleasant hospitality.

The game of whoopie provided exciting diversion, with prizes rewarding Mrs. Harry Manns and Miss Ruth McBurney for their high scores. Traveling award was in the hands of Miss Eunice Spicer when the contest closed.

Baby chrysanthemums and other decorative details in white decked the table at which Miss Morilla was seated for the refreshment interval. Other tables were centered with white stocks and colorful sweet peas.

An especially lovely bouquet formed the key for a shower feature, since Miss Morilla was asked to search for packages wrapped in tissues and ribbons repeating the tones of the flowers. The honoree thus came into possession of miscellaneous gifts.

Assisting Miss Cartwright and Mrs. Starry during the evening was the former's mother, Mrs. H. S. Cartwright. Others in the group were the bride-to-be, with her mother and two sisters, Mrs. Mildred Morilla, Miss Doris Morilla and Mrs. Meredith Crumley; the Misses Barbara Reed, Betty Reed, Eunice Spicer, Louise Sexton, Betty Martin, Eva Bergee, Melva Thorpe, Ruth McBurney, this city.

Mesdames Harry Manns Herbert Woodyard, Maitland Wolfe, Ray Cartwright, La Rene Levens, Corwin Frazee, Ellsworth Starry, Santa Ana; Mrs. Stewart Meece, (Mary Lou McFarland), Mrs. John Conliske and Mrs. Harry McCabe, Long Beach; Mrs. Lynn Fry, Glendale; Mrs. Walter Carothers (Dorothy Drew) and Mrs. Don Hatfield, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Shaw presided over the business meeting at which officers elected to serve with Mrs. Wiley were Mrs. S. A. Jones and Mrs. Henry Meyer, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. Edgar E. Cox preceptress; Mrs. E. A. Pagenkopp, recorder; Mrs. W. M. Clayton, treasurer. Formal installation will be an event of Wednesday, January 4.

In the meantime Mrs. Shaw will continue to preside, and on December 21 the assembly will meet in the temple for a noonday covered dish luncheon. The guest table for the refreshment interval bore a cross of cotoneaster and a beautiful birthday cake baked by Mrs. J. W. Hancock. Mrs. E. A. Pagenkopp also presented a special cake to the honoree. Mrs. W. H. Thomas poured coffee. A shower of dainty handkerchiefs and other gifts completed the party. Present with Mrs. Smith were her houseguest, a sister recently arriving from the east, and a brother and his wife, also visiting from the east, W. M. Clayton also attended the party.

Mrs. W. B. Williams arranged a Christmassy setting for a party at which she was hostess early this week when bridge club members and a foursome of guests were entertained in her home, 1502 North Main street.

Mrs. George Munro, an absent member, sent the colorful sweet peas which decked the rooms. Dessert was served at small tables centered with holly sprays provided by a guest, Mrs. Horace Segerstrom.

The hostess had arranged an attractive assortment of gifts in Christmas wrappings, with the two grand prizes going to Mrs. Hazel Turner and Mrs. Eugene Tradewell, who scored high in bridge. The remaining packages were distributed so that each guest received a holiday remembrance from Mrs. Williams.

Guests were Mrs. Segerstrom, Mrs. Tradewell, Mrs. J. H. Metzgar and Mrs. Byron Curry. They shared the afternoon with Mrs. Williams and Mesdames Fleetwood Bell, Alex Brownridge, F. E. Earel, C. F. Skirvin, Hazel Turner, John H. Bower and J. C. Sexton.

Hill-Top Home Party Setting Is Intriguing

Luncheon guests yesterday of Mrs. Harry E. Welsh in her delightful hill-top home in Fullerton, had the experience of enjoying their menu from what appeared to be fascinating wrapped Christmas packages. For with much originality, the hostess arranged her individual tables with banded wide scarlet cellophane and flaring bows caught with clusters of bright cellophane straws, so that the package effect was very convincing.

Wreaths and sprays of holly were used about the home, and their bright berries and green leaves formed the decorative motif for place cards, and for tally cards and score pads for after-luncheon contract play. All were the handiwork of Mrs. Hubert B. Nall of this city.

Mrs. Welsh was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. Jessie M. Wittmann, and by Mrs. Nall and Mrs. Harold Nelson of this city. They aided also in arranging the table groupings for the afternoon's card play. A charming crystal place card set rewarded Mrs. John Cannon for high scoring, while pretty stationery was presented as second prize to Mrs. Leon Dickey, and as special guest prize to Mrs. Nall. Tissues and ribbons enclosing the gift packages added another note to the prevailing Yuletide symphony.

On her guest list Mrs. Welsh included with her mother, Mrs. Wittmann, Mesdames Edwin T. McFadden, Harold Nelson, Henry Williams, Hubert Nall, William Stauffer, Harvey Spears, John Cannon, Charles Swanner, Howard Rapp, Fred Merker, Leon A. Westover Home Lends Setting For Fried Oyster Supper

Senator and Mrs. Harry Westover's attractive home on Balboa Island presented a more colorful appearance than ever Wednesday evening for a bridge club party which began with the serving of fried oyster supper.

The luscious oysters had been sent to the Westovers from New Orleans, La. Miss Dorothy Westover, daughter of the home, assisted in serving the tempting supper at tables brightened with clusters of ranunculus in vivid reds and yellows. Other bouquets of the bright-hued flowers were here and there about the rooms.

A suggestion of holiday time came with the fruit cake which had been provided as first prize in bridge. The hosts were fortunate in scoring high.

Since the Westovers will leave December 28 for Sacramento, Wednesday's party really served as a farewell affair for the Senator, who will remain in the north in his official capacity. He will be accompanied to Sacramento by Mrs. Westover, Miss Dorothy and Harry jr., who will return home soon after the Governor's ball which is scheduled for early January.

In the group with the Westovers were Mr. and Mrs. Orlyn Robertson, the Loyal Kings, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Newcomb jr., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nisson and a guest couple, Mr. and Mrs. C. Mortimer Plum, substituting for the William H. Wrights.

Rug Expert

SAMUEL MARDIGIAN

Authority On Oriental Rugs Will Be Presented By Section

Because Ebeli society's Antique section is bringing such a well known authority on oriental rugs as Samuel Mardigian of South Pasadena, down for a program next Wednesday afternoon in the clubhouse, its members are making the occasion an open meeting for all Ebell members and friends, and staging the event in the clubhouse auditorium at 2 o'clock. In addition the section will entertain as special guests, members of a similar section in Covina Women's club.

Samuel Mardigian has appeared before other local organizations where his intimate knowledge of oriental rugs has provided memorable programs for study groups. On Wednesday afternoon he will explain the finer points of the weaving art, illustrated by examples of fine rugs. Rugs owned by various Santa Anans will be used in these illustrations. Furthermore, the host section has suggested that everyone possessing old and valuable rugs, may bring them if they wish, and have the advantage of the speaker's knowledge as to their age and classification.

Mrs. Loyal King as section leader, will preside over the meeting and guests are asked to remain after the unique program, and enjoy a cup of tea with the hostesses of the afternoon, Mrs. Charles Bressler and her committee, Mesdames W. Bradford Hellis, Alice Hill Hatch, E. T. Battey and Charles F. Smith.

Yule Party Shared By Friendship Circle

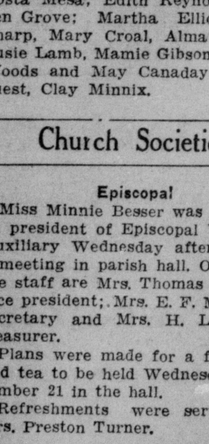

Animated by the Christmas spirit now so prevalent, was the happy party shared Tuesday night by Friendship Circle members of South Santa Ana Church of Christ, in the Charles Hoff home, 1126 North Flower street.

Mrs. Hoff had evergreen wreaths, scarlet candles and cotoneaster sprays decking her entire home, with a pretty Christmas tree as center of the design. At its base were heaped gift packages, whose distribution disclosed the identities of the year's mystery pals.

Following the evening's varied diversions and gift exchanges the hostess employed trays for serving a salad course with coffee to her guests. Circle members present were Mesdames George McConnell, Howard Bosworth, Joe Friend, William Appling, Ed Boose, Edith Hull, Field Rathbone, Joe Kelly, Paul Jones, James Smith, Frank Cannon, T. Vance, Lew Hoff, Louis White, Homer Lindley, Dorothy Noran, George E. Triplett, Earl Thomas, Kenneth Green, George Pickett, Anna Cozad, Charles Brienner, Florence Jolly, the Misses Mary Armstrong, Isophene Michael and Lennie Wright, with the hostess and her husband's mother, Mrs. Anna Hoff of Pasadena, now making an extended visit here.

Highlighting the holiday calendar for Jack Fisher chapter and auxiliary, D.A.V., will be an annual Christmas party Wednesday, December 21 at 7:30 p.m. in Knights of Columbus hall for children of Orange county disabled veterans, it was announced today.

Plans were made Wednesday evening when the chapter and auxiliary held individual meetings following a joint covered-dish dinner in the hall. The Christmas party will include entertainment and refreshments, with gifts for all the children.

On the committee in charge will be Mesdames Fannie Reeves and Harry Pickard, tree decorations; Al Jones and Harry Edwards, entertainment; M. R. Crawford, Alice Gransgaard, Arthur Neilsen, toys; Olga Wood and Emma Kelly, candy; Claude Pullen, John Cleary and Frances Thatcher, dining room; Elvina Cooper, refreshments for children; William Hutchinson, refreshments for adults; Edwin Redford and Charles Burrier, hall decorations.

Mrs. James Wylie, commander, conducted this week's meeting. Mrs. Dean Laub reported on a visit to Sawtelle hospital, at which time calls were made to 12 veterans; 500 magazines, cigarets and candies were taken to the patients. A report was given on D.A.V. eighth district meeting recently at Twenty-Nine Palms, where Mrs. Laub and Mrs. Edwin Redford represented the local group. Mrs. Wylie told of Orange County Veterans' association meeting held Tuesday in Orange.

Members voted to contribute one dollar to a leper colony in Louisana; and two dollars to be used for Sawtelle hospital Christmas cheer fund.

Plans were completed for a Christmas dinner which the auxiliary will hold next Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Harry Edwards, 2512 North Park boulevard. Turkey dinner will be served, and there will be a gift exchange. Members are reminded to bring donations of home made candies for veterans in hospitals. Following dinner, the group will work on cretonne bags which will be filled with gifts for the veterans.

State Educator Pays Visit To County Group

Miss Winifred Van Hagen, assistant chief of physical education in the state department of education spent Tuesday in this city, and that night was speaker at a meeting of Orange County School Music Teachers' association at Huntington Beach elementary school.

Mrs. Bess Murphey, president of the county group, directed the meeting. In connection with the event, Miss Van Hagen conducted an Institute session, leading a play night program which proved of special enjoyment to the 125 members in attendance.

Tuesday noon, Miss Van Hagen was complimented at luncheon given at Danigers by county department supervisory staff.

Hospitality Is Shown Visitor From Piedmont

Concluding an all-to-brief visit here at the Irvine ranch home of the Paul Dinsmores, Mrs. Louis Ghirardelli of Piedmont left last night for a similar short visit with Pasadena friends before her departure tomorrow for her northern California home.

Mrs. Dinsmore attempted to show her guest some of the pleasant phases of Orange county life while she was here, the hospitable plans including an afternoon spent in Our Village with its fascinating studios, art gallery and little shops, a sight-seeing tour of the famous San Joaquin Rancho, and an informal but delightfully intimate little bridge luncheon.

In planning the luncheon event, Mrs. Dinsmore called a few friends together at a moment's notice, but all were keenly interested in meeting Mrs. Ghirardelli, whose poise and charm added to her wide travel experience, make her a remarkable personality. She has visited practically every country on the surface of the globe for since her family was reared, she has devoted her time and her zest for living, to seeing the places she had dreamed of as a girl.

Her conversational powers made the luncheon hour in the ranch home, doubly pleasant, and it was almost with reluctance that guests turned to the afternoon's contract play. Mrs. Leonard G. Swales and Mrs. H. T. Dunning made the prize-winning scores.

Fourth Birthday Given Festive Observance

Quite the merriest celebration in which little Miss Faith Ranney has ever figured was her fourth birthday party Tuesday afternoon in the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Ranney, 2456 Heliotrope Drive.

There were games to add to the festivity of the occasion, shared by a large group of playmates. The honoree received many gifts. Serving of birthday cake and ice cream was accomplished in a colorful setting to which balloons added their charm. Each little girl received a mechanical clown figure as a favor, while the boys were presented with small trucks.

In the group were Faith and her two and a half year old sister, Joyce; with their three cousins, Sylvia Ranney, Joan and Clifford Ranney, and Doug and Pete Horton, Jackie Conklin Ann and Robbie Wade, Sandra Walker, Peter Newman, Alice Harvey, Shirley Stauffer and Jerry Howard.

IN STEVENS HOME

For their latest meeting, members of a bridge club were received in the home of Mrs. Horace Stevens, Tustin, where luncheon was served in advance of card play.

Mrs. Harry Matthews of Los Angeles, former resident of this city, was a guest, playing for Mrs. Mona Summers Smith. Members in the group were the hostess and Mesdames John Ball, Fred Forgy, Hugh Lowe, Richard Emison, Dexter Ball, Lawrence Coffing, Rex Kennedy, Herbert Miller, Baxter Jouvenat and J. B. Tucker.

Mixing Bowl
BY ANN MEREDITH

In yesterday's Sweet Potato pattie recipe, directions said to bake each crumbed pattie in a muffin cup. That's all right as far as baking goes, but I wonder if the patties can be taken out without wrecking their beautiful shape and crisp tops? I have grave doubts that they can, so, I'd line my muffin tins with paper muffin cups, brushed with butter. It is a simple matter to lift out the cups and arrange as a garnish.

There are many places where these paper cups do duty: try the larger size for serving creamed vegetables that just will run, and destroy the palatable looks of a dinner plate. Use the smaller size for sauces of various kinds . . . tartar sauce, for example. Or, fill them with soft cranberry jelly when Christmas day dinner comes along.

You fat ladies, lend me your ears! 'tween now and Christmas Day lose a few of those pounds if you want to enjoy your dinner. You'll be amazed how much you can lose even in the short time of ten days, so get busy and write for the new diet sheet (3 diets). Please enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Sally Lunn

Sift 1 quart bread flour with 1 rounded teaspoon salt.
Rub into flour 2 tablespoons lard or vegetable fat.
Dissolve 1-2 cake of yeast in 1-4 cup tepid water. Combine with
2 beaten eggs,
1 tablespoon sugar and
2 cups of milk.

Pour the liquids into depression in flour and work the mass into a smooth thick batter. Let rise overnight. In the morning stir down and spread in a generously buttered pan, batter about an inch deep in pan. Cover and bake in a moderate oven when light.

The batter will take at least an hour to rise. Serve in squares with butter, jam or honey.

A fine way to use turkey or chicken bones is in this thick soup.

Mulligatawny Soup

Melt 4 tablespoons butter in soup kettle. Into butter put these ingredients and saute for 15 minutes:
6 boiling onions, peeled and chopped
1-2 can mushrooms, chopped
2 tomatoes, peeled and sliced
3 apples, peeled and chopped
1-2 teaspoon thyme
Tablespoon of chopped parsley
Any quantity of turkey of chicken bones with meat attached (or steak bones)

After ingredients have fried, add:
Juice of a lemon
1 teaspoon paprika
2 teaspoons (or less) of curry powder
Pinch of ginger
1-4 cup flour and
3 quarts of soup stock or water.

Simmer and skim for 1½ hours, adding at finish 2 cups of cooked rice.

When the cooking is finally done take out the bones and meat. Strain off broth. Pick meat into bits and mix with vegetables, chopping and blending until the mass is hashlike in consistency. Return to simmering broth, add rice, boil up and serve.

NEWS OF THE WORLD PORTRAYED IN PICTURES

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SNAPSHOT PARTIES

Humorous pictures—such as a series of a man eating a squirty grapefruit—provide fun at a snapshot party. Arrange such a party for your fellow camera fans.

WHENEVER snapshooters get together, the season is ripe then for a snapshot party. Such a party is a splendid entertainment idea—whether its intention is serious picture-taking or just plain snapshot fun.

The party can take two forms. Guests can be sent out on a "picture-hunt"—each one assigned to bring back snapshots of a certain type. Or, a room can be fitted up with a few photo lights at the host's home, and each guest given a picture idea to illustrate.

Guests should be told to bring their cameras, loaded with suitable film. Since most parties will be held at night, the preferred film is one of the new high speed "super" type. The host should also obtain a few simple exposure guides, to assist guests who have not had much experience in taking night pictures.

For a picture hunt, one guest can be assigned to picture street scenes; another can picture shop windows, and another can take snaps of electric signs. Brightly-lighted subjects without movement should be chosen, since outdoors at night short time exposures will be necessary with most cameras. Though if any of the guests have ultra-fast-lens cameras, give them stiffer assignments.

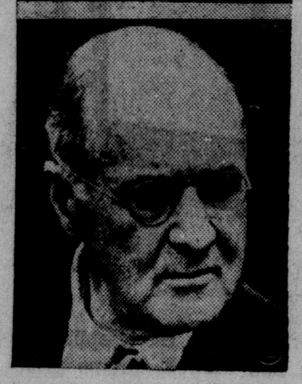

For an "at home" party, a list of picture-titles should be prepared. Humorous titles or assignments are preferable, and guests can serve as models for each picture. One person could be assigned to picture a characterization of Napoleon. Another could picture an Indian climbing a mountain, and a third might be told to portray a dachshund viewing a skyscraper. The more outlandish the titles, the more room they leave for the picture-taker's imagination—and the more fun he will have arranging his picture.

Properly, snapshot parties should be planned as a series—each member of a group holding one. Then, pictures taken at one party could be exhibited at the next. Such a party series can provide entertainment all season for a group of camera fans—and it would be a delightful project for a camera club.

Squad five, captained by Vivian Thompson, was the winner of the volleyball contest which has been taking place the last weeks of volleyball in Mrs Wyllys Anderson's block five seventh grade P. E. class. All squads winning get a free period when they have P.E. last.

Janet McFadden's squad three was the winner in the block three ninth grade class. Members of this squad are Mary Pat Coffin, Janet Coffing, Rose Marie Chast, Carolyn Ferrell, Nellie Madrigal, Veda Oberg, Patricia Paul, Esther Rutz and Lavena Schreiber.

In the seventh grade block two class Dorothy Thompson's squad one was the winner. Shirley Anderson, girls' tennis coach, revealed today.

Three tournaments are for girls who have pretty well mastered the game of tennis and feel confident enough to try their luck. The tennis ladder will be pinned on the P.E. building bulletin board, and the names moved up or crossed off, depending upon the tournaments.

According to Miss Anderson if there are any girls who have not yet signed up and wish to do so they will please do it as soon as possible, in order to be paired off with another player and be placed on the tennis ladder.

The girls who have signed up to date are Janet McFadden, Carolyn Ferrell, Frances Nall, Eloise Revill, Maxine Hillyard, Louise Kenyon, Jean Hunter, Betty Sessions and Lyra Lacayo.

"We want a good turnout year," Miss Anderson remarked "so every girl interested please report."

The new school year has brought exchange papers to the school publication from approximately 100 different schools, including one in Hawaii. The majority of these publications are from junior high schools in all sections of the United States.

All of these newspapers are kept up-to-date by Robert Willingham, exchange editor, and are available at any time in the "Echo" office. Mrs. Vera Allen, journalism director, is planning an exhibit for next month of the best papers on file, while all of this year will be displayed in the library in the late spring.

attractive book covers, from the best decorated of this year and exhibited by Mrs. Mabel Blee, librarian, are displayed in show case nine.

"I usually try to display the books that I think the students should read," Mrs. Blee stated today, "but this year I'm exhibiting those that are best designed to show how attractively the publishers are introducing them."

These covers are all from this year's new books. They are over designs, maps, or landscapes which are beautifully colored. Short synopsis of the books are sometimes given.

HANDLESS, SHOOTS DEER

PLEASANTON, Cal. (UP)—Charles C. McGonegal, who is minus both hands, was arrested here for killing a deer. The killing was done with a rifle and the aid of two "mechanical hands." The arrest was merely because McGonegal failed to turn in the carcass.

Honey Production In Expansion

REGINA, Sask. (UP)—Saskatchewan's fame as a honey producing area is widening in Great Britain. The steady growth of honey exports from this province was apparent this season when 200,000 pounds were billed to British consumers, a total four times greater than in 1937.

More than 5,000 Saskatchewan farmers now devote most of their time to honey production.

Only a few years ago Saskatchewan was obliged to import most of its honey from other Canadian provinces.

ORANGE COUNTY GARDENS AND HOMES

with MARAH ADAMS

Flowers that never grew on land or in the sea are most in evidence right now, the lovely, fragile tinsel flowers that bloom only at Christmas time. Bubbles of silver and gold, reds and greens and blues, flowers that transform streets and stores into fairylands and the home Christmas tree into a plant which might well be named "the tree of happiness."

Gone are the days when the children of the home were privileged to sit up later than usual piercing pop-corn and cranberries with long needles and placing them on strings destined to become part of the decorations for the Christmas tree. Silver rain has replaced the red and white strands and even the smallest tree in the humblest home may be a work of art.

A writer in a recent magazine told of seeing a Christmas tree trimmed only with silver rain and lighted from below with one single flood light. If you are ever asked to aid in judging decorated Christmas trees, then, and then only, can you realize, the many and beautiful ways in which a tree may be trimmed.

A Christmas light that would be much appreciated thinks my daughter-in-law, Billie, would be a tiny one that could be attached to an ordinary socket to be used over a manger scene to represent a star. She bought a light shaped like a blue star and then she discovered it would burn only if accompanied by seven sister lights. What to do about it, she has no idea, as eight stars for the purpose indeed would be superfluous. Anyway, there is an unusually well arranged Christmas scene in an apartment on North Broadway that is going to have to get along without a star.

Gifts for garden-minded friends may be had in a wide variety. Seeds, plants, hanging baskets, garden implements, garden aprons, frocks and overalls, garden books and garden magazines, all have a wide appeal. Living gifts of potted plants sometimes last throughout the years.

Two ten cent vases each holding a sweet potato vine make an inexpensive and welcome gift. This will have to do for next year unless you have sweet potatoes already sprouting. Wise women have been watering and giving poinsettias some sort of plant food for several weeks past to aid these plants in making a brilliant Christmas display. What could be more welcome than a bouquet of these scarlet flowers to those who do not grow them.

"Breathes there a man with a soul so dead, who never to himself has said, "This year I certainly am going to have a garden." Seed catalogues are on the way and soon gardening on paper will be thoroughly enjoyed by many receiving them. Naturally this applies to women, too.

Have you noticed the early appearance of oxalis blossoms in many groves and orchards which have recently been irrigated? These yellow carpets of flowers under the bare and graceful branches of walnut trees always is an intriguing sight.

Keller E. Watson and Alfred Leach of Orange, recently returned from a trip around the world, tell of lemons and oranges bringing $1 each in Japan. They did not see any of the fruit offered for sale at the markets but were told that this is the price the fruit sells for—if any. Mr. Leach presented the steward on his boat with 15 lemons before landing and he could not understand the man's excessive gratitude until he learned the price of lemons in Japan.

A new gardner in Santa Ana, at least a new resident who intends to take up gardening, is Mrs. E. S. Pettis, 1407 Martha Lane. Mr. and Mrs. Pettis are just completing a new home at this address and arrived here this summer from San Francisco where they lived for a time after returning from Ecuador. Mr. Pettis is a mining engineer.

The Pettis kitchen was planned by Mr. Pettis who turned his engineer's training to the problem of housing the laundry equipment in the kitchen, providing extra table space at the same time. The washing machine, a late type that does everything without human aid except gathering up the soiled linens nd clothing about the home, is housed in one compartment.

In another compartment is the ironer and the laundry tub is fitted snugly in still another. Across all the units is a wide smooth top and doors underneath are opened to permit rolling equipment out into the room.

The kitchen is all in yellows ranging from a bright daffodil to burnt orange and cream. With a north exposure the color scheme is a particularly happy one. A breakfast corner is on the west side of the room which is well supplied with windows. Chairs chosen have splint bottoms. The dining room and library form a combination room opening from the kitchen. Soft reds, browns and greens predominate in curtains and floor coverings while the wood work is of antique knotty pine. Open shelves of books occupy one side of the room equipped with wide drawers underneath the cupboards to hold games. Cupboards open through to the kitchen.

PLAIN WATER MEETS NEED OF NUTRIMENT FOR MANY PLANTS

An article from the Radio Garden Digest directs attention to plants which may be grown in receptacles containing nothing but plain water.

The question sometimes arises, says the writer, as to whether it is better to use transparent or opaque containers. Theoretically, an opaque container is to be preferred because, in general, roots, like those whose deeds are evil, tend to shun the light. On the other hand, the roots in themselves are often quite decorative and when the plants are grown in a transparent vase and the vase is kept in the window it is interesting to see how the leaves and shoots turn toward the light, while the roots try to grow away from it.

One of the most tolerant of plants toward water culture is the Chinese or Japanese Evergreen, Aglaonema modestum, a native of Malaya. This will thrive, even if it does not get much light, and it may live for five or six years in water, although it will grow better if it is planted in soil. Its culture is very simple. You merely take the long shoots and stick them in a vase of water, and that is all that you have to do. It is reported that this plant is excellent for placing in fish bowls because its roots are not in the least detrimental to fish.

The Japanese Evergreen is related to Jack-in-the-Pulpit and the Calla Lily. There are tropical plants other than Aglaonema belonging to the same family which are adapted to water culture. Among these are the relatively small-leaved, more or less trailing or climbing Philodendrons and Pothos.

Another trailing plant well adapted to water culture in the house is the English ivy.

Perhaps the best looking and most satisfactory of the tuberous roots adapted for water culture is the sweet potato. A container should be chosen with an opening large enough to admit half the tuber so that part is in the container and part in the air. The leaf forms are variable some like the maple and some scarcely lobed at all. Related to the morning glory, the vine has flowers from one to two inches in diameter but it is seldom these are produced.

Closely related to the sweet potato, so far as flavor and usage are concerned, is the yam, sometimes called Chinese potato, but perhaps better known to gardeners under the name of cinnamon vine. This belongs in an entirely different family and, when grown out-of-doors, produces clusters of tiny, white, cinnamon-scented flowers. The leaves are shiny, long-pointed and heart-shaped.

Small tubers may be obtained from seed stores and there is a bare possibility that you may be able to get them from your vegetable store, although it frequently happens that the roots which are sold as yams are really nothing but forms of sweet potato.

The Madeira vine which, strange as it may seem, comes from Ecuador, is another of those tuberous plants which can be adapted to water culture.

It is surprising how seldom the water becomes foul or smelly when plants are grown in this way. If it should exhibit a tendency to become odorous, it should be poured away carefully and replaced with fresh water together with a lump of charcoal.

NEVER FIND TOO MANY GLADIOLI

There never will be too many gladioli about the garden. While they are relegated chiefly to the realm of cutting plants they have a decorative garden value that should not be overlooked. A supply should be tucked in all about the garden, to be allowed to bloom for decoration and not for cutting.

Give the glad good soil and set the bulbs 3 to 6 inches deep. For exhibition bloom extra care will be needed. There are several books devoted to the culture of gladiolus and giving elaborate details as to the best methods of growing show spikes. F. F. Rockwell's little gladiolus book is one of the most practical of these, being small and easily carried in the pocket for garden reference.

The newer primulinus hybrids have attained a size under the skilled handling of plant breeders which rivals the older stamps and at the same time retaining the graceful spike and hooded flowers which are so characteristic of this species. The yellows and oranges in the prims are the finest in the whole gladiolus race.

A gladiolus will grow and bloom almost anywhere but no plant is more responsive to good culture.

Orange County Gardening

By MRS. H. CARDOZA SLOAN, Corona Del Mar

Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

The Bauhinias

The winter months are the best in all the year for the planting of trees, shrubs and vines in Southern California. So our thoughts in the next few months will turn frequently to these classes of plants.

There comes to mind a plant family which furnishes us some very beautiful flowering trees and vines, the Bauhinia. These are tropical, in colder climates can be grown only as greenhouse specimens, but in the warmer of our Southern states they grow readily. They are much used in Florida, and to some extent here, but more Southern California gardeners should avail themselves of the opportunity of growing these gorgeous flowered bauhinias, which give a tropical splendor to any garden.

Bauhinias will flourish in a variety of soils, they grow rapidly, will stand much heat, and will endure a reasonable amount of cold. Plant them in full sun.

The family member most frequently seen here is bauhinia purpurea, the "orchid tree." This is a very attractive large shrub or small tree (about 15 feet tall). It has the characteristic leaf of the Bauhinias, cleft one-third to one-half its depth. It bears quantities of lovely orchid-like flowers of a pinkish lavender with markings of purple and yellow, three inches or more across, and fragrant. A very showy little tree, robust and hardy withal, flowering in late winter and spring.

Another bauhinia of small tree size is B. tomentosa, the "St. Thomas tree," sometimes called the "sweetheart bauhinia" because of the heart-shaped blotch of reddish brown on the upper of the yellow petals. A very prolific bloomer, easy to grow.

Yet another tree-like bauhinia, semi-deciduous, of spreading habit, is B. candicans, from South America, called the "Butterfly tree' from its graceful flowers of pure white lavishly produced in summer. This is rare and extremely beautiful.

The "butterfly vine" is bauhinia corymbosa, a strong growing evergreen vine, climbing by tendrils. Its leaf you would readily recognise as belonging to the bauhinia family, the outer edges of the leaflets slightly rounding, the inner edge straight and parallel, and the leaflets nearly free from each other. The foliage is most attractive, of a light bronzy green. In spring and summer comes the bloom — large panicles of rosy pink and white flowers, deliciously fragrant.

Bauhinia galpini can be grown either as a shrub or a vine. It bears racemes with six to ten flowers, of a sort of nasturtium orange-red, from early spring to late fall.

The bauhinias were named, as I think I have mentioned before, for two brothers, John and Caspar Bauhin, herbalists of the sixteenth century. Someone had the pretty fancy that the twin leaflets suggested two brothers, very devoted brothers, for in some species the two leaflets are joined almost to the point, making an oddly two-lobed leaf. This pleasant association of their name adds an intimate charm to trees and vines which in themselves are attractive in foliage, beautiful in flower, and easy in culture.

Desert Willow

Thinking of the orchid-like flowers of the bauhinia reminds me of another orchid-like flower—that of the desert willow, chilopsis linearis. It is quite unlike the bauhinia flower which has five separate petals. The desert willow belongs to the bignoniaceae and has a trumpet-shaped flower, five lobed, the lobes softly crumpled, the tube and throat are pinkish-lilac, marked with purplish-mauve and yellow. The texture is soft and velvety, and the two-inch flowers borne in terminal racemes are so delightful one can hardly conceive of their growing upon a shrub in our hottest, sandiest desert. I have seen the bush in the springtime in the sandy wastes near Palm Springs, the flowers unbelievably lovely in such a place. The leaves are long and narrow, willow-like, and drop in winter.

There must be many a place in Orange county dry enough, sandy enough and sunny enough to make an acceptable home for a desert willow. There is only this one species, found from Southern Texas to California and in Mexico.

White Bloom

Along about this time of year you may see the full spiked panicles of small white flowers whose pungent aromatic fragrance of musk gives the name moschosma riparium to the little shrub which bears them.

The shrub grows quickly, attaining to about four feet, likes the sun, is agreeable to most any soil. The leaf is attractive, broadly ovate in shape, much notched or toothed at the margin. The flower spikes are fine for cutting and especially welcome in the winter time.

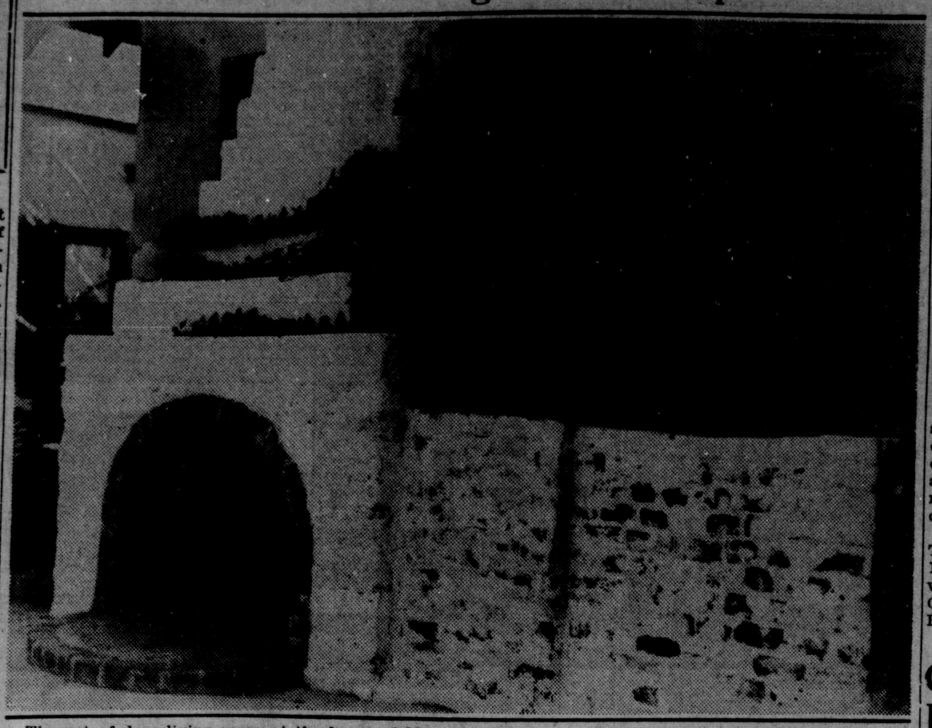

Orange Berries

Bright berries are much in the public eye in December, and of all the berried shrubs none is more pleasing than pyracantha rogersiana aurantiaca, more easily named as "Roger's firethorn".

This is not as well known as some of the other pyracanthas, but is one of the finest. The branches having a bending, willowy grace and are covered to their tips with bright orange berries ,and make most ornamental sprays for cutting.

Nor is all its beauty borne when it bends beneath this bright orange load. In May, when every branch is clothed with a frosty lace of white bloom, it is as dainty and lovely as in winter , it is brilliant and splendid.

Out Of Door Living Room Is Unique

The out of door living room at the home of Mrs. Ida S. Marx, and her daughter, Miss Clarice Marx, 1403 South Ross street, is unique in that material was gathered from a number of sources and that ingenuity was shown in assembling the material in an attractive whole. A modernistic note is stressed throughout. The flat blocks at the top of the fireplace are a part of the foundation of an old church which stood in the south part of the city years ago. Bricks came from a friend's fireplace which was tumbled down by the earthquake of 1933. An old buggy and an old car axle supports the fireplace. The red flagstones are from an old abandoned miniature golf course. English ivy covers one side of the grill and a scarlet geranium nearby is house high. A wisteria vine frames the east side wall made by the garage. The grill keeps the entire living room warm even on cool evenings.

FIND NEW SHADE TREE FOR WEST

A promising new shade tree for western streets and boulevards is the Modesto ash tree, introduced to the gardening public less than two years ago and fast becoming the most popular deciduous shade tree in the San Joaquin valley.

It has so many virtues that it'll be plentifully planted all through the west some day. The tree's apparently a natural hybrid of fraxinus velutina and fraxinus coriacea. The parent tree stands in one of the city parks of Modesto, California. Though less than 20 years old, it has a spread of 45 feet and is almost that tall.

All year long the tree is beautiful to look at. The leaves are hard and shiny, and resistant to pests and diseases. For example, this is one tree the red spiders give a wide berth. Apparently the leaves are too tough and leathery for them.

Modesto ashes produce no seeds so they drop no messy pulps to dirty up sidewalks and trees. The trees don't lose any time shedding their leaves in the fall, either. Usually, it's all over within two weeks.

Grafts were taken from the mother tree in Modesto so that similar specimens could be released to the horticultural public. The offspring are grafted on the deep-rooting Arizona ash. This means less possible damage to sidewalks or curbings from shallow over-strenuous roots. Also, the Arizona ash is noted for its ability to subsist on most kinds of soil, ranging from hardpan to sand.—Sunset Magazine.

FOR LAWN MOWER

Rubber tires have been invented to be slipped over lawn mower wheels to protect the wheels, reduce noise and afford better traction.

HINTS ARE GIVEN BY STATE OFFICER

Now is the time also to plant wild flower seed for winter and spring blooms, says Mrs. James M. Reed, state garden chairman.

If you like potted plants, remember that chrysanthemum plants in full bloom may be potted and kept in the house or patio for many weeks. Porus pots seem to be the most satisfactory, and if these are placed in jardineers, an inch block of wood should be placed under the pot.

Many of our native shrubs are more beautiful when planted in gardens, notably the wild lilac and the desert willow. The latter is a large shrub with tubular lilac flowers with yellow stripes. A dry location is best for this shrub.

SANTA ANA MAN GETS CONTRACT

Arthur Blanding of the Blanding Nurseries, 1312 South Main street, received word last night that he has been awarded a contract to landscape the grounds of two federal migratory labor camps, the Coachella camp, between Indio and El Centro, and the Shafter camp, near Bakersfield. Each contract calls for the expenditure of approximately $1000.

The camps are used for migratory workers and their families. Small homes have been erected at both places and trailer camps established. Shade trees, flowering shrubs and fruit trees will be set out. The selections of trees for the camps was made by the federal authorities from lists furnished by nurserymen. Grounds at each camp are about 15 acres in area.

Bids were sent to Los Angeles. Trees to be planted include the Parkinsonia, a yellow flowering variety, the Carolina poplar and the Carolina or St. John's Bread tree. Each camp will have 400 trees.

Orchard Owners Register Protest

WORCESTER, Mass. (UP)—Orchard owners have organized to liquidate beekeepers who "palm off" inferior bee colonies on them.

The orchardists use rented colonies of bees to pollinate the trees when they blossom, thus insuring crops and permanence.

But the fruit men have been getting a "short count" on bees and colonies not "domestically organized." So minimum standards of strength for rented bee colonies have been set up.

NEW SWEET PEA

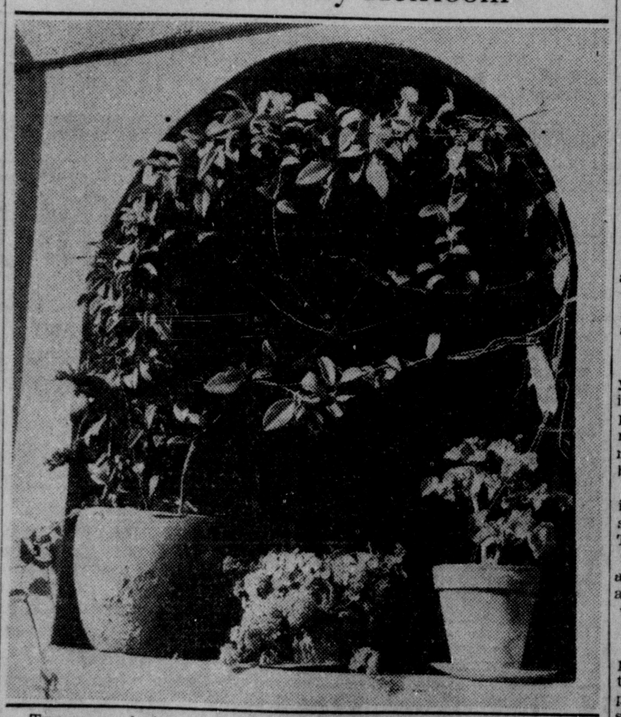

Among the giant ruffled sweetpeas, "Sparkle" is outstanding. It is a gay, glad color, luminous and sparkling, best described as glowing cerise, evenly spread over the standard and wings, varying only in tone in the lights and shadows created by the wonderful rufflings. Not the least of Sparkle's many attributes is its sweet fragrance.

WINTSER MAGIC

by Eleanor Elliott

The night was very still,
The moon was riding high,
And little flecks of foamy cloud
Hung silent in the sky.
Amidst the silver radiance
The shadows, softly gray,
Like webs of fragile Spanish lace
Beneath the palm trees lay.
No stir of vine, no stir of leaf,
But sometime in the night,
The fairies spread a web of frost
And made the grasses white.

Plant Is Family Heirloom

Two unusual plants face the southern sky at the home of F. V. Boggess, 1519 West Ninth street. One is an old fashioned wax plant which outlines an arched opening while the other is an unidentified succulent.

JOURNEY WEST MADE BY PLANT

A plant that followed Horace Greeley's advice and came west to grow up with the country is the property of Mrs. F. V. Boggess, 1519 West Ninth street. It is called the Hoya Cornosa and it is an old fashioned climbing wax plant. So far as is known there is no other plant just like it in this vicinity.

The original plant was taken from Indiana to Solon, Iowa, by Mrs. Boggess' grandmother 60 years ago. The westward journey of the plant was continued when Mrs. Boggess' mother brought the vine to California and give it to her daughter. The hoya cornosa has deep green leaves and a fragrant, delicate pinkish-white blossom.

The vine has been trained to outline an arched opening in a wall which forms a roofless passageway to the front entrance of the home. The succulent in the center of the arch is one which as yet has not been identified by authorities in this vicinity.

WARNS 'HOME' WINE MAKERS

Home wine makers, especially among foreign-born groups, were warned today by William G. Bonelli, member of the State Board of Equalization, against unintentional violation of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act.

Because of limitations placed on commercial crushing of grapes under the state wine-grapes pro-rate program, home wine making has increased greatly this year, Bonelli said, prompting him to issue the warning.

What Is Allowed

Under provisions of the act any person is permitted to make not more than 200 gallons of wine annually for his own consumption without being required to procure a wine manufacturer's license. If more than 200 galoins is made a license costing $20 for 5000 gallons or less is necessary.

Home wine makers may not sell any of their product. There is no restriction against giving quantities to friends.

Penalties Heavy

Heavy penalties are provided in the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act for those making in excess of 200 gallons without a license or for selling wine without a license.

Liquor control officers have been instructed to be particularly vigilant in enforcing the wine-making provisions of the act in view of the increased activity in this field, Bonelli said. At the same time every effort is being made to give sufficient warning to those honestly ignorant of the law's requirements.

Says Mate Subject To 'Wiles, Wishes'

Suing her husband for separate maintenance, Mrs. Sarah K. Hhepherd alleged that he, William L. Shepherd, was "susceptible to the wiles and wishes of women," and also uses liquor.

Hoever, it was the dissipation of his assets that concerned her, and she asked the court to impress a $2500 trust upon his estate, claiming that he had agreed to pay her $2500 not to sue him for divorce.

She asks $75 per month separate maintenance, stating that he owns a large block of Edison stock that pays him $1500 per year, and that he has an income of $60 per month from real estate holdings.

Her complaint, filed in superior court through Attorney Ridley Smith, charged Shepherd with cruelty.

CATALINA QUAIL DIFFERENT FROM VALLEY, MOUNTAIN TYPE

Santa Catalina Island offers the nimrod a game bird found nowhere else in the word, the Catalina quail, a specie distinct from either the valley or the mountain quail.

Quoting from Game Bulletin No. 2, State of California Division Fish and Game: "Catalina Quail": Similar to Valley quail but 7 per cent larger and more heavily scaled on lower breast and with broader streaks on flanks and lower tail coverts. Male's folded wing is 4.44 to 4.71 inches (Valley quail 4.24 to 4.44); bill along culmen 0.40 to 0.42 inches (Valley quail 0.37 to 0.40); Tarsus 1.18 to 1.24 inches (Valley quail 1.17 to 1.22). Distribution: Found only on Santa Catalina island, Los Angeles county, California."

Santa Catalina island is practically virgin territory for the quail hunter, having been closed for more than 30 years until recent seasons. It is estimated that there are more quail on Santa Catalina island than in any other locality outside of Mexico. Hunters report that the birds are larger and hardier than those found on the mainland. Veteran nimrods have given various reasons for the unusual size of Catalina quail.

Rollie Cochran of the Bakersfield region has contended that the quail are heavier due to more feed on the island and the peaceful life they are able to lead, unharrassed by wild animals preying upon them or other disturbances flushing their coves.

Proud Of Size

Quail found on Santa Catalina Iland are seven per cent larger and more heavily scaled on lower breast and are heavier than any other specie of quail, according to the California State Fish and Game Division. The top-knotted birds are also more plentiful, the ofifcials said, than in any other section except parts of Mexico, as Catalina Island has been closed to quail shooting for 30 years until recent seasons.

M'KINLEY GROUP IN CHRISTMAS SESSION

Exchanges of Christmas gifts around a beautifully lighted tree featured the executive board meeting of the McKinley P.-T. A., held at the home of Mrs. Norman T. Franklin, 102 South Birch, this week.

Presentation of boxes of candy by the co-hostesses, Mrs. Franklin and Mrs. Herbert Hildebrand, to each executive board member, also marked the occasion.

During the business meeting, plans were laid for the next regular P.-T. A. meeting, which will be held in the school auditorium next Tuesday evening. Mrs. Albert Garthe, president, was in charge of the meeting. It was announced that parent education classes will open Tuesday, January 10, and continue for four weeks at the McKinley school. Mrs. Nell Hunt will be in charge of the classes. Executive board members were urged to take advantage of the excellent radio programs being broadcast every Wednesday over leading networks.

Those present at the executive board session included: Mesdames Dale Elliott, Dona Ward, Albert Garthe, E. V. Carlton, Herbert Hildebrand, John State, Norman T. Franklin, Estel Humphrey, William Credel, W. P. Bess, J. A. Gajeski, Faber Bray, Floyd Mitchell, Russell Long, and Miss Mary Andrews.

Case Won, But Plaintiff Dead

OMAHA, Neb. (UP) — Eleven years ago, a $30,000 suit was brought against the Elkhorn Valley Drainage district by a former Douglas county commissioner who at one time had extensive land holdings in and near Waterloo, Neb.

The case, shuttled back and forth between the Douglas county district court and the Nebraska supreme court, was finally settled with payment of $307.15 to the plaintiff's attorney.

During the long litigation, the plaintiff died, three district court judges who heard the case died, four supreme court justices died, eight witnesses died, six drainage district directors died, the district's engineer died, and Douglas county paid $2,000 in four jury trials and both litigants paid $2,200 in court costs.

PLANT LILIES OF VALLEY NOW

If you have a clump of lilies of the valley in the garden you may dig up some plump crowns and pot them for winter house plants. Set them about an inch apart, five in a six-inch pot, in a compost half sand and half leaf mold and loam, with the top barely showing. Water well and keep the pots in a warm, dark place until the shoots are several inches in height. Bring them to the light gradually, raise the temperature to 60 or 70 degrees and give warm water in increasing amount as the plant grows and flowers. After flowering, set the roots again in the garden.

If you are in a hurry for flowers or have no clump of roots in the garden, buy the pips which have been especially prepared for forcing. These have been frozen and must be planted soon after being taken from storage.

They may be grown in soil but are easily handled in moss.

Pack the moss loosely about them and keep them in a warm, dark closet, with temperature about 65 degrees, until leaves and spikes are well developed. If you have no dark closet, an inverted flower pot over the bowl will shade them.—Pasadena Post.

CLINIC GUAGES MALEFACTORS

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—Those convicted of a crime or a misdemeanor here can expect to spend the next few hours as a "gold fish in a bowl" or a "human guinea pig."

There's no escaping the new psychiatric clinic of municipal and common pleas courts that places the person and his past under a figurative microscope and goes to work.

Men and women who hear the words of conviction from the judge or jury are sent promptly to the clinic, where their life history, intelligence, emotional reactions and personality are exposed.

The clinic, headed by Dr. Royal G. Grossman, is designed to fit the theory: "Let the punishment fit the crime." But it also helps science in recommending that the punishment fit the individual.

Clinic Suggests Punishment

Dr. Grossman, who prescribes punishments for his "patients," may order jail, an institution for the feeble-minded, regular mental treatment, or an everyday sort of job.

While Dr. Grossman was being interviewed, an 18-year-old burglar, whom the clinic head chose to identify only as Joe Smith, was brought in for the tests. He had robbed an inhabited dwelling during the night—a crime punishable by life imprisonment.

Dr. Grossman had his assistant, Miss Gertrude Steuer, set out first to make the youth feel at ease. They realized something must be lacking in the youngster's emotional structure to induce him to rob the home of a friend. He was frightened and forlorn.

"It is of greatest importance to have the confidence of the people who come here," Dr. Grossman explained. "The more confident they are, the more 'en rapport' they are with the person examining them, the more effective the examination."

Parents Were Divorced

Miss Steuer took the young man's case history. A significant fact was that his family had been divorced. Then he was put through a psychological examination by Townsend Lodge.

He was told to perform curious tricks with blocks, put pegs in holes, build little appartus like bells and mouse traps. He did them all easily. It was fun he said.

Then Lodge submitted the youth to a "personality inventory"—discussion of his likes and dislikes. Next was an intelligence test. The subject became uncertain about things here and said he wished he was back in his cell.

Soon Lodge finished and the youth thought it wasn't so bad, after all. He said Lodge was a pretty good fellow.

Dr. Grossman was next. He took a thorough physical examination and then had a friendly chat with the youth. They talked about school, baseball and other things youngsters like to discuss. Dr. Grossman dismissed him finally and prepared a "prescription."

"The best thing for that boy would be a job, a job that is suited to him," Dr. Grossman observed. "We could solve a third of the crime if jobs could be found for people."

Dr. Grossman found it difficult to settle this youth's problem. Should he be granted probation and a chance to hunt for work? Should he be sent back to his home life?

"Home has been over-sanctified in America, I'm afraid," Dr. Grossman said. "It prepares the soil for the garden where crime grows. A young man's whole life depends on what he acquires and learns during the first five years of his life."

Dr. Grossman felt that if the young man were sentenced to the reformatory, he would fall in with convicts and start a life of crime. The ideal would be to have an institution to fit the type of individual.

Despite the fact psychiatry plays a large role in treatment of criminals, Dr. Grossman believes that only about one per cent of those examined at the clinic are insane. Another one per cent are normal, with superior intelligence. From 10 to 15 per cent are below normal mentality.

Tha rest are the majority—common, run-of-the-mill people.

Termites are estimated to infest 50 per cent of all buildings in St. Louis and Southern California.

BULBS REGISTER SIGNS OF DROUGHT

There is a tell-tale, sure-fire indicator to account for short stems or poor flowers of bulbous plants. A horizontal cross-section of a bulb leaf narrowed and wrinkled, indicates a period when the plant suffered from drought or was otherwise hampered in its normal development, by outside causes.

Bulbous plants in most instances do not require great quantities of water from the time they are first planted, until they show above the ground. If planted at their proper depth in damp soil, and thoroughly soaked to settle the soil snugly about them to eliminate air pockets, excepting for prolonged periods of hot, dry weather, they will not require much moisture until the leaf tips make their appearance. Frequent, light watering encourages a shallow root system. Better to let them send out long roots in search of their own moisture.

However, once the foliage makes its appearance, it is vitally necessary to maintain a uniform degree of moisture between periods of natural precipitation. Likewise, a generous feeding with a well-balanced commercial plant food, when the flower bulb begins to swell, will pay big dividends, in joy and satisfaction at flowering time.

OKRA 14 FEET TALL

HAMMOND, La.—(UP)—Joseph Boyd, farmer, grows okra that rivals the tall corn of Kansas in height. Boyd exhibited a stalk of okra 14 feet long. He said he had to buy a special step ladder 16 feet high to clip the stalk of its pods.

Royal Cook Now Over Farm Stove

UPPER SANDUSKY, O. (UP)—Mrs. Amos Schoenberger now cooks for her farmer husband instead of royalty at Buckingham Palace, as she did once.

The former Elizabeth Esson, while the palace cook, prepared many roast beefs and Yorkshire puddings for England's "first family."

She was born near Balmoral castle, in Scotland. She entered "service" at the castle while Queen Victoria was visiting Scotland.

Mrs. Schoenberger resigned her post as Buckingham palace cook in 1912 and came to America. On a visit to friends in Marion, O., she met Schoenberger.

HOW TO SOW

The one factor in fall seed sowing to be attended to is mulch. Heavy rains will wash the seeds out of their regular rows unless a protection against the driving showers is given. Leaves, straw or stalks of the flower garden will give ample protection. If the seeds can be sown in a seed bed for transplanting in the spring, a wooden curb about the bed to prevent the washing of heavy rains is advisable.

DISCOVERY MADE

MARSIELLES, (UP)—The discovery of two breeding grounds of migratory locusts will make the fight against the pests much simpler, scientists here believe.

A French government commission, which was sent to West Africa, Morocco and Algeria, has established the fact that the gathering ground of the migratory locusts is in the region of the Niger.

"MONTY'S" RED AND WHITE STORE ONE OF SANTA ANA'S MOST POPULAR FOOD STORES

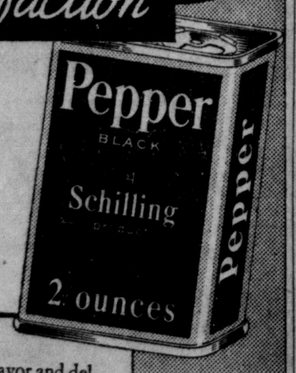

Located at 811 Highland street, over in the southwest residential section, Monty's Red & White Grocery Store is one of the finest complete neighborhood markets in all Santa Ana. And the large volume of business enjoyed by V. L. "Monty" Motry and his able assistant, Mrs. Motry, is all due to many contributing factors, but most especially to their pleasing and courteous service to everyone. Mr. Motry started this store nearly 16 years ago and was one of the first to join the Red & White group. His favorite department above all others is the meat department. Here only the very finest baby beef is handled and at all times customers can get their favorite cuts. Besides groceries and meats, the store maintains a very large selection of fresh fruits and vegetables plus a soda stand and candy case for the younger ones.

You'd Hurry, Too!

This little girl is hurrying home with her mother. When they get there it will be too early for dinner, but they'll be hungry, so Mother will prepare a snack for them. Perhaps it will be Philadelphia cream cheese with nuts, spread thickly on Cream Flake Sodas. Guess we'd hurry, too, with this treat in store for us.

'FOUR SQUARE' SERVICES SET

Four special services, including a timely discussion concerning the Jews in Europe and the personal appearance of the Rev. Harold Chalfant, international commander of the Crusaders organization of the Four Square Gospel church, have been planned for the local Four Square Gospel church, it was announced today by the Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Parham, pastors of the local church, Fairview avenue and Sycamore street.

"Signs of Times"

Tonight at 7:30, because of the national disturbances in the world, particularly in Europe, the Rev. Alice Ann Parham will speak on the subject, "The Signs of the Times." The public is cordially invited to attend.

Sunday at 10:45 a.m., a divine healing service will be conducted and a sermon on "The Hem of His Garment," delivered. Sunday at 7:30 p. m., a beautifully illustrated sermon will be given by the Rev. Mrs. Parham on the subject, "The Seven Great Crises of the World." The illustration will be offered in three scenes.

Plan For Rally

Monday at 7:30 p. m., the last great young people's rally of the year will be held at the church with the Rev. Mr. Chalfant in charge of the service. He will be assisted by his wife.

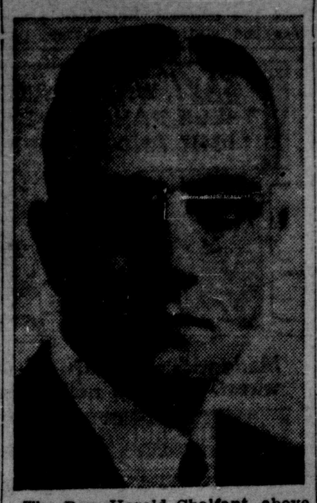

The Santa Ana church's 40-piece orchestra will provide music for the event in which the seven Four Square churches of the county will take part. The Rev. Mr. Chalfant will talk on "The American Youth." Children and adults are invited to the rally.

Beauty Judges Shun Mental Test

PASADENA, Cal. — (UP)—The seven judges who will choose the queen for the annual Tournament of Roses parade learned something about the 1938 girl when they conducted an intelligence test for the 22 girls left in the final running.

They learned that only two knew how to play bridge and none of them considered Robert Taylor as an "ideal hero." Perplexed, and nonplussed, the judges decided they would use photographs for picking the seven final winners instead of exploring their minds.

World Leader

The Rev. Harold Chalfant, above, international commander of Crusaders, young people's organization of the Four Square Gospel church, and Mrs. Chalfant, will appear Monday night at the Santa Ana Four Square Gospel church to take charge of the young people's mammoth rally. Young people from seven Orange county Four Square Gospel churches will have parts in the program to which the public is invited. Monday night's program is one of four special programs at the church, tonight, Sunday and Monday.

Niagara Cataracts Lure Wild Ducks Winging To South

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y.—(UP)—The annual southern migration of swans and ducks past Niagara's mighty cataracts has begun, according to reservation officials.

Two reservation policemen reported they saw a great white swan, first of the season, resting on a reef in the upper Niagara River above Goat Island. The bird rose from the water and disappeared toward the south as they watched, policemen said.

In past years, large flocks of the birds have passed over the cataracts in the early winter period. Several times, because of icy spray which formed on their wings, many of the birds fell to their death over the cataracts.

The moon covers up the sun almost exactly during a total eclipse, although the sun is 400 times larger, and 400 times more distant.

LAGUNA PLAYS SAVANTS' HOST

The advance contingent of naerly 200 elementary school teachers of California arrived in Laguna Beach yesterday and today, with additions registering hourly in preparation for tomorrow's convention of the California Elementary School Principals' Association, Southern section.

A comprehensive program has been arranged, to open at 9:45 a. m. at the Laguna Beach elementary school where delegates will register, be welomed with special music by school pupils, and receive an address of welcome from Linton T. Simmons, school superintendent.

A morning session, with group discussions and demonstrations of various aspects of educational practices; luncheon at Hotel Laguna, preceded by a short noon-day business session, and addresses by prominent educators, will be followed in the afternoon by a tour of the city's many points of interest.

The executive board will meet at breakfast in Hotel Laguna at 8:00 a. m., prior to commencement of the day's activities, which will culminate with a number of gay social gatherings in honor of the delegates.

Local arrangements are being handled by C. Addison van Loenen, principal of Laguna Beach elementary school.

Report Gold Boom In Australia

CANBERRA, Australia — (UP)—The action of the United States in arbitrarily fixing the value of gold at $35 an ounce has resulted in five times as many persons being engaged in gold mining in Australia than in 1929.

Coupled with America's increase in the value of gold and the readjustment of Australian and English exchange on a basis of 25 shillings to the pound has practically doubled the value of gold here.

This has stimulated the investment of both British and Australian capital in gold mining, an increase in output from 466,593 ounces in 1930 to 1,387,777 ounces in 1937 and an increase in the number of persons engaged in gold mining activities from 6108 to 33,-113.

This also has made Australia again one of the major gold producing countries of the world.

MISSOURI PUTS AX TO 'AND-GR'

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UP)—Hundreds of asterisks, commas, brackets and semi-colons in Missouri laws apparently are doomed when the legislature meets next Jaunary.

"And/ors" will face a battle, too.

The statute revision committee report, 952-page result of careful scrutiny of laws, amendments and court decisions since the 1929 revised statutes were issued, includes many bills to do away with unnecessary and confusing punctuation in the state's laws.

For instance the legislature may vote on an act titled "To amend Section 9198, Article 2, Chapter 57, Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1929 relating to authority of board of school directors to borrow money, by striking out the asterisk and brackets in line four and in lines 28 and 29 of said section."

Too Much Punctuation

There are many other acts in the report ending punctuation excesses. Many times, too much punctuation has led to supreme court decisions interpreting laws not always as the legislature had meant them to be interpreted. So the punctuation in the Revised Statutes of 1939 will be largely simplified.

Besides punctuation changes, the revision commission drew up bills repealing obsolete statutes. One of the new bills repeals an act which ordered county courts to make maps and plots of land embraced within French and Spanish claims.

Another repeals an old act providing for a board of mediation and arbitration for labor disputes. No such board had been appointed since Governor Folk's administration at the turn of the century.

May Change Alien Law

A bill is offered in the report to repeal an act providing that any person declaring his intention to become a citizen of the United States has a right to vote.

Statutes to define 27 county boundaries more clearly are submitted in the report.

The commission found that while sections dealing with the branding of cattle "might be obsolete in some parts of the state, it still would apply in other parts and should not be repealed." Livestock still runs on the open range in some Ozark sections.

The report showed that another holiday has been added to the official state calendar since publication of the statutes. Jefferson Day, April 13, was made a legal holiday by the 1931 legislature.

Father-Daughter Banquet

The Father-Daughter banquet promises to be as successful an event as the Mother-Son banquet according to plans well under way for the occasion scheduled for next Thursday evening. Kathryn Stockton will be mistress of ceremonies and she is working with the faculty committee which is composed of Mrs. Marguerite Hill, Mrs. Grace Wolff, Miss Iva Carl, Mr. Aubrey Glines, Mr. Ferris Scott and Mr. Daniel Stover.

Rose Ann Griggs will welcome the seventh graders and the fathers, and Barbara Buckley will respond for the seventh grade girls. Ethel May Hazen will represent the eighth grade girls and will give some selections on her accordion. Although the plans are not entirely complete yet, an elaborate program is being expected and the committee urges all the girls and their fathers to reserve that evening. Principal H. G. Nelson will start the festivity which will be preceded by a very good dinner, and there will be an opportunity for everyone getting acquainted.

Trip to Planetarium

Twenty Lathrop girls enjoyed an unusual treat last Saturday morning when they went to the Planetarium in Griffith Park, Hollywood, to attend the astronomy lecture especially for children. Chartering a school bus for the occasion, the girls were accompanied by their science teacher, Mrs. Ruth Archer and Miss Pearl Nicholson. The lecture was very appropriate on the subject of "Constellations and Planets Visible in the Winter" since this particular eighth grade class has just completed a study on astronomy. Following a picnic lunch the group returned to Santa Ana, all expressing with great enthusiasm that the trip had been most valuable and enjoyable. Those attending the lecture were Shirley Leimer, Eleanor Patrick, Jeannette Brown, Velma Smith, Teresa Cruze, Marie Urquiza, Daphne Culver, Jacqueline Townsend, Mary Woodie, Ethel May Hazen, Donna June Cocking, Iris Iverson, Ardith Robinson, Martha Liversage, Doris Brener, Eileen Davis, Beverly Hutton and Beverly Thompson.

Annual Posture Contest

Having an auditorium makes it possible to hold the annual Lathrop Posture Contest for girls with a more definite and satisfactory program than usual this year. The girls are anticipating the selections which will be concluded for the assembly program by the first week following the holidays. Unlike other years, the girls are going to act as judges in making the eliminations and final selections of those representing each grade. Miss Esther Riedout is training the girls for acting as judges. Six will be selected from each grade for the final contest and from that group one will be selected as winner for each grade.

Fascinating Exhibit

Mrs. Marjorie Crumrine's ninth grade crafts class has attracted considerable attention with a unique and varied exhibit of their quarter's work. Part of the program has been spent in studying three dimension posters and many selected some phase of attractive advertising which they worked out on posters. Many raffia baskets of varied sizes and color designs were made by both boys and girls. The posters which rate particular attention are as follows: Advertising fall hat styles by Inez Umphenour and Maxine Burnett; fall dress fashions by Louise Haven; tropical night styles by Claudia Hundley; jewelry by Anna Jane Parker; neckwear and scarfs by Jean Hollins and Yone Sasaki; sports by Helen Rupert; flower show by Luva Dilly and Seferina Lujan.

Library Christmas Motif

Miss Leona Calkins has arranged the usual lovely Christmas scenes throughout the Lathrop library. A Christmas tree will be up next week in time for the Junior Literary Christmas party which is an annual event. The public as well as Lathrop students and teachers find the library a most alluring place when the Christmas motif prevails.

All the past week the library has been in more or less confusion due to the annexation and redecoration of an additional room which will be used as reference room. This addition will be a great asset to Lathrop students. Hereafter more than one class can be accommodated at the library during a period. Much interest is manifested in this splendid addition for Lathrop.

Scrap Book Project

In guidance Miss Nicholson's class are making scrapbooks with interesting pictures to fit their various stories of their life work. Some want to be dress designers, landscape designers, and many are interested in home decorations and home managing. Whatever profession of work might be followed, it has been decided that everyone can profit by knowing how to improve home conditions and management.

Lathrop Christmas Tree

Since the student committee put up the splendid green Christmas tree in the rotunda, the student interest in decorating it and bringing packages to surround it has grown daily. It has been decided to co-operate with some of the welfare organizations in the city to furnish toys, clothing and baskets of food where they are needed and will bring Christmas cheer.

In conjunction with the Fox Broadway theatre the Lathrop P.-T. A. has issued notices to all students for a special Christmas theater party on Saturday of this week at which time they will present a toy, book, some clothing or non-perishable food as their admission fee. From this collection baskets will be made up for needy families. Mrs. Edwin Childs, president of Lathrop P.-T. A. and her committee of mothers are heartily co-operating with the theater in managing this Christmas project.

UNIVERSE SEEN GIVING SECRET

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(UP)—The question—is the universe expanding, or does light get tired and lose energy in its race through space—soon may be answered by Dr. Edwin Hubble, of the Mt. Wilson Observatory in California, scientists here believe.

The answer, they say, may be found when the new 200-inch reflector, cast in Corning, N. Y., glass works, is completed. If the universe is expanding, the giant reflector being built on Mt. Palomar, in California, may indicate the type of expansion. The new mirror will collect four times as much light as the 100-inch Hooker reflector now in use at Mt. Wilson.

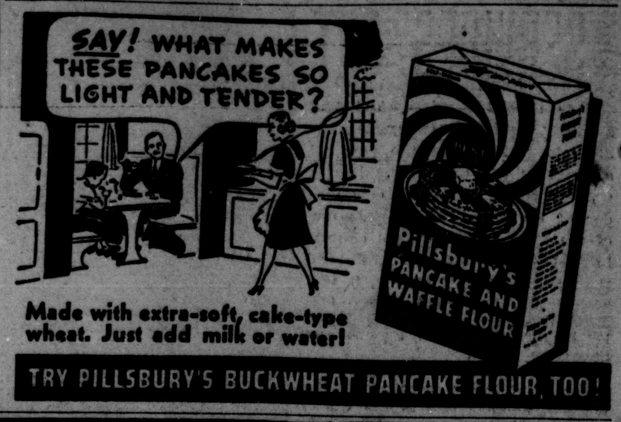

The light from the distant star galaxies is captured by the reflector on Mt. Wilson and passed through a spectographic lens. The lens breaks up the light into different bands which form the spectrum of the tested star. The light shifting toward the red end of the spectrum. Such a shift indicates presumably that these galaxies are speeding away from the earth.

If the distant nebulae are receding the assumption is that the universe is expanding. But the speeds, about 26,000 miles a second, are so great that many astronomers believe that the expanding universe may be an illusion.

"If the loss of energy occurs in the nebulae," Dr. Hubble said, "then, very probably, the red shifts are familiar velocity shifts and the nebulae are all receding. If the loss occurs in space, then the nebulae are sensibly stationary, but the light losses energy, by some unknown mechanism, in proportion to the distance it travels through the universe."

At the moment Dr. Hubble favors the stationary universe, but results do not rule out the possibility of an expanding one.

Americas Study United Defense Plan

21 REPUBLICS OPEN PARLEY

For Business... Where Pan-American Delegates Will Gather...

By HOBART C. MONTEE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 9.—(UP)—The eighth Pan American conference today begins work on a program designed to strengthen the peace machinery of the American republics and to achieve a united front against possible aggression from without the Western Hemisphere as advocated in principle by President Roosevelt.

This is the first Pan American conference since 1933, although the New World countries met at Buenos Aires two years ago at the Inter-American peace conference sponsored by Mr. Roosevelt.

Nearly 120 delegates from the 21 republics of the Americas were present for the inaugural session, fixed for 6 p. m., in the chamber of deputies at the legislative palace. Eleven of the delegation heads are foreign ministers of their respective countries, including Secretary of State Cordell Hull of the United States.

President Oscar R. Benavides of Peru, will preside at the opening session and probably will address the final plenary session on Dec. 30.

Program in 7 Sections

The conference program comprises the following seven sections, or committees:

1. Organization of peace.
2. International law.
3. Economic problems.
4. Political and civil rights of women.
5. Intellectual co-operation and moral disarmament.
6. The Pan American Union and the international conference of the American states.
7. Reports.

Among the delegates, the first three sections are considered the most important.

The agenda provides for consideration by the first committee, of which Alfred M. Landon, former governor of Kansas and 1936 Republican Presidential candidate, is a member, of four vital points. They are: (1.) Perfecting and coordination of inter-American instruments of peace; (2.) Creation of an inter-American court of international justice; (3.) Creation of a league, or association, of American nations; and (4.) Declaration of the American doctrine of non-recognition of territories conquered by force.

League Question Arises

Of these items, those which promise to be most keenly debated concern the international court and the League of Nations. The latter has been sponsored by the Dominion Republic and Colombia, but it has been coolly received in some countries, particularly Argentina.

President Roosevelt's proposal for a common defense by Canada, the United States and Latin America of the Western Hemisphere, although not officially on the agenda, may be brought before the delegates in the form of a resolution embodying the principles of the plan, but no concrete defense proposals are expected.

The matter of belligerent rights will be discussed under the section on international law. The problem of refugees, particularly German Jews, is expected to be injected into the discussion of the committee on economic problems. While not on the agenda, the refugee question also may take up considerable of the delegates' time because of suggestions to settle the Jews in Latin America.

Item 4 and 7, inclusive, of the official agenda are chiefly concerned with intellectual, cultural and idealistic relations among the American nations.

Reception Precedes Session

Although the conference starts officially this afternoon, a reception for the delegates was held in the city hall last night, followed by their presentation to President Banavides.

The social program for the delegates' entertainment includes banquets, concerts, visits to nearby Inca ruins and San Marcos University, oldest institution of higher learning in the New World, and special races at the new Hippodrome. Foreign colonies have arranged special celebrations in honor of their respective delegations.

This ancient "city of the Kings," has gone to great lengths to prepare for the conference and in recent weeks has rushed to completion a vast rebuilding program.

Although the pattern traced by Francisco Pizarro when he founded Lima in 1535, still survives, little else remains of the old city. The plaza de Armas, which was drawn by Pizarro as the center of the new Spanish settlement and which later became the execution ground, the bullring, the popular dance hall and the fashionable promenade, has been modernized. Even Pizarro's own residence has been razed to make room for an ultra-modern government palace. Even the royal palm trees, many of whose trunks bore bullet scars received in attacks on the old building, have been chopped down.

Only the cathedral, where the bones of Pizarro are entombed, and a few narrow, downtown streets with their traditional names of Spanish and Peruvian heroes, remain unchanged to bridge the four centuries between colonial Lima and the city of today.

New buildings are going up everywhere and the stone fronts of old buildings are being scrubbed clean and re-painted. Streets have been re-paved and sidewalks repaired. Hotels have been remodeled to provide room for delegates and their staffs. Room space is at a premium.

The national legislative palace, in which the conference sessions will be held, is a massive building, 25 years old and fronting on Bolivar Square, or Inquisition Square, as the site is still called by Lima residents. The change in name and the erection of a monument in honor of Simon Bolivar, the liberator, in the center of the square has not been able to erase the stories handed down through generations of the horrors of the Spanish Inquisition.

Inquisition Set Up in 1569

The inquisition was established in Lima by royal warrants in 1569. It was first located in a building facing La Merced Church, which stands on the site of the small chapel in which the first mass was celebrated in Lima. Three years later the inquisition was moved to another building on Inquisition Square. In 1820 when the inquisition was abolished in this city, the frenzied populace raided the building, destroying all the papers and threw the instruments of torture into the street.

Among the objects which the inquisitors used to force confessions from their victims was an image of Christ, suspended over the tribunal and facing those on trial. According to history, the image shook its head when the witness was not speaking the truth and raised its arms in horror and disbelief at some confessions. When the mob that raided the building found that the image's arms and head were manipulated by strings concealed behind the wall, their rage knew no bounds and the image was torn from the wall.

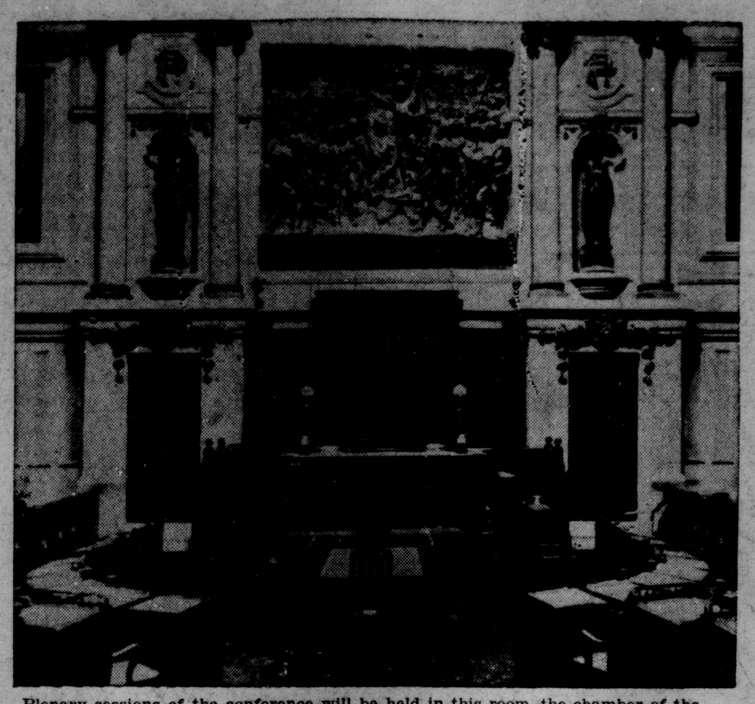

The building, which was vacant for years but later was restored and used as a senate chamber, has now been opened as a museum where conference delegates and visitors will be able to view some of the torture instruments, including the racks, and inspect many of the old cells and secret passageways.

Senate Chamber Added

The legislative palace was intended originally to be used only as a chamber of deputies and it was not until this year that the building was completed and a senate chamber made available. The plenary sessions of the conference will be held in the chamber of deputies, a somewhat gloomy hall into which daylight penetrates only through the stained glass dome. As the acoustics of the chamber are poor, a public address telephone system has been installed from the speaker's dais to each of the desks where delegates will be seated. As each speech is delivered, translations into French, English, Spanish and Portuguese will be made and the delegates will be able to get the translation they want by tuning in on any of the four languages.

The senate chamber, painted white, will be used for committee meetings. The rest of the building will be used for administration offices, sub-committee rooms and press and information bureaus. Each delegation will have its own office in the building.

A special suite of rooms on the second floor has been reserved for the press, with complete telephonic and telegraphic facilities. The government also has erected a new short-wave transmission station to broadcast to the world, in the four languages of the conference as well as German and Italian, the daily deliberations of the parley.

Plenary sessions of the conference will be held in this room, the chamber of the Peruvian House of Deputies.

Ornate interior of the Palace of Government. Colorful diplomatic receptions are scheduled for this building.

STUDENTS READY TO GIVE 'VAGABOND KING' TONIGHT

The local high school will present Rudolf Friml's "The Vagabond King" in the new school auditorium at 8:15 o'clock tonight. The production is in four acts and includes dignified music, colorful costuming, exciting drama, graceful dancing and spectacular staging, it was stated.

In speaking of the production, Lynn Crawford, principal of the school, gave the following statement:

Ambitious Program

"The senior high school accepted an ambitious program when it decided to produce the musical play, 'The Vagabond King.' However, we had no hesitation in deciding upon it, for our various departments in school had been tested in producing such a show.

"'Sweethearts', given two years ago, proved that we could approach professional production. It is an enormous task to produce such a play in which over 400 students and many faculty directors have been and are participating.

"The entire group has co-operated most harmoniously in this undertaking. Much credit is due each director and group of students, and it is with pleasure that I express appreciation for the high school faculty and administration to each individual aiding in presenting the play."

Production Staff

The faculty production staff includes, director of music and drama, Herbert G. Bickel; director of orchestra, Kenneth Heiges; director of dancing, Miss Thelma Beggs; director of properties and painting, Miss Hazel Bemis; director of properties and painting, Miss Hazel Nell Bemis; director of costume construction, Miss Ruth Rowland; director of publicity, William T. "I wish you students would stop trying to use so many big words in your conversation. I can't understand what you're talking about."

Linda Bailey's father has been considered Centerville's wealthiest citizen, but he dies and leaves her impoverished. Linda sets out for Hollywood, over the protests of Fred Lancaster, who expected to marry her. En route she meets Martin Carstairs, movie star. In Los Angeles she takes an apartment with Mae Baxter, another screen aspirant. She begins to fall in love with Martin, but breaks with him when she hears he is secretly married to Judith Grange, actress, but always becomes infatuated with newcomers. Fred Lancaster comes to visit Linda and she and Mae stage a high-hat act to make him think Linda is a screen success. By chance they meet Martin, who invites them to dinner. Linda fights her former love for Martin. At dinner Judith Grange appears and tells Fred about Linda's humble job in a five-and-ten store. Heartsick, Linda takes Fred to the swanky apartment she has temporarily rented.

CHAPTER XXV

FRED'S eyes widened as the impressive doorman let them into the spacious and luxurious foyer of the Granada Arms. Women in gorgeous evening gowns and men in formal attire sat about on the divans.

"Have you been living here all the time?" Fred asked.

"You've been sending my letters here, haven't you?" Linda countered. "Did Judith tell you I'd been sleeping in the gutter and sneaking in the rear entrance to get my mail?"

Fred blushed, but persisted stubbornly: "I don't see why she would lie about it."

"But you think I would," Linda said. They left the elevator, and went down a heavily carpeted corridor to the apartment she had rented the day before. A light showed through the transom, and Linda stopped at the door, saying: "I expect Miss Baxter is here. She drops in quite often . . ." She tapped on the door.

Mae opened it and exclaimed: "Goodness, Linda! I thought you were never coming. I've been entertaining an unexpected guest from your home town."

Inside the apartment, Helen Debler was coming forward uncertainly.

Linda and Fred both exclaimed: "Helen!" and then there were a lot of garbled explanations, with Linda saying she must have missed Helen's telegram because she had rushed in from location just in time to meet Fred's train.

"IT's good to see you," Linda told Helen after the excitement subsided. "I suppose you'll be staying several days?"

"Well, no," Helen faltered, with a glance at Fred. "I planned to go back to Centerville on the midnight train That is, if Fred . . ."

"It will be nice for you to go back together," Linda exclaimed. Then added: "Should I . . . that is, are congratulations in order?"

Helen blushed. "What makes you think . . ."

"An item I read in the Centerville paper gave me the idea," Linda said composedly. "It said something about Fred buying an engagement ring before he left Centerville. And now that you've met him here, I just thought . . ." Linda left the sentence unfinished.

From the different expressions on the faces of Helen and Fred, she saw Fred knew nothing about the item, but that it had brought Helen to Los Angeles so hastily.

"It must be wonderful," Linda sighed, "to be able to settle down and marry without thinking of a career. Sometimes I wish I had chosen marriage instead of a career . . . for it certainly seems difficult to have both. But it's too late now."

Fred suddenly turned away, looking baffled and glum.

Helen laughed. "I'm so glad, Linda, that you're getting ahead. One of these days, I bet we'll be proud to say we knew you when!"

Fred pulled out his watch. "Well, Helen, if we're going to catch that train, I guess we'd better get started."

Helen threw him a soulful glance. "Okay, darling."

AS SHE rose to put on her things and as Fred helped her on with her coat, Mae drew Linda aside.

"What's the big idea?" she demanded. "A fine way you have of landing a guy, throwing him at another girl! I thought you were going to——"

"Oh, don't talk about it," Linda cut in impatiently. "All I know is that I'm so tired I could drop in my tracks. Playing half a dozen roles at one time for different people is awful. All I want now is to get them both out of here!"

Mae shrugged, and looked exasperated.

Linda moved over and joined Helen and Fred. "It's been so nice to see both of you, and I'm sorry you can't stay on for a few days . . ."

Fred didn't reply, but Helen smiled sweetly.

"I'll ride down with them, Linda," Mae offered. "You ought to get to bed." Then, she added slyly, "Don't forget you've got that big scene tomorrow—that sale in the five-and-ten, with hordes of shoppers mobbing you! You need to be rested and fresh for that scene!"

"Yes," said Linda, with a smile. "That's right."

And so, a few minutes later, she thankfully bade goodby to Fred and Helen, and sent them off with Mae.

WHEN they were gone, she sank onto the chaise longue, closed her eyes, and heaved a deep sigh.

She was glad that things had turned out as they had, and that Fred hadn't proposed. For she knew, now, that she could never have been even moderately happy with Fred. It seemed to her that she had known it all along—had just been trying to deceive herself.

Just as she had known, ever since that night Martin had kissed her, that she loved him . . . and had fought against that knowledge. Why did life have to be like this? Why did she have to fall in love with a married man? Oh, it was all so hopeless and mixed up.

She was sleeping, curled up on the chaise longue, when Mae returned. Tears had dried on her cheeks, and one fist was clenched tightly beneath her chin.

ORANGE COUNTY POULTRY NEWS

POULTRY BREEDER WINS L. A. AWARDS

Roger P. Minahan of Route 1 Garden Grove was very successful with the poultry he had entered in the Los Angeles County Poultry Show recently held at the Live Stock Yards Pavilion in East Los Angeles.

Minahan who is a graduate of the Poultry School in Davis, California, has been in the poultry business in Orange county for about three years. He is establishing a flock of Plymouth Rocks and has six breeds of Rocks at the present time, but entered only four breeds at the show. With his Buff Rocks Minahan secured first and second cockerel, first hen and first pullet. With the Columbian Rocks first on hen and pullet. In the Blue Rock class first cockerel and first hen while in the Partridge Rocks fourth cockerel and third pullet. Out of the eleven birds all secured ribbons except one which was disqualified because of wing feather molt. This is an outstanding record as Minahan was in competition with some of the leading poultry breeders of California.

In the past you have heard a good deal about China eggs being shipped into the United States for human consumption. Last year over four million pounds were shipped in while this year only around three hundred thousand pounds have been shipped in, and none of these have stopped in California. This has helped our local growers of poultry. The state law now requires all stores selling China eggs to display a sign saying they handle these eggs.

Most all feed companies have complete feed charts for poultry raisers and they are free for the asking. These charts if kept from day to day will give you a complete egg record chart for the month or year. The feed charts are also handy. Many bulletins are put out by these same feed companies and are free for the asking. One can always pick up something good out of these booklets. The farm bureau of the county has some new bulletins that are worth getting. The 1937 cost records are now out and worth looking over.

Christmas Turkey Struts His Stuff

Turkey raisers and produce dealers all over Orange county will be preparing hundreds of turkeys for the Christmas trade during the next two weeks—turkeys just like the one above. With one of the most favorable growing seasons in years, the turkeys this year are in fine shape and proper size to grace the table of Santa Ana and Orange county turkey eaters.

SURVEY SHOWS PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT FOR POULTRY PRODUCE

With one of the best outlooks in years for the egg producers, or at least until late in the spring, is the forecast of the United States bureau of agriculture economics at Washington, D. C.

The outlook for poultry producers, broiler producers and turkey producers is for a situation as favorable as last spring and with all indications to get better as compared with the year earlier.

More Feed

The total supply of feed grains will be baout 10 per cent larger than last year which gives the poultry man plenty of feed as compared to last year. This compared with the price of eggs feed is lower than usual and for once the poultry is getting a break. The prediction is that the feed cost will continue favorable to the poultryman.

This year's hatch of chickens was larger than last year, next year's hatch will be veen larger, so prediction is for more chickens—more chickens to market and more eggs to be marketed.

Indicaitons are for a favorable market for the larger production of eggs because of smaller cold storage holdings. Storage operators will probably have a successful season. Last half of the year is not expected to be so favorable. Probably larger storage stocks and weaker market. Better consumer incomes might offset this.

Lots of Turkeys

Turkey growers in some parts of the United States will have more turkeys to market this winter but the prediction is that they will do better than they did last year. The poult prices were lower and with cheaper feed urkeys have put on more weight. The carry over in cold sotrage is smaller than last year taking the country as a whole and people are at last getting to like turkey meat the year round and not just for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The turkey breeders are getting the breeding down to what the public wants now and many more turkeys are being killed for the Christmas trade. When one can get hen turkeys around 12 to 14 or 16 pounds for a small family and toms around 16 to 20 pounds the public buys more turkey.

"THE EGG BOWL"

Eat Eggs for Vitality

Eggs furnish protein in a very efficient form. This protein is readily utilized in the body for growth or repair. The egg yolk contains the important vitamins A, B and G, and is an outstanding source of vitamin D. The very important minerals, iron, calcium and phosphorous are found in the egg yolk in such form as to be readily assimilated. The egg yolk being one-third fat is capable of digestion in the stomach.

This week's recipe:

Holiday Fruit Cake (White)

5 egg whites, unbeaten
1 3/4 C. cake flour
1 Tsp D.A. baking powder
1/4 Tsp salt
1/2 C. shortening
3/4 C. sugar
1/4 C. candied cherries
1/2 C. citron, cut fine
1/2 C. seedless raisins
1/2 C. almonds, chopped
3/4 C. shredded coconut
1/2 Tsp almond extract
1/2 Tsp vanilla.

Sift flour; measure; add baking powder and salt and sift together. Cream shortening thoroughly; add sugar gradually; and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg whites, one at a time, beating after each addition until thoroughly blended. Add fruit, nuts, coconut and flavoring and mix well. Add flour, a small amount at a time. Bake in a greased loaf pan, 8x4x3 inches, lined with greased paper, in a slow oven (300 deg. F.) one hour and 15 minutes.

Daniel Boone's Home Restored

READING, Pa.—(UP)—The historical old Daniel Boone homestead will be reconstructed as a permanent memorial to the famous pioneer.

The movement to restore the historical homestead, located near here, was instituted by the Pennsylvania Historical Commission, which is looking into every detail to make it an outstanding attraction for American history enthusiasts.

Authenticity and simplicity will characterize the restoration work, historians said. It is planned to exhibit furniture and utensils of the pioneer days in the house when it is completed.

Tests Prove Efficiency Of New Celotex In Insulating Brooders

"Al" Prickett who lives on route one, Anaheim, has been carrying on quite an insulation test in cooperation with the Barr lumber company and the Edison electric company of Santa Ana. Trying outsome new insulation material called Celotex, Prickett has found he can save as high as 40 per cent on his heating element bill in his out door chick brooders.

The young baby chicks that are started each week on the Prickett poultry ranch need the best of care and the brooder was the place to start. These brooders are placed out of doors and are about four by ten feet in size and have an enclosed heating element in one end called the brooder section.

Is Box Affair

This section is sort of a box affair that takes the place of the old mother hen. In the top of this box is an electric element which is controlled by a thermostat wafer so the heat will stay the same even temperature all the time. Into one of these box brooders Celotex was added to the sides and top. In this way good insulation was afforded. The readings of the meters on the two brooders was recorded. The brooder with the insulation on the top and sides used only 103 K.W. in the twenty-four day test while the uninsulated brooder used 40 per cent more or 177 K.W.

Mr. Prickett is well convinced that it pays to insulate his many brooders and he tells the story of the family cat that is smart enough o know warm from cold. The old cat will not curl up and sleep on the insulated brooder any more but picks the uninsulated one as the heat comes through the boards and keeps her warm at night.

"Fine Lot Of Breeders Here"

The Leghorn breeding business is blessed with the finest lot of breeders in the business.

Even though we must acknowledge that the Leghorn breed was one that has always been endowed with a natural ability to produce eggs, had it not been developed by breeders who know their breeding, it would not be the greatest egg machine in the world today.

In the beginning it was nothing but a rough, odd-looking brown chicken. From it sprang many varieties, buff, brown, black and white were some of them. Good breeders took hold of all of these varieties. However, it was the white variety that commanded the attention of that great bunch of breeders to whom much credit must go for laying the foundation for the great commercial fowl Leghorns have become.

Leghorn Breeders On New Standard

Now that the A.P.A. convention is over and the little things attended to for the new standard of perfection, it will be placed for printing. So before the first of the year we should have then. for distribution.

All Leghorn breeders may now settle down to the new standard. There are no radical changes, although it will be noted that the male shows more vigorous comb and wattles and a greater fullness in the breast, sturdier in build, and more substance throughout. The female, more vigorous comb and wattles, slightly more fullness in fluff, studier in build and more substance throughout.

SHOWS STARTING

The big winter poultry shows are just getting under way. It is surprising the revived interest that one sees at these events. Many hatcheries are entering birds.

Pullet Selection Should Start Now

Did your last year's pullets live and lay as they should? If so, fine; stick to the fundamentals of last year's methods. If they failed to live and lay as they should, your first step this year will be to get healthy chicks.

Production of healthy pullets starts with the day-old chick directly from the incubator, and sometimes it must begin with the breeders. However, with high quality well-bred chicks it is generally sufficient to start with day-old chicks known to be free of pullorum (from good laying stock, of course).

Chicks and growing pullets must be kept entirely away from older chickens which are carriers of diseases and parasites to which young chickens are highly susceptible. Failure to met this requirement is often responsible for later losses of pullet layers due ot coccidiosis, fowl paralysis, leukemia (lucosis or big liver disease), fowl typhoid, cholera-like diseases, colds, roup, coryza (infectious colds) and worms.

Those are the diseases mostly responsible for low egg production and high rate of mortality in pullet layers. The best way to avoid such losses is by prevention.

HOW TO ENHANCE BEAUTY

All the beautiful small articles of furniture that help to make every room of the Santa Ana and Orange county home a real showplace, are not the least important in the new stocks acquired by the L. A. Dickey Furniture company at 1408-10 North Main street, which opens its new home tomorrow.

Hens In Indiana Lay 2-Yolk Eggs

PEKIN, Ind., Dec. 9. — George Bower's hens are really something, take it from him, and he isn't sure whether they have gone on "the step-up system" or just what.

But he does know that recently his hens have been laying eggs with double yolks. Bower brought in a dozen thirty-four-ounce eggs, topping by ten ounces the standard egg weight.

England's largest window is found in York Minster. The window is 75 feet high and 32 feet wide.

SERIAL STORY

LOVERS AWEIGH

BY BETTY WALLACE

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JUDY ALCOTT—admiral's daughter. She faced a choice between two navy suitors.

DWIGHT CAMPBELL—ambitious lieutenant. He faced a choice between his wife and duty.

JACK HANLEY—flying sailor. He faced a test of a patient love.

MARVEL HASTINGS—navy wife. She faced the test of being a good sailor.

Yesterday: Dwight pleads with Judy to go out with him, and even though she realizes that she should not since she is now wearing Jack's ring, she agrees to meet him.

CHAPTER XXVIII

JUDY knew, looking into the mirror before she went out to meet Dwight Campbell, that she had no right to do this. Jack Hanley's ring was on her finger. As she powdered her nose, the ring moved, it was so loose. She had forgotten to wind the string around it, to make it tighter.

Yet the girl in the mirror looked back at her with eyes that glowed with happiness. The softly curved mouth was not smiling, but in its corners there was none of the weary droop she had come to know so well, looking at herself innumerable times before she went out to face people.

Her pale gold hair waved around her face. The high forehead, the creamy skin, made a lovely picture. Not like Marvel of course. Not redheaded and spectacular and challenging. You'd never fail to notice Marvel, no matter where she was. She was an eyecatcher. Yet Dwight would rather be with Judy.

Her mother had gone to Mrs. Lane's, for which Judy was thankful. Not that mother ever questioned her suspiciously when she went out but— Her heart sank. Dwight was making her do so many things she had never done before! Why did it have to be so clandestine? It was only a harmless meeting. Just to talk for a few minutes. But the ring on her finger silently reproached her. She shouldn't be going.

SHE got into her car, almost defiantly.

Dwight was already waiting on the corner where they had met so unexpectedly, last time. He got into the car, saying, "I'm so glad you came! Things have been tough for me." He added, "You're looking beautiful."

"Don't, Dwight."

"But I mean it. You're like a—like a cool, soothing hand. The way you look is restful. Lovely. Friendly."

She laughed uncertainly. They drove for a few blocks, and then she said, "We oughtn't do this. We might—"

"Might run into someone who knows us, eh?" His voice was bitter.

"After all—" she said.

"Narrowminded fools!"

Judy's knuckles were white on the wheel. "But you are married, Dwight. And I'm engaged."

"That doesn't give dirty gossip a right to take pot shots at us."

"But—but—"

"Oh, I know, I've taken you into my arms, kissed you. I guess it sticks out all over me that I love you."

"You don't love me, Dwight," she said. "You're just lonely. You've had a bad shellacking, you're angry with your wife." She parked the car where they could look out at the water.

"Wife! She's getting a divorce," Dwight said.

"Are you sure?"

"Yes. I told you, she's going to Reno."

JUDY remembered Cary Tennant's narrow, predatory eyes, the aquiline cut of his nose. She said, "I'm sorry, Dwight."

"Why should you be sorry? I'm not. It was a mistake. Right from the first. We were never meant for each other. She's a spoiled, rich, selfish girl; and I'm a hard-working man who must maintain a difficult discipline."

"You're not maintaining it now, are you? Neither one of us. Yes, Dwight—that's true. The Navy has a stubborn discipline. They'd be hard to explain to if—if they ever—"

"That's making a mountain of a molehill," he said impatiently. "Our personal lives are our own. What I meant was that Marvel threw a fit every time I had to go to sea. I don't know what she'd have done if there had happened to be major fleet exercises—if I'd have had to leave her for months at a time."

"Just how much does your career mean to you, outside of getting ahead?" Judy asked suddenly. "Outside of the glamor and the promotion—what is there for you?"

"Glamor?" he repeated. "Precious little glamor in it. And if you mean do I love the smell of sea air, and the bucking of a destroyer in heavy weather, and all the other poetical and half-baked stuff ensigns spout—why—no, of course not. It's a hard life, and a narrow one. But it has its compensations."

"Getting to be an admiral?" she asked. "The taste of power—four starred blue flags and being piped over the side and twelve gun salutes. That what you mean?"

"That's glamor, too, and precious few ever get it."

"Still, it's what you mean, isn't it?"

HE did not deny that. She said thoughtfully, "You don't really love it. You could live without it. It isn't everything to you. You dread being passed over, and yet if you were, it wouldn't be a tragedy. You're self-sufficient, Dwight, and sooner or later your ambition would shape itself into some other career."

"How did we happen to get talking about this?" he asked. "Let's talk about the moon."

"I was thinking," she said. "Just thinking. Do you know, Dwight, my father collects books naval engagements, full-rigged ships, the old Iron Navy—even sea chanties and ballads. He—"

"And I suppose," he broke in acidly, "That Hanley collects dirigible history."

"He does," she replied quietly. "Airships from the first balloons through Count Von Zeppelin right up to Captain Lehmann's book."

"Because I don't, I'm not—"

"No," she said quickly. "No, that's not what I meant. It's just—oh—you don't understand."

"I understand this," he said, and reached for her. She cried, "Please don't, please don't!" She felt suddenly so ashamed, so soiled. How cheap this was! The feverish longing and the weary hopes that wore her out when she was away from him had changed into only this feeling of sneakiness, of humiliation that they should have to hide to be together. It spoiled everything. Destroyed the ache for his arms, the charm of his handsome face. Even the magic that his voice had once been able to work over her was gone. She knew only that she didn't want to be cringing in her car, away from the curious eyes of people, when all her soul longed for cleanliness, for the right to be free and proud.

An oncoming car swept its headlights over them, picking them out for a moment with a merciless flood of light. Judy cowered away from it, and then the car was alongside. It had stopped.

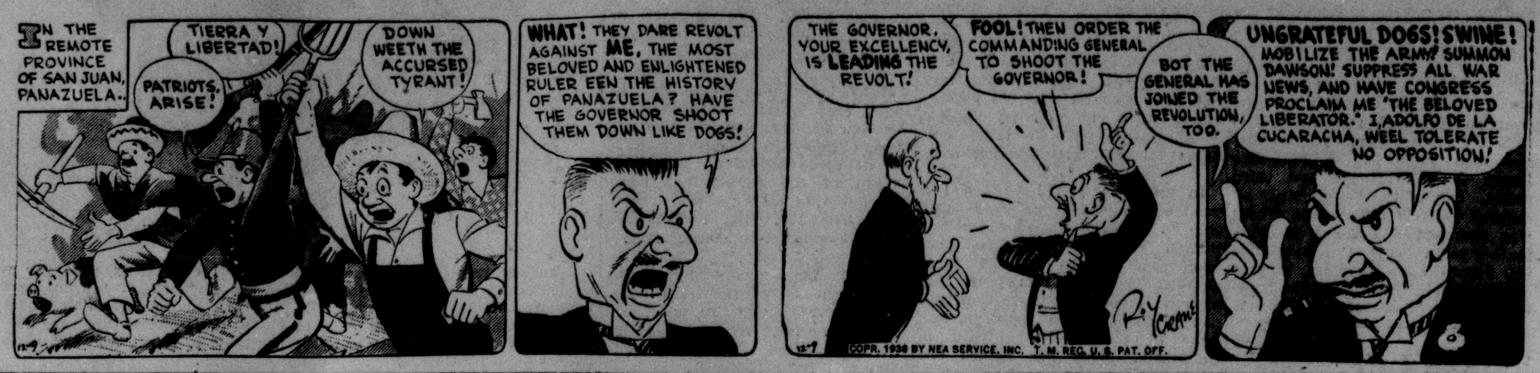

A woman's voice said bitterly, "So this is what you're up to!" With a gasp, Judy recognized Marvel's throaty tones.

SLOW HEARING

"My little daughter is in the seventh grade. Her teacher says that she is able to do the work, but she has to be prodded constantly to get her to attend. She sits and looks into space. She is a good child and never gives me any trouble. Last year she had to have an operation for mastoid, but is now quite recovered."

When a child has had a mastoid operation one should be on the watch for poor hearing. Sometimes it is destroyed by the operation, sometimes it results in what one might call "delayed hearing." The child does not hear as quickly as others and the teacher does not wait, or the opportunity to respond passes.

When a child has dull hearing much of what goes on in the classroom passes over his head. He does not know what people are saying. He hears most of what is said by those close to him, if they speak clearly, but he cannot hear what is said by those behind him. And remember that in school he is not supposed to turn about and look at those who are talking. You can see that he is severely handicapped in the classroom.

Because he loses some of the work each day he is soon hopelessly behind the class. His marks are bad, his work is poor, and his attention is elsewhere. He day dreams. What else can he do? He cannot hear affectively; he cannot work because he cannot hear, so what is he to do? He has to take refuge in his thoughts. His difficulty is not his inattention, but his poor hearing. It is necesary to attend to his hearing, not his lack of attention. He will attend when he hears. And he will learn.

Such children ought to have a careful examination by the ear specialist every three monthe. They should be placed close to the teacher, and the teacher should make a point of talking directly to them and make them hear. It is helpful to appoint a friendly, helpful child to assist the handicapped child. And, most important, such a child needs five minutes or so of personal attention from the teacher every day to keep him well up in hiswork. There are few such children, so the burden should not be too heavy for the grade teacher.

If the child is very hard of hearing he should have the privilege of going to a special teacher for grade instruction, two to three hours of the school day, and of working with his classmates in the common classroom the remainder of the time.

My experience with all sorts of handicapped children does not inspire me to suggest special schools or classes for them. I found we could do better with such children by scattering them through the grades and gathering them up again for special, personal help from an especially-trained, thoroughly-skilled teacher. Segregating them made them feel themselves isolated and doomed, subjected them to the gibes of unthinking classmates, made them thoroughly miserable. They have rights and they certainly have greet needs. School can help them a great deal.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a three cent stamped self-addressed envelope for reply.

ILLINOIS SOYBEAN KING

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—Illinois' record soybean production this year kept the state in first place with a crop equal to 3 per cent of the nation's total, according to figures released by the federal and state agricultural departments.

Bowling Green Plans Approved

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 9.—Directors of the Newport Harbor chamber of commerce have approved in general the plans to establish a lawn bowling green in the harbor district, a large group of citizens having expressed a keen interest in the project.

The special committee on "events," Hubbard Howe, chairman, will cooperate with the sponsors in securing the establishment of the proper greens in a desirable location. Fred P. Storey is temporary chairman and A. J. Twist acting treasurer of the group with William Jones contact officer with those interested. Trips to Riverside, Laguna Beach and many other places have been made by members of the group to study the program.

EXTENDING CIVIL SERVICE

The city council in the very near future evidently intends to extend the so called honor system, or civil service, to all departments of the city government.

From unimpeachable authority comes news to the effect that the matter has been given serious consideration by the members of the city council and that final steps will be taken this month or, at the latest, early in the new year.

Under the extension plan of the council the heads of all the departments who now hold appointive office, and all the workers under them, will be blanketed into civil service.

One or two of the councilmen question the wisdom of this movement and in this position they will have the support of many citizens. It is doubtful if under civil service the taxpayers will be given the best possible service attainable. Perpetuity in office does not lead to greatest efficiency and in many cases the exact opposite results.

All one has to do to get a picture of the honor system is glance at the turmoil in the Los Angeles city government where civil service has been in force for some time. Can anyone, by any stretch of imagination, say that government was and is efficient? Just how corrupt it has been under civil service only time will tell. It's ramifications can be only guessed at.

The Santa Ana city fathers could do much worse than give this weighty problem deep consideration before taking any action. Once the step is taken the hands of the council and those of the people are pretty well tied.

THE 1939 LEGISLATURE

Lawmaking time is just around the corner, with the 1939 session of the State Legislature scheduled to convene on the first Monday in January.

Scores of newly-elected legislators will take their seats in the Senate and Assembly at the January meeting—many, perhaps, anxious to revolutionize our social and economic system; others, in all probability, quietly resolved to represent their districts, without show or bombast, and to give the best that is in them, in honest, intelligent public service.

It is neither our province nor our purpose to tell California's Freshman class of legislators how they should vote on specific legislation. But if we correctly interpret public sentiment in Orange county, we believe the time has come to call a halt to visionary experimentation. We are all a little tired of get-rich-quick schemes and spectacular social panceas. We are a little irritated with junketing trips to Utopia.

Our advice to our new legislators—and we believe most of our readers will concur in it—is: Give us more quality in legislation, and less quantity. Give us plain, common sense business practice—and less overhead. Give us 50 bills, instead of 2000. And give us a relief from will'-o-the-wisp ventures, crack-pot schemes and class legislation. Instead of adding $50,000,000 to the budget, we'd like a $50,000,000 reduction. And that objective we recommend to both Freshmen and Veterans.

FOOTBALL FOR A DIME

Ten cents admission to a football game is the proposal of Robert Hutchins, President of the University of Chicago, for removing overemphasis and its attendant evils from college football.

Maybe Prexy Hutchins decided this was the top price he'd pay after watching the Chicago University football team during the last few years. Any sports writer, be he from Santa Ana or New York City, will agree that 10 cents is too much to pay to watch the Chicago varsity.

However, removal or reduction of the amount of money available to college sports departments would do much to clean up the game, Hutchins feels. He was the boy wonder of college presidents a few years ago. As the head of the great and richly endowed University of Chicago, he can launch there an experiment in sociology and advanced pigskin ethics that the world will watch with interest.

Thousands of football fans in the middle west and other sections of the country will be glad to cooperate in his purge of the wicked dollar from the gate. Meanwhile Dr. Hutchins' premise that people go to college to improve their minds can wait. That will be taken up by the Downtown quarterbacks right after the first locent Don football game in the municipal bowl

The Nation's Press

MR. ROOSEVELT ON MR. ROOSEVELT
(Chicago Tribune)

Mr. Roosevelt had a couple of weeks to think over the election returns in the quiet of Warm Springs, Ga., and on his return to Washington stopped off at Chapel Hill, N. C., to give the students and citizens the gist of his reflections.

Mr. Roosevelt's story is unchanged. He is right and his opponents are wrong. He and his associates are liberals and the opportunity of the country lies with them. The people who are not with him are not liberals. They would stop the clock. They are anti-social. They are selfish and have stood in the way of every progressive man in American history.

The friends of the American people are the men who support Mr. Roosevelt. By this mark you know them. By the brand of identification they include Mr. Hague of New Jersey, Mr. Quinn of Rhode Island, Mr. Browder of the communist party, Mr. Lewis of the C. I. O., Mr. Downey of the California Ham and Eggs, Mr. Murphy of Michigan, Benson of Minnesota, the La Follettes of Wisconsin, Guffey and Earle of Pennsylvania, the Chavez family of New Mexico, and all the politicians, who have used destitution as their trump card.

Mr. Roosevelt affirms for himself and these strange congeries of assorted self-seekers the superior virtue which alone understands the problems of the country and alone has the will to do economic and political justice to the people of the United States. This arrogation of a superior humanity and a greater wisdom has survived in Mr. Roosevelt's utterances, in spite of the record which is murky politically and calamitous economically.

Mr. Roosevelt's story is an old one. He welcomes the enemies he has made. He accepts as his accolade the report that he is very much disliked by persons whose enemity gratifies him. The personal feelings of many people for Mr. Roosevelt are no doubt bitter. These feelings are not very important politically because, in spite of the appeals to class consciousness and class hatred to promote New Deal schemes, the country at large has not yet lost its saving grace of an even temper, the country still believes it can work out its political destiny without the hatreds that prevail where prejudice is used as the sovereign argument and rancor is the substance of unity.

People who have suffered a great deal from Mr. Roosevelt's activities may feel bitterly. It would be natural if they did. And let no New Dealer take to himself the comforting unction that all these people are persons of wealth and selfish motives. There are thousands of whom Mr. Roosevelt has never heard who in the last six years have lost more savings than ever disappeared in a bank collapse. Because of the intolerant and insistent policies of destruction which the New Deal so merrily has pursued thousands of unknown, modest, hard-working people have reflected, probably bitterly, upon the conduct of a government which professes so much and takes them so little into consideration. They were heard from in the election, the meaning of which Mr. Roosevelt endeavors to conceal from himself.

The people have been very patient and they were disposed to support any reforms which to their way of thinking had not only good intentions but took all national welfare into account intelligently. Mr. Roosevelt may look back on the record and see that he had support of the majority of the American people until it became clear to all who would see that he was not wise and was not himself a temperate, considerate administrator such as should be in charge of national affairs when a depression was lengthening its painful course far beyond the limits of anything the American people had ever experienced before.

Lack of confidence, which was expressed in the vote of the Nov. 8 election, was fully justified by everything that the people have had presented to them. Even John L. Lewis says that today there are still as many persons unemployed as in 1933 "after all these years of experimentation." Mr. Roosevelt has the unique and undesirable distinction of having picked up hard times in 1933 and by the political manipulation of the factors of recovery continued the depression with undiminished rigor and severity well into the middle of his second term.

Whatever statistics he may now use to prove that conditions in the United States are not what they should be must be furnished him by administrators who have had absolute power in this county for nearly six years. The conditions are their work and his work. He gives himself praise and declaims against the private enterprise which has been prevented by him from doing what private enterprise has always done in adversity before in the United States. Hitherto it has always come out of the unfortunate and little understood lapses into which this progressive nation has sunk temporarily.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

PAGANISM IN SCHOOLS

Probably the average reader is horrified at the statement that there is Paganism in schools and churches; but this Paganism has crept over us so subtly and gradually we have not recognized what was taking place.

And what do we mean by Paganism? We mean worshiping false gods. The false gods that are worshipped in the schools and churches are that it is more blessed to receive than to give and that the majority has the right by passing some law to overrule and dominate the inalienable right of an individual.

One of the primary principles of the philosophy of Christianity is that the individual must have the right to make decisions without coercion so that his character, his personality, his individuality, his spirit will be permitted to develop. This freedom of choice is coupled with and complimentary to the belief that it is more blessed to give than to receive. And this happiness that comes from giving does not include the right to give things or ideas to people that will do them harm simply because the giving causes the person making the gift to be happy.

The public schools follow the Pagan practice of coercing. They are willing to coerce by the voting majority forcing children to attend school and citizens to contribute to instruction in which the individual does not believe. This coercion differs only in degree to the coecion of a dictator with an army. The kind of Pagan coercion used in the schools is to have the sheriff sell the property of the rebelious Christian who objects to the kind of coerced education for which he is forced to pay, if he refuses to follow the prescribed rules of the majority, while the Pagan dictators use the army to force the individual to do as told.

It is important that the schools begin to realize that it is a form a Paganism to coerce and force children to be dominated by majority rule. And to force a man to contribute to something in which he does not believe, is to adopt the philisophy of Paganism. For any group of individuals to have the power to force another by majority rule, or with an army, is to adopt the principle that it is more blessed to receive power than to give liberty.

It is undoubtedly because there is so much Paganism taught in the schools and churches that we have thrown things out of parity and, as a result, we are short, at the present time, 20,000,000 jobs.

UPTON SINCLAIR'S NEW BROCHURE "YOUR MILLION DOLLARS"

I have just read with interest Upton Sinclair's new 32-page booklet which is purported to be letters addressed to a friend who is worth a million dollars. I agree with Mr. Sinclair that those people who have a million dollars should attempt to understand, if they are capable, why we have 10 or 12 million people out of work for the longest time in our history. I do not believe that the rich people have devoted enough of their time and energy in attempting to understand the fundamentals of good government; that they owe it to the rest of society to make an effort to understand and to try to bring about public opinion that will make it possible for people to get more for every hour of their work they want to sell.

I also agree with Mr. Sinclair that we are facing a much darker future than many of the rich people seem to realize.

There is one sentence in the booklet which Mr. Sinclair quotes from a pamphlet he had written 13 years ago, that shows Sinclair was thinking clearly along some lines, if not in others. He said, "The American banking system is the most perfect contrivance yet devised by the human brain for making the rich richer and the poor poorer."

Otherwise, with the exception of what is above mentioned, his pamphlet is filled with pleasant illusions. One of the most outstanding illusions is the last sentence, when he says that if his thesis seems to you sound, "do your part in helping educate others to it. That is the only way 'new ideas' can get circulated in our world of organized self-interest."

As if he had a single new idea in the whole pamphlet. The illusions that he has suggested have been tried times without number, and, yet, Sinclair speaks them as "new ideas!"

Now That the Elephant Is Back on His Feet

General Hugh S. JOHNSON SAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—How will Congress ever regain its Constitutional power of the purse? It was surrendered in 1933 by delegating a great part of the duty to appropriate money for particular purposes. This was done by the device of lump-sum appropriations by the billions to the President with little more definition than that they should be spent for "recovery and relief". That might mean and has meant almost anything. First it has meant unlimited extravagance.

It could not be honestly justified at all under the Constitution except on the ground of acute emergency. There was an acute emergency in 1933. This Administration has made it chronic.

The Constitution provides that no money shall go out of the Treasury except on Congressional appropriation. This is pretty broad but, in conscience and common sense, there are questions of degree. Almost half the money now spent is under lump-sum authority. If that is O. K., why should not Congress meet, appropriate nine billions for "all purposes of government, recovery and relief" and then adjourn? Or why shouldn't it simply appropriate "all the money there is for any purpose whatever" and, so to bed.

Nothing like that was intended in the Constitution. That document was no man's invention. It largely crystalized the long struggle against the King for democratic government in England. That was successful principally through the growing insistence of Parliament that to it alone belonged the power of the purse—the power to raise revenue and to say how it should be spent.

When the King had lump-sum authority, he was absolute. When Parliament finally took it, he became a "constitutional monarch." It is democratic rampart No. 1. It is absurd to think that the Constitution did not preserve it.

All this money comes from the States and the Congressional districts. If Congress appropriates it, each has representation in saying how it shall be spent. If the President or Harry Hopkins or the Corcoran White House janizariat appropriate it, every Senator, Congressman, Governor or Mayor must come hat in hand to these absolute managers to get back for their people a share of their own money. To get it is vital for any politician. If he doesn't get it, his people are discriminated against and have to pay increased taxes for necessary local purposes—higher local levies to provide the share shunted through the Federal machine and never returned.

The Third New Deal has made this process of returning local contributions a matter of political preferment. You get it if you vote "right". Otherwise you don't. There could not be an intangible force more destructive of an independent representative system of democratic government.

Furthemore, the record shows that the money is taken from poorer and more needy States where the political situation is "in the bag" and spent in shocking excess and unfairness in richer and more prosperous States where the political result is doubtful. As well as being destructive of representative government, the system also saps at the very solidarity of the Union.

Now there is conjecture of purpose to New Dealize national defense by lump-sum appropriation and amateur planning of rearmament. Providing, supplying and maintaining the Army and Navy is another specific Constitutional duty of Congress, probably not subject to delegation at all.

An end must be put to this somewhere, osmetime. Just at present with so many WPA and PWA projects on the books without appropriation and the "Fourth" or Armament New Deal coming up, there is an easy short-cut. Congress could call for all these approved projects, make its own selections, appropriate for them specifically, can the rest and refuse any but reasonable lump-sum grants. It could thoroughly investigate the rearmament program and refuse to appropriate for it except specifically.

This is no minor matter of trifling heckling of the Third New Deal. It touches a necessity of nearly first magnitude in the preservation of our Constitutional democracy.

FAIR ENOUGH
By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—I don't know how it is out around the rest of the country, but here in New York some people with dough have developed the most curious notion of social life for a young girl. Some of our very best families—"chauffeur families" they are called by way of social and economic classification—think that a kid of 15-16 or so is missing life and opportunities to marry well unless she is encouraged to hang around saloons at night dressed up like a prosperous alimony job and feel that she is struggling on the grade if she gets home much before the old man gets up to go to work. They are called debutantes, which means that the family has hired a big hall in some hotel and tossed an enormous drunken party for a kid by way of announcing that she is now on the market for her first husband. The original intent of the debut was to present a little housekept chickadee for the inspection and appraisal of society and place her in circulation. But there is no society any more, and, anyway, these young ones usually have jumped the gun by a year or two and know and are known by most of the more prominent saloonkeepers, bartenders and bar flies long before the old gent and the old lady formally slip the leash.

A lady journalist on the society run tells me that, in the lack of real society now in the old sense of the word, it has become necessary to import young dress suit stags from colleges to drink the wine and scuffle with the young ladies in the dance numbers with the old man paying their expenses to and from. She says there is a regular debut agency which supplies such stags in any desired number.

But the net result of the debut is nothing more than an epidemic hangover and a deep wound in the old man's roll because our social belle already knows most of the guests and doesn't remember the names of the professional stags and has no motive to see them again considering that they are only gigolos, after all. An old doll with a lot of money and a neck all twisty and scrawny like a bridge cable can take an interest in a "jig," but a deb still has her artistic or professional pride.

The true object of the debut binge and the night-prowling of the pretty little thirps—and no two ways about it, some of them would knock your eye out—seems to be to obtain publicity. Publicity in the daily papers is good, publicity in the Sundays is a little bit special, but publicity in the society slicks, those magazines of no circulation which advertise jewelry and expensive saddles and country estates that nobody ever wants to buy—that kind of publicity in this country is equivalent to mention in the British court circular.

The publicity is no good to the debutantes or their old gents and old ladies, but they think it makes them very social and imagine that everybody is mentioning their names enviously, and that makes them feel good. But actually publicity is good only in case a man has something to promote to sell and should be addressed to the market. This publicity about little, immature kids is about 99 per cent wasted because it goes out to an audience composed of all classes, including a few potential buyers or clients. It sums up as mere notoriety.

It might be interesting to wonder why the papers make so much publicity for such a very few individuals, but I just can't guess as to that, because in the beginning practically all of these kids are total nobodies and the daughters of nobodies, and it would be just as sensible to cover every bar and grill, every dance hall in New York and nearby New Jersey and run paragraphs and pictures about young girls out for a little fun who work in offices and factories. Do you suppose we can be snobs in this business and believers in our own glamorization of the saloon life of the very few?

But to get back to the original idea, most of us have always felt sorry for the little daughters of the poor who, having no better raising or no home circle to which they may invite their gentlemen friends, are forced to frequent saloons for the social side of their life. The sociology blokes always told us that was too bad, and yet, for our confusion, we now find some of our very best families, judged on the basis of their street addresses, sending their fairest and tenderest buds out dramming in the jooks until all hours.

Spectacles Invented in 13th Century Mean a Great Deal to Us Today

Generally the invention of spectacles is credited to Salvino degli Armati, an Italian banker of the 13th century. However, many people insist that he did not really invent them but that, as a banker, he took them over from some medieval glassmaker of Venice. Magnifying lenses were already known, and apparently it occurred to somebody to put two lenses together so that they could be held before the eyes.

The famous traveler, Marco Polo, credits the Chinese with using spectacle lenses before 1260 A. D. These lenses were made out of rock crystal.

Dr. W. H. Crisp points out that spectacles are among the greatest blessings of our scientific era. They have vastly prolonged the usefulness of the lives of most of us and they have brought happiness to innumerable people whose eyes are anatomically unsuited to normal vision. According to this historian, the earliest known lens was made of rock crystal and was found in the ruins of Nineveh by Sir Henry Layard.

For nearsighted people who require concave lenses, disccvery of suitable lenses came much later. There is an oil painting of Pope Leo who lived at the beginning of the 16th century and who was quite nearsighted. The painted shows him holding a single round concave glass in his hand.

Since that time lenses for vision have improved tremendously. The modern lens takes care of all important aberrations of vision. Most people nowadays have learned to feel old-fashioned in a flat lens and the modern spectacle-maker curves the lenses in various ways. The national American habit of keeping abreast of the times makes us willing to pay whatever may be necessary in order to have eyeglasses that are not only helpful to vision, but which also have a fine appearance.

Lenses are now available which enable the person who wears them to see both near and far without straining the muscles of the neck.

Some people still are prejudiced against the wearing eyeglasses, but it is a prejudice which is disappearing rapidly not only because of education in common sense, but also because of the magnificent technical advances in the development of eyeglasses.

YOU AND YOUR Nation's Affairs

Business Has Wings
By ERNEST MINOR PATTERSON
President, American Academy of Political and Social Science

There has appeared in the press the startling announcement that a process has been perfected for spinning and finishing rayon thread "200 times faster than methods in use for a generation." This follows a statement of only a few weeks earlier, telling of an improvement in the quality of rayon that will add greatly to its durability without any sacrifice in its appearance.

The writer is entirely unable to discuss these statements critically. He knows too little about the technical aspects of the industry. But such announcements as these are common, and many, many times they have been substantially correct, even if occasionally there has been some exaggeration or too much optimism. New discoveries of an almost unbelievable kind are appearing with great rapidity.

It is clear that no business man can afford to relax his efforts merely because he has a well established market for an old product. He may learn, any morning, that a competing product has appeared that will suddenly displace his own. Or a new and much cheaper process may be found against which he cannot compete with his present methods. He may find that his "business has wings" and has flown away.

Investors, too, need to be alert. Seasoned securities—stocks and bonds in old, settled lines of production,—may quickly fall in value because of such changes as the ones mentioned above. Even the shrewdest of investment specialists are perplexed and find it hard to advise intelligently.

Then there are the workers in industry and in agriculture. The other day there came an announcement of a machine that would displace hand labor by going through the corn fields and picking the ears of corn. Whether this will prove a practical device is perhaps not yet proven, but if it does the effect on the demand for farm labor will be serious. The same may be said of machines for picking cotton.

In industry there is a similar situation. Machinery can and does displace labor and if wages are pushed by union demands to a point where machine processes are cheaper, laborers may be discharged. These reductions in employment weaken the bargaining power of labor unions. They may easily err in pressing their demands too far. Some employers may be literally forced to introduce machinery in order to keep their costs down and avoid bankruptcy. Others will feel the pressure from their security holders who are constantly demanding interest and dividends.

All of us as citizens are concerned. As these shifts come, our public problems are increased in number and in size. Modern economic life is so intricate that an important breakdown anywhere affects everybody. For example, if modern motor transportation causes serious difficulty and perhaps bankruptcy for some of our great railways, the life insurance companies and the savings banks and, through them, a large fraction of the public become involved. As citizens we cannot stand idly by. How we should handle the problem is debatable but it is a matter of public concern.

The same is true of labor displacement. It is now quite generally agreed that it is a public duty to care in some way for the unemployed, especially for those who through no fault of their own are unable to find work. This does not mean that we must accept W P A or P W A or E R B or any other special agency now in existence. They may have weaknesses and perhaps should be displaced. But either these methods or others will presumably be used in the future because of the widespread effects of large scale and continuous unemployment.

New machines and processes are to be welcomed. Also it should be said that their significance is often exaggerated by ballyhoo. Nevertheless they are raising acute problems for all of us.

The Merry-Go-Round
By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Federal Communications Commission officials have uncovered a trail in their radio monopoly probe that may bring a score of leading movie stars to the Capital for a public hearing.

The FCC is interested in the glamour queens and kings who are starring on national radio programs. The Commission has nothing against the movie people. All it wants from them is information. The real quarry is the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Investigators have discovered that agencies operated by the radio corporations have a practical monopoly on the placing of movie and opera stars on radio programs. Through their artists service bureaus, NBC and CBS act in the dual capacity of representing the stars and also the advertisers who employ them.

On the one hand the two chains are supposed to get the best possible terms for the performers; on the other, they are supposed to do the same for the time buyers.

Information in the hands of the FCC is that through a secret tie-up with the Metropolian Opera Company of New York, NBC and CBS have an iron-bound monopoly on the placing of concert stars on programs over their systems. This control is not so complete in the movie field, but the chain agencies do most of the business.

FCC authorities consider this situation extremely undesirable and directly counter to the spirit, if not the letter, of the anti-trust laws.

Note—Among the stars who may be summoned to Washington are Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour, Don Ameche, Edgar Bergen, Bob Burns, Carole Lombard, Adolphe Menjou, and Miriam Hopkins.

Biggest untold story in Germany is that Frau Goebbels, wife of the little, club-footed Propaganda Minister and No. 3 Nazi, has left him and is preparing to get a divorce. Reason for the rift is Goebbels penchant for actresses.

Private reports are that General Goering is using the affair to undermine Goebbels with Hitler. Goering and Goebbels hate one another, never speak except at public gatherings, where they do so only for appearance's sake.

Call It Un-American

When "Pins and Needles", hit musical satire of the International Ladies Garment Workers, opened in Washington, one song was specially emphasized for the benefit of Chairman Martin Dies of the un-Americanism committee.

The lyric, dedicated to "Joe Jingo," went as follows:

"If you find you can't reply to your opponents, why don't try to—
Call them Un-American . . .
If the union you're attacking
Doesn't fear the whip you're cracking
Call it Un-American.
If you rouse to indignation
All the recent population
Call it Un-American.
When the gravy that you're getting keeps the taxes mounting higher
When you thunder 'I'm the Law' and people answer, 'You're a Liar' Simply throw a few red herrings and with patriotic fire
Call them Un-American."

Note—John L. Lewis planned originally to see the show Monday night, but switched to Wednesday night to be a guest of the CIO Federal Employes Union. When William Green heard this he changed his plans and went Monday night, sitting in a box next to Secretary Frances Perkins.

GOP Newcomers

Forest A. Harness, rookie congressman from Indiana, was a government attorney in the prosecution of the late Samuel Insull, utility magnate . . . Henry O. Talle from Iowa is a graduate of Annapolis . . . Foster Stearns, newcomer from New Hampshire, is the son of Frank W. Stearns, intimate of President Coolidge . . . Frank C. Osmers jr. of New Jersey is not only the youngest member of the new crop (he is 30) but also a gem expert and appraiser . . . Thomas R. Ball of Connecticut, A.E.F. veteran, is a Son of the American Revolution . . . Robert B. Chipperfield of Illinois is the son and was the secretary of former Congressman B. M. Chipperfield . . . Joshua L. Johns of Wisconsin was the secretary of former Governor Fred Zimmerman . . . Representative A. F. Maciejewski, Chicago Democrat, won his nomination over 16 opponents.

One-Man TVA

A major recommendation of the TVA investigators will be to substitute a single Administrator for the existing three-man board.

A majority of the committee believes that more efficient and harmonious direction of the great project would be obtainable from a single administrative head. While the present two directors, Dr. Harcourt Morgan and David Lilienthal, get along amicably, the Congressmen feel there is nothing to prevent the outbreak of new dissension in the future.

The majority report of the committee will also reject the charges of Arthur Morgan, ousted TVA chairman, against his two former colleagues. Morgan made a very sour impression on most of the investigators, and their report will reflect that feeling.

Note—Francis Biddle, counsel for the committee and chairman of the original Labor Relations Board, is high on the list of possibilities to succeed Solicitor General Robert Jackson if the latter is named Attorney General.

Electric Razors

The hot price war among electric razor manufacturers is being closely eved by the monopoly probers. The Justice Department is making an investigation of the patent phase of this battle. If certain reports received by authorities pan out, the warring manufacturers will be put on the witness stand for a public quizzing.

Costly Bedbug

The U. S. Bureau of Prisons makes a fetish of cleanliness in federal institutions. It is very proud of its record in keeping them spotless. When the New Orleans penitentiary was opened several years ago the superintendent offered to pay $1 for every bedbug found by an inmate.

The bounty was never claimed—until the other day, when a prisoner turned in one of the pesky creatures. But his reward was the smallest cost of the episode. Distressed officials ordered every cot and piece of bedding in the prison deloused at a cost of several thousand dollars.

New Stamp Rules

The post office department has completed arrangements for the issuance of coils and books containing stamps of the new presidential series, previously placed on sale in sheet form only.

"Due to the conditions of manufacture," the department said, "assurance cannot be given that stamps of selected quality will be used on covers serviced in the Washington post office."

First Days

Many have asked about the First Day covers of United States stamps. with the stamps at issue on them. They also bear besides the stamp the post office where issued with date of issue and time of day and the post mark reads now "First Day of Issue". First days of issue is the day the stamp is first issued and not the next day at some other town or city. For example: The "First Day of Issue" of the World's Fair or the Golden Gate International Exposition commemoratives will be at the World's Fair post office. New York City, April 30th and not at Flushing or Washington, D. C. the next day. t is the same with the Golden Gate commemorative. It will be from the post office at Treasure Island on Feb. 18, 1938 and not at Oakland or Washington, D. C., the next day. Do not be misled by this first day cover advertisements.

Christmas And Stamps

The religious spirit of Christmas has influenced the designs and issues of postage stamps throughout the world. Many characters of the Bible have been the subject of stamp printings and in numerous instances the great religions of humanity have been idealized by postal paper portraying their Deities.

The pagans of ancient days held the sun in awe and veneration as the ruler of all. The Incas, in Peru, made much of sun worship. This is revealed in the present-day designs of the Peruvians.

Although the civilization of Egypt was one of the great steps of progress in ancient days, they had many Gods to which they bowed. Modern Egypt shows many of these age old deities on stamps.

One of the finest issues ofstamps of religious design was made by Italy a few year after the World War. A set was printed depicting Christ Among His Disciples. The appearance of this set created a storm of protest from people in various parts of the world. They deemed the cancelling of the designs blasphemy as the obliteration might strike the image of Christ. The Italian postal officials reassured them that the stamps would be carefully cancelled to avoid marking the Holy Figure.

The most outstanding set issued in recent years is the magnificent creation of the Vatican City. For the first time in history an actual scene from the Bible is reproduced. A splendid engraving showing the immortal Elijah ascending toward the heavens in a chariot given him by the angels is the most outstanding in this series. As the Vatican City is in itself a religious state, all of its designs must be placed in this category. It is a singular fact that the only other stamps outside of St. Peter's portraying Pope Pius were those released by Spain revealing His Holiness wearing the triple crown of the Popes.

Off Market

The 1c and 2c navy commemorative and the 3c Texas commemorative have been withdrawn by the United States post office department's philatelic agency.

5 President Coolidge

The number of $5 President Coolidge stamps sold the first day was 19,600 with a value of $98,000. The number of first day covers was 15,615. The number of first day covers with blocks of four was 766. This was about six more thousand than the writer figured. It shows that there is around 15,000 sets of first day covers of the presidential issues out. This set will be of great value in a few years. The $1 now is selling for six times face and has only been out eight weeks.

Stamps Are A Solace

It is neither my province nor my intention to moralise here upon the political evils of our time. I am a philatelist speaking to other philatelists on the subject of our common hobby—stamps. I mention the central European crisis at all merely because, from among its lesser rerepercussions, there have emerged two circumstances of particular interest to stamp collectors.

Stamps Are Steady

The first of these is that, although the stock markets of both London and New York have waves of depression corresponding in intensity with the anxiety of the moment, there has been no noticeable rush to dispose of stamp collections or stocks of stamps. This is all all the more remarkable when one remembers that million commercial shares were flung upon the American market in a single day.

The second circumstance is that, on the whole, the trade done by stamp dealers has been well up to the level expected at this time of the year. In fact, if one may judge by the volume of advertisements carried by the leading stamp magazines the boom has indeed commenced; and, as an editor, let me tell you that there is no more reliable gauge of the prosperity of a trade than the advertisement figures of a recognised medium for that trade.

These facts prove the soundness of the theory that,stamps as a form of property are as safe in the midst of unsettling conditions as any investment can be, and safer than most others by far. This is in accordance with our experience during the Great War, when stamps were less affected by the jitters than almost any other kind of holding, and in troublous times since then, when people involved in upheavals of various sorts have discovered stamps to offer about the only means of preserving personal property from becoming a total loss. Their compactness, the ease with which they can be protected, transported and, if need be, concealed, and their ready marketability under almost all conditions, combine to render stamps a form of security with rather better than gilt-edged qualifications.

The eye impairment known as a cataract is the fogging of the lens by a sort of tumor growth. It can be corrected by surgery when the cataract is fully developed, but may disappear without drastic treatment in some cases.

Traffic Rises On Mississippi

MARQUETTE, Ia. (UP)—Traffic on the Mississippi river has increased tremendously during the past shipping season.

An indication of the amount of traffic is gained from the fact that the Milwaukee railroad pontoon bridge here, which has to be open for an average of 15 minutes to allow passage of a boat, has been open approximately seven full days since last March 28 when the first tugboat went downstream.

In 1937 a total of 408 boats passed the 276-foot pontoon, while this year the figure is expected to be exceeded by almost 300. By mid-November, approximately 675 boats had passed. In 1936 the number of boats was only 349.

The number of barges plying the river also has increased, with 273 going through during October alone.

Creation of a new channel and locks is credited with increasing the use of the Mississippi for freight shipping. Most of the barges carry oil, coal, machinery or grain.
